Radio No Longer Plaything.

When a Chicago boy can sit down at a table in his own home and talk by radio with boys in Iowa, Pennsylvania and other states, and probably in the near future, with other nations, he is pretty likely to be more interested in that than in the pool room down the street.

Two years ago radio was considered more as a plaything for the amateur electrical inventor except where it was used by government experts. Today it is almost a household word and the present generation of youngsters discuss radio apparatus, broadcasting stations, etc., in a language which their elders do not understand.

Radio as a means of reaching every nook and corner of the world instantly is going to be one of the greatest civilizing influences ever bestowed upon mankind.

Don't laugh at the boy when he talks about radio. Help him set up his little set and take an interest in it yourself, and before you know it you will be talking the same language as the boy and interesting yourself in affairs you never dreamed of.

Why Not do Business with the People?

The Portland Railway Light and Power company is building a new plant on the Clackamas river, and is selling a million dollars in securities. It sells these securities in amounts as low as $98 a share, pays 7.14 per cent interest, payable quarterly, and sells direct to the people.

Contrast the state of Oregon selling highway and irrigation bonds at 10 or 15 per cent discount through brokers who resell to the people.

The state guarantees interest and authorizes the irrigation and highway securities, but does not sell to the people but to middlemen.

With the state treasury and all the county treasuries and city and school treasuries at its command, why does the state enrich the brokers?

Why should not the state deal directly with the people in making a loan, as did the federal government in making the liberty loans?

To hear a lot of brokers, trust company lawyers and shark middlemen fight over a state loan to get a big rake-off ought to make people think.

TELLS OF SUCCESS IN CATCHING MOLES

To the Editor of the Gresham Outlook:—Up to two years ago I had the settled conviction that one must endure the plague of moles as he would the weather. But last year I undertook to defend myself, at least to guard the immediate dooryard. With six traps not very well attended, I caught 37 moles in three months, and very visibly reduced the damage the little brutes were doing in the garden and on the lawn. Less than a month ago I began setting these traps again. In 24 days I have caught 34 moles. Last Thursday I caught six, and last Saturday seven. Of these seven, five were taken in one trap out of one hole. That particular hole has furnished 12 moles, all full grown or nearly so. The most of this year's catch have been taken out of six or seven holes, and most of them a few steps from the house. We certainly do appreciate the reduction of damage the trapping has affected.

There is no particular trick about getting the moles, though about as many of our traps are still sprung without catching as otherwise. The government issues a bulletin telling how to trap the mole. I learned from that publication.

GUARD CAMPS WILL BE DRY, DRIER, DRIEST

The time of holding the training camps for the members of the national guard is near at hand. Adjutant General Geo. A. White has issued strict orders insuring that these camps will be bone dry. The order bars not only intoxicating liquor, but "alcoholic or spirituous beverages of any sort" and makes it the duty of every officer and man to make prompt report of the presence of any liquor, fermented juices or "home brew" and to arrest on the spot any "bootlegger" who may attempt to approach a troop train or camp with his wares.

In referring to this stringent section of the orders, General White said that no past trouble with liquor had ever been experienced and that the order was purely preventative and precautionary because of the fact that the Oregon men will be in camp with large forces from all parts of the northwest in June. "The purpose of national guard training is to build good citizenship among the young men," he said, "and it is mandatory that the training camps be surrounded with a wholesome moral atmosphere."

Preparations have been practically completed for the largest camps ever held from Oregon. The coast artillery troops will leave on June 12 for Fort Barry, California, while the 41st division troops will go to American Lake June 16. All will remain in camp 15 days for intensive field training. The camp at American Lake will include national guard and regular army troops from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. More than 2000 men will go from Oregon, according

COLLEGE GIVES RULES FOR WATERING LAWNS

Lawns should be drenched when they are watered and then left alone for a few days, said A. L. Peck, professor of landscape gardening and floriculture at the Oregon Agricultural College. A light sprinkling does the grass more harm than good.

"Shallow watering forces shallow rooting of grass," said Professor Peck. "The tendency of roots is to grow towards the water. If the water does not soak deeper than an inch or two the roots will grow toward it and as the soil will dry out quickly the roots will dry up and die. If enough water is put on to soak in four or five inches, the top part will dry but there will be water deeper in to supply the roots."

"Water soaks into the ground very slowly, so to gain the best results put a sprinkler on one part of the lawn and go away and forget for the watering period. Very few persons have the time or patience to hold a nozzle long enough to sprinkle a lawn correctly. The grass should be watered copiously, drenched, part at a time, and then left alone for four or five days. One good plan is to divide the lawn into sections, watering one section for the entire time allowed for
