

Fire Prevention.

The National Fire Protection association at its annual convention in Chicago recommends a number of ways to reduce fire losses. Most of those appeal to the common sense of all of us.

On the question of damages for loss resulting to innocent persons from preventable fires it endorses a more general legal recognition of the common law principle of personal liability for damage resulting from fires due to carelessness or neglect, and the enactment of laws or ordinances fixing the cost of extinguishing preventable fires upon citizens disregarding fire prevention orders.

This is strictly in accord with the law which allows damages to our injured party resulting from another's carelessness in operating an automobile, elevator, railroad train, street car, amusement park, mechanical equipment, ect. Then why not some redress against the person who is careless with fire?

The association also urged municipal ities to adopt the standard building code in order that fire-resistive construction may be encouraged.

Also that states adopt building and fire protection requirements for public and private hospitals, schools, asylums and the like, and that an official investigation into the causes of all fires be required.

Perhaps the wisest recommendation of all is that pleading for the education of the children and the public generally in careful habits regarding the use of fire.

The people we don't like aren't so bad after all when we come to understand them.

When one hits upon some line that affords happiness and health it's a good thing to follow it up.

Now a strange thing happens. In New Jersey klansmen appeal to the courts for protection against mob violence.
