HARDING LAUDED FOR IDEALS.

Divergent as are the opinions of Americans and sharp as are the clashes over party issues and candidates, the heart of America is sound and true.

The latest event that impresses this fact is the death of President Harding. However much his policies were opposed by individuals and party organs, all now join in eulogies of the man and commend him for his sincerity and his wisdom.

The Oregon Sunday Journal has this to say: "May be out of this shock which we have just felt—out of this mourning, in which all the country joins—we shall all have a greater forbearance and a kinder mood for the nation's chief."

"Warren Harding was a growing president. His innermost thoughts and purposes were slowly unfolding, and they were more and more expressive of high ideals and lofty resolves. He wanted, and he tried, to be what his country and his countrymen desired and expected him to be."

"There is no doubt that when he set on what proved to be his last journey he was trying to find out the people's desires and their needs. He went out to learn first-hand the conditions in a great commonwealth, still disheveled with the debts, the taxes, the controversies and the angers of the war."

After the heat of a political campaign, however severe the aspersions that have been cast, every true-hearted American exclaims, Hail to the chief! He is our president; so now, in his untimely death, every loyal citizen bows his head in humble submission to the will of divine providence, and sheds a tear of brotherly love for the noble friend who has given his last bit of strength and devotion to the republic we all love.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS.

Mississippi is known as having one of the best rural school systems in the country. This is due to the fact that the state has gone vigorously into the plan of consolidating its one-room district buildings into centralized schools which can supply all the advantages of the city.
