U. S. CONSTITUTION WEEK.

This week has been set apart and designated "Constitution Week," and is being generally observed throughout the country.

The idea seems to have originated with the American Bar association whose citizenship committee recommends the study of the national constitution in all its phases.

Because it is recommended by an association of lawyers it does not signify that the study of the constitution is a matter for lawyers to devote themselves to. It is meant for the humblest citizen. Many know very little about that grand document which is the basis of our free government, and none know so much that they cannot learn more.

Plans for observance of this week were started many weeks ago and met with the hearty approval of public officials and other leaders.

The main purpose of the observance is to "re-establish the constitution of the United States and the principles and ideals of our government in the minds and hearts of the people."

Co-operation of all civic and patriotic organizations has been sought and is being given in this observance. The schools throughout the land are giving their aid to the movement. In some communities the American Legion is taking the initiative, as also such organizations as the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Daughters of the American Revolution, Masonic societies, Knights of Columbus, Boy Scouts, etc.

Next to, and along with, the respect and reverence every loyal American citizen should feel and show toward the flag of his country, should be a knowledge of and loyalty to the principles and ideals of the constitution, the foundation of our republican government.

This great document is peculiarly ours, the groundwork and safeguard of our liberties. Let us guard it well against the intrusions of those who would transplant into this country the uncertain and unsafe elements of foreign revolutionary ideals.

Opinions may fluctuate, and changes in interpretation and application may come, but the foundation of our liberties, so wisely drawn in the beginning, must remain unchanged if this republic is to endure and continue to fulfill its mission in the world.

BOOSTING OREGON.

This is the day of advertising. All business that prospers counts on this modern means as one of its greatest aids. Organizations, railroads, communities, states and sections, realize as never before its advantage. By this means people become informed, act more intelligently and movements are started and furthered of advantage to all.

When the early pioneers came out west they had only the most meager and often unreliable reports and rumors of what they would find when they reached their destination. They started for a "country they knew not of." When they arrived, if disappointed, they could not return. Usually the trip exhausted all their resources.

How different today. Through publicity every portion of the country is informed about every other portion.

Great movements of population are going on today. The drift is still from east to west. But no one need come uninformed.

Out here is still a great undeveloped country with vast resources. This is what is being advertised.

There is a great difference between "booming" and boosting. The booming period has passed. Through systematic, reliable and extensive advertising truth is disseminated, interest is awakened, information is gained, and the result is a more intelligent and satisfied citizen is gained for this new country.

The Portland chamber of commerce has recently raised a fund of $300,000 to be used in developing the state's land settlements and a market for its agricultural products. Other cities and states are working on the same lines with good results. Articles are appearing in national magazines telling simply and truthfully of the conditions and opportunities in the west. Advertisements appear from time to time that attract the attention of readers throughout the country.

Recently a great New York bank published in the leading New York papers an attractive ad in which it said:

"Within the memory of men now living, the first prairie schooner crossed the plains to Oregon. Today we see vindication of the faith that bore the pioneers onward through hardships. Luscious apples carry the state's fame afar; her salmon fisheries help feed the world; Oregon raises more raspberries and loganberries than any other state and is second in plums and prunes. From her forests come the nation's largest production of shingles and the third largest output of lumber. Oregon's manufacturing total at the last census was over $350,000,000."

A change of appeal is noticeable in recent years. Formerly the call was for settlers. Many came thinking they were to land in a utopia. Land was plentiful but markets were uncertain and the sources of income were disappointing. More recently the appeal has been to investors who would develop the latent resources of the west, increase the industries and manufacturing. This is giving labor to thousands and as needed the land is being settled and developed. The population is consequently happier and more prosperous.

ANOTHER PRICE DROP BY WILLYS-OVERLAND

Effective September 1, the Willys-Overland Company, through W. A. Hessel, local agent, announces a price reduction in the entire Overland line, making the present prices as follows:

Touring, $495; Roadster, $495;

Coupe, $750; Sedan, $795; Red Bird, $695; Chassis, $395.

Equipped with the bigger, much more powerful new motor, these new prices make for greater value throughout the entire line. The greatest sales and largest production in the history of the Willys-Overland company has made it possible to pass this price reduction on to the American automobile buying public. This price reduction follows closely on the heels of the reduction in prices in the Willys-Knight line recently announced by Mr. Willys.

Each succeeding month breaks new records at Willys-Overland in both sales and production. The first and second quarters of the present year were the largest in the history of the company. July and August topped any similar months of the past and September has started out to continue the record breaking habit. Public acceptance has made these records possible.
