MAKE DRIVING SAFE.

There are those who say that the avoidance of accidents in automobile driving is a matter of mere luck. That is a wrong view. It is a matter rather of foresight, skill and care. It is not a matter of luck that a careful driver is not run into on a railroad crossing. It may be ill-luck if he is caught on a crossing but due care would have prevented the accident.

In one of the most recent serious accidents near Oregon City the driver is said to have passed by autos that had stopped for an approaching train and deliberately, though perhaps unknowingly but carelessly, drove onto the track and was struck broadside with injury or death to several persons. Was it luck that the others were not caught on the track?

There is need of education in safe rules of driving. The enrollment of those who pledge themselves to careful driving is a good thing. Many thousands have joined safety clubs. One of these, known as the Argus club of New York city, pledges the members to the following rules which, if observed by all drivers, would make driving safe and pleasant:

1. To be always ready for any emergency by keeping my eyes on the road and my thoughts on what I am doing.
2. To particularly watch out for curves, crossings and bridges.
3. To always keep my car under perfect control.
4. To keep the brakes and steering gear in good working order.
5. Never to stop or slow down without signaling to the driver of the car behind.
6. Never to take a turn without care and warning to drivers of other cars.
7. Never to cut off another car unless I am positive that there is ample space.
8. Never to stop in a narrow place on the road if by doing so I inconvenience the drivers of other cars.
9. Never to start out from the curb without making sure that the road is clear.
10. To consider the safety and comfort of the other car's occupants as well as my own.
11. Never to try to save a minute or two of time if by so doing I am risking the life of a human being.
12. To obey all the rules of the road as laid down by law or common sense.
13. If I do not drive my own car, to require my chauffeur or members of my family to live up to these principles.
14. To be always careful, vigilant, courteous, and thoughtful—a gentleman of the highway.

BONDS AND MORE BONDS.

Today Portland is voting on the issuance of nearly a million dollars in bonds for the purchase of rights of way for approaches to the Burnside and Ross Island bridges and widening of certain streets tributary to the Broadway and Steel bridges. The bonds will pay about 75 per cent of the cost, the benefited property paying the balance.

In general the larger business interests favor the bonds, although objections have been made against them. The city of Portland is placed in a peculiar position. The county builds and pays for the bridges and has adopted plans which call for wider approaches. It is put up to the city to provide adequate approaches.

ELECTRICITY AIDS PLANT GROWTH.

Larger and better crops of vegetables can be produced with the aid of electric lights. Five electric lamps, arranged to diffuse uniform light on a plot of lettuce, were turned on daily for about six hours, beginning at dusk. In twelve days this lettuce developed two and a half times as many leaves as other heads planted at the same time but not exposed to electric light. The heads of forced lettuce, it is asserted, "were larger and firmer and brought better prices."

This is in keeping with the use of electric lights to promote the hen's activity resulting in greater egg production in winter.

UNCONTROLLED ENERGY.

Electrical experts have been able to determine the market value of a first class bolt of lightning. The prodigious power of a brilliant flash of lightning is actually worth about one dollar. Recent scientific calculations estimate the voltage of a lightning bolt at about fifty million and there is assumed to be an amperage of one thousand. These give a total of fifty million kilowatts. But the lightning flash lasts for less than one-thousandth of one second. On this basis the total amount of electrical energy developed would be about ten kilowatt hours, or approximately one dollar's worth, if the rate were as low as ten cents. While a bolt of lightning may not be worth much, like most uncontrolled energy it may do a vast amount of harm.

Krueger's Golden West Anconas

The Anconas possess extremely good points as layers. They stand in the front rank. They lay large white eggs. They are small eaters, splendid foragers, early maturity, fine qualities of meat. Something of real merit. The Anconas are adapted to a cold climate that makes them winter layers.

Eggs and more eggs is what every one is looking for. We are now breeding three of the greatest egg-strains in America into our King Golden West strain backed by 307 and 311 eggs; Chicago Boy, his grand dam, 303; King Post, his backing, 303 eggs, and Sheppard strain 335 and 339 egg line. There is where you get a full egg basket. We can fill your order for one setting or incubator lots.

Our Great Egg Laying Strain. Its breeding is of the standard type and makes good show birds. Every ribbon and special at three county fairs, Gresham, Canby, Albany, including State Fair and Pacific International Live Stock show, 64 ribbons in all, 1923.

Our 1924 breeders, the Best in the West, Chicago Coliseum and and Madison Square Garden show birds and egg strain combined.

Now there must be some very good reason for the great success and remarkable growth of my business. Truthfully, I believe it's the result of straightforward, honest treatment I have given to my every customer. Your reputation depends upon your honesty. Member American Poultry association.
