THE SENATE INVESTIGATIONS.

Attorney General Daugherty is under fire as to complicity of his department in the graft scandals now under investigation by a committee of the senate and the fire is getting so warm that it is believed he will be compelled to resign his office.

It is said that one of the factors bringing the matter to an acute stage is the situation resulting from the recent grand jury investigation of the veterans' bureau before which it is claimed Daugherty was recently called to testify.

Great as is the shock to the public resulting from the implications brought out by these investigations, as to the character and number of the men in high office apparently involved, it is assuring that the matters under suspicion will be thoroughly investigated and the guilty exposed and punished no matter where the lightning may strike.
