OUR NATIONAL BIRTHDAY.

July Fourth, always significant, should in a presidential election year take on an added meaning.

We are justly proud of the beginnings of our national life and have reason to be thankful for the providential leadings which have brought about our present development.

But the end is not yet. We may well ask, where is the goal of this republic? What is there yet in store?

As a nation we are yet young. On Friday we will celebrate our 148th birthday. Our history represents only a few generations.

While we view the first Independence day as a good beginning we are apt to view the present as a finished accomplishment.

Our nation is still young. It is still far from its good. It was an experiment a century and a half ago.

There is need today, and will be for generations to come, of the same heroism, self-sacrifice and devotion, the same calmness of judgment, loftiness of purpose and loyalty to principle.

Each succeeding celebration of our natal day should call us back to the wise and safe principles on which our government was founded.

HOW DOES IT SOUND NOW?

One hundred years ago in a Fourth of July oration in Charleston, S. C., Arthur Middleton, Jr., said:

"At the thought, then, of the advantages I have enumerated, great as they are, my countrymen, you will not allow yourselves to feel elated, but rather study how they may be maintained—your task is easy, since you have only to preserve what has already been acquired for you; your anxiety the less painful, inasmuch as your country has proved herself superior to all trials.

Farmers Mutual Fire Relief Assn. Forges Ahead.

The yearly report filed with the Insurance Department by the Farmers Mutual Fire Relief Assn. shows $6,053,000, written during 1923 and 2210 new members gained.

"If the patriot Sam Adams, at the sunrise of Lexington, could say, 'Oh! what a glorious morning for America!' how well he might have renewed, in the more brilliant noontime of July 4, 1776, the same prophetic words!

Quickly and efficiently done by experts. All orders promptly attended to regardless of size.

JAMES M. COX

Ladies and Gentlemen, this will introduce to you some of the more prominent men who are centers of attraction at the democratic national convention now sweltering in New York City.

"TWO-THIRDS RULE"

Many persons wonder why it is that, in the republican national convention, it takes merely a majority vote of the delegates to nominate a candidate for president.

The democratic "two-thirds rule" dates back to the democratic national convention held in Charleston, S. C., April 23, 1860.

There is need today, and will be for generations to come, of the same heroism, self-sacrifice and devotion, the same calmness of judgment, loftiness of purpose and loyalty to principle.

Each succeeding celebration of our natal day should call us back to the wise and safe principles on which our government was founded.

THE PLANTING TIME IN MORALS.

Not so long ago Dr. Edgar J. Swift interrogated more than a hundred business and professional men as to the lawless acts of their boyhood.

This revelation is interesting particularly at this time when the country is seething with politics, when almost every lip bends in scorn when the moral fibre of our politicians is considered.

There is need today, and will be for generations to come, of the same heroism, self-sacrifice and devotion, the same calmness of judgment, loftiness of purpose and loyalty to principle.

Each succeeding celebration of our natal day should call us back to the wise and safe principles on which our government was founded.
