meats. We won't allow a piece of meat to come into this market that doesn't live up to what we expect of it. It must be able to stand the tests we give it. Folks know when they buy a pound of meat of us they have purchased 16 ounces of wholesome purity.

Who Was Shot and Who Was Not?

A duel was lately fought by Alexander Shott and John S. Nott. Nott was shot and Shott was not. In this case it was better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, but Shott avows that he was not, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot notwithstanding.

It may be made to appear on trial that the shot Shott shot Nott, or, as accidents with firearms are frequent, it may be possible that the shot Shott shot shot Shott himself when the whole affair would resolve itself into its original element, and Shott would be shot and Nott would be not.

Some folks think, however, that the shot Shott shot shot, not Shott, but Nott.

Can you tell who was shot?—Byck's Broadside.

"You don't say so, dear; how did you find out?" questioned the excited Mrs. Gossip.

"I stayed at home one evening last week, and found him there," answered the satisfied lady.—Arkansas Utility News.

Poem by Uncle John

Old Silas Perdue is a sociable feller, and favorably knew as a good story-teller. . . . On festive occasions he's sure to attend, and certainly gives 'em as good as they send. He'll pick out the feller that's glum as an owl, and tell him a yarn that will set up a howl.—There's many a by-word that snaps from his tongue—the minnit he sees ye, his greetin' 's sprung—a humorous hit, calculated to stir ye,—fer instance he'll ast, "Is it hot enough for ye?"
