PREPAREDNESS OR DEFENSE-LESSNESS?

The call for a national defense enrollment day, on September 12, has called forth much comment from press and pulpit and much foolish criticism of the idea especially from the pulpit and ministerial associations.

The indication is that those who oppose the plan either do not understand its object or are ultra-pacifists who have forgotten the lesson taught this country by the world war.

Our view is that the national defense day as announced and planned has closely the same purpose in reference to national preparedness that a fire drill has in a schoolroom. It is a reminder of possible danger, a test of preparedness, and is itself a part of the training necessary to conserve human life in an emergency.

We are assured by those who understand the plans and their purpose that defense day is not a mobilization, or an enrollment for a future war. It is not an obligation for war service any where or any time. It is not militaristic in purpose.

It is an exhibition and test of mobilization plans.

The primary purpose is to enable citizens to visualize the initial processes necessary to muster our forces in the event of a national emergency, and to avoid the danger of delay should war be thrust upon us.

The plans for national defense are made by the war department. A peace time preparation by a citizen soldiery, not a standing army, is involved in the plans. The plan is democratic. Enrollment on this day is equivalent to saying, "I believe in national defense."

Do you believe in preparedness or defenselessness? Think it over and line up with something, an enrollment or attendance at some service on September 12.

Shakespeare said all the world was a stage, but from a political standpoint it would be appropriate in this country just now to think of the situation as a race track. The candidates are trying out for position, getting warmed up and ready for the word "Go!" The race is on. How will it end?

"UP-TO-DATE PATRIOTISM."

"Patriotic citizens will not object to devoting one day a year to a fire drill. Heretofore when an inter-national fire—that is a war—which called for assistance by the United States broke out every man has grabbed a bucket and run for the fire. That's patriotic but it is not up to date. Now we have good laws and an excellent volunteer fire department with modern apparatus, but we must have a fire drill occasionally or we won't know what to do or how to use our equipment. That is what National Defense Day is and I cannot conceive how any patriotic or progressive American can object to it. We are simply going to test the efficiency of the company and try out the fire hose. National Defense Day means nothing else. There is nothing militaristic about it." This is the statement of General John J. Pershing who expressed himself as amazed, when he returned from Europe this week, that any one should object to National Defense Day.

"UNCUT WEEDS BRING FINES"—NEWS ITEM.

That's the way they do it in Portland—sometimes. A campaign against uncut weeds is on and those found neglectful are being brought into municipal court and fined. Gresham has an ordinance requiring owners to cut weeds, yet there are many places, even dooryards, that are most unsightly as a result of neglect on the part of property owners and of city authorities.

Kill flies, save lives. The house fly is born in filth and picks filth from stables, manure piles and outhouses. He may carry filth to your baby's lips, to your baby's food and to your own food. Swat, trap or poison flies, but better yet, prevent their breeding. Protection of food supplies from flies, vermin and contamination by unclean hands is essential to health. An inexpensive outdoor refrigerator may be constructed by hanging to a tree or post a sacking covered fly-proof box with a constant drip from a pan of water placed above it.

And now it is said Malcolm R. McAdoo, brother of William G., has come out for LaFollette. The reputation of W. G., which is called by his followers the crime of 1924, will doubtless lead many democrats to support LaFollette.

LaFollette promises a red hot campaign. That's characteristic of LaFollette. The trouble is LaFollette is most too red hot.

HELP SENT CHINA.

China is having her troubles. Drought in one portion, floods in another.

"The present situation is very serious," reports Minister Schurman. "The spring crops in north China are short, due to drought, and the fall crops are destroyed over a wide area due to rains. The water will remain over large areas for some months, so that winter wheat cannot be planted."

Ten million people, it is said, are affected by the floods and $10,000,000 will be needed for relief. China herself will provide most of this amount. The American Red Cross has already cabled $100,000.

There will be plenty of water to waste next winter. This summer it behooves every user of Bull Run water to be saving.

PROGRESSIVE—INSURGENTS.

LaFollette, forced to choose a name for his party, has named it "progressive." It is not, however, the successor of the progressive party of 1912, led by Roosevelt. In 1912, it will be recalled, LaFollette was an insurgent and violently anti-progressive. He was more opposed to Roosevelt than was Taft. It is this fact which angers the men who stood by T. R. in 1912 and leads one of Roosevelt's chief supporters, Van Valkenburg, to call upon progressives everywhere to repudiate LaFollette and all his works.

World War Film Prepared by U. of O.

"A History of the World War", a motion picture now in preparation by Alfred Powers, of the university extension division, will be released in September, according to information sent to the press. Mr. Powers is cutting the scenes most important historically from about a dozen official war reviews, which he is re-arranging, re-titling, and re-editing to form a six-reel film, to be included in the university loan collection.

"This film will satisfy a specific demand on the part of the schools, American Legion men, and other organizations interested in historical subjects," stated Mr. Powers.

The picture will show life among the men in the various forms of service during the war; famous battles, including Chateau Thierry, in which the American forces were active; leaders in the war, Wilson, Poincaré, Pershing and others; the machinery used in war, camouflage, and scenes which have historical significance.

The university film service now has a half million feet of film which is available in the loan collection. The pictures are educational, and include scenic, industrial, and historical material. The films are loaned, some free of charge and others for a small rental fee. They are especially popular with schools, churches and community organizations.

Common Sense and Justice Keynote Acceptance Speech

favor of the poor, but that he wanted all citizens to be treated with absolute honesty and fairness. He pointed out the great reduction that had been made in taxes and stated that he was in favor of further reductions in taxes—that he wanted every burden possible lifted from the shoulders of the people—he wants the hundred and seven million citizens who are indirect tax payers also to be benefited. He pointed out the remarkable reduction of the public debt since 1921. This was a government for all the people—that every one should be treated fairly without regard to his financial condition or occupation. He stated that the government was in favor of voluntary arbitration between employer and employee.

The president spoke of the part that the woman of the nation are going to play in its affairs. He stated that now they are taking an active interest in politics, the fireside will be further protected—that greater interest will be taken by them now that they have the right of suffrage. Touching upon the matter of the child labor legislation he stated in emphatic tones that no one has the right to live from the earnings of children who should be in school.

Touching upon immigration the president stated that the bill he signed would result in maintaining the high standard of wages of all the people in this country—both those who have lived here for years and the recent arrivals. In the matter of prohibition Mr. Coolidge said that the law was on the statute books and that it was the duty of every citizen and also the duty of the chief executive of the nation to enforce it.

The president pointed out that a complete agreement has been reached with Mexico and that none has been in force for 40 years or more. The treaty is one of amity and one that will benefit both nations in the matter of commerce. The president pointed out that the United States desires to be at peace with all nations of the world. He stated that America should be willing to loan money to help Europe get on her feet—that it was our duty to humanity. He stated that this should come through private resources.

Mr. Coolidge stated that it was his intention when the matter of reparations was settled to call another disarmament conference. He favors cooperation internationally for the peace of the world but without involving the United States politically. He stated that it was apparent that the European governments are getting together and it was probable at this time that the Dawes report which has been accepted in principle will be put in operation.

FORMER PORTLAND MAN REPORTS RELIEF WORK

An interesting account of America's activities in the Near East is contained in letters received recently from Barclay Acheson, formerly of the Portland Y. M. C. A., now with the Near East Relief in Athens.

"One of the greatest problems when we brought the 23,000 children out of Turkey into Greece developed when we found the old Bible town of Corinth to be a pest-hole of malaria," writes Acheson. "The children and relief workers were affected and we dared not move them for they would spread the disease. With old American clothing for legal tender, we employed hundreds of men to drain the Corinth swamps and the malaria began to disappear.

"For fifty years Corinth has had an unenviable reputation as a fever center, and the term 'black-water fever,' indicating a particularly virulent type of malarial infection, had its origin here. The complete conquest of the malarial mosquito is now in a fair way of being accomplished, thanks to American initiative.

"The Greek government was so impressed by this work done by the refugees and our older boys that they are now developing a 20-year health program under government patronage and supervision. The new program includes drainage works, tree planting and popular education and has been worked out by the medical department of the Near East Relief and will be carried into effect by the local authorities, assisted by special grants from the federal government.

"Away up in the Russian Caucasus the Armenian government has decorated Dr. Uhlis, medical director for the Near East Relief in the Armenian-Persian area, in recognition of his services in combating the ravages of Trachoma. When you remember that this is one of the most dreaded eye diseases in the world and we have in our orphanages children whose eyeballs have burst from the disease, you will understand something of the gratitude of the government. More than 90,000 treatments have been administered in a single week under Dr. Uhlis direction and more than 3000 cures have been reported among the sufferers in the orphanages.

"We have just had word from Angora, the new capital of Turkey, that the government there estimates that approximately 300 tractors have been imported for agricultural purposes during the last three years and are now in use. The machines are of American manufacture, similar to those introduced into Turkey by the Near East Relief prior to the removal of its orphanage work from Turkey.

"Our efforts to provide special training for sub-normal children in the refugee camps revealed the presence of 5000 deaf and dumb children. The only deaf and dumb school in all of Greece is that operated by the relief organization in connection with its orphanage in the old palace in Athens. The facilities and equipment in the school can accommodate only about 100 and the question of how to provide for the others is a perplexing one."
