

GRESHAM LOCALS

The district Pomona grange will meet with the Gresham grange in an all-day session on Wednesday, December 17, beginning at 10 o'clock, in the Masonic hall at Gresham. The business session will be under the direction of Mrs. Mary E. Palmer. Dinner will be served at 12:30. Marshall N. Dana will speak at 2 o'clock and election of Pomona officers will also take place in the afternoon. At 7:30 the fifth degree will be conferred on candidates, which will be followed by a literary and musical program beginning about 8:30, to which the public is invited. Mrs. Palmer has been in county grange work duty for the past eight years.

Mrs. Curtis Woods, who was recently employed by the telephone exchange as relief operator, with three of the Gresham hello girls, the Misses Lillian Markwart, Bernice Beers and Ella Baker, drove to Portland Thursday evening where they visited the Broadway exchange, the largest and busiest of the Portland boards.

The ladies of the Baptist Guild, who had announced a bake sale to be held at the A. W. Metzger store the coming Saturday, have changed their plans and the sale will be postponed indefinitely.

Randolph Hammond, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hammond has returned from the Sellwood hospital where he spent two weeks in treatment for sinus trouble with which he has been afflicted for the past two and a half months. He has been unable to attend high school this year on account of his illness. His parents fear an operation on account of the weak condition of the boy's heart.

Mrs. George Stapleton went to Seaside Friday to get their newly-erected summer cottage in readiness for the Christmas holidays, at which time the family expects to occupy it for a short winter vacation at the beach resort.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gaskill and children are moving onto the Fred Morgan ranch in Lusted, where the former will engage in farm work for an indefinite period.

Mrs. F. H. Crane of Rockwood, Mrs. O. A. Eastman and Mrs. Nellie Metzger are among the ladies who are locally interested in the operations of the Portland chapter of National American War Mothers, which Monday opened headquarters for the administration of relief to the families of ex-service men. An office has been opened at Fifth and Salmon streets, which will be in charge of two different war mothers each day. Relief work will include a bazaar, which is being held in the Gasco building.

Fred N. Mewhirter and son Charles, of Newberg, former residents of this place, were in Gresham Thursday. They made a brief call on Mrs. Roy H. Gibbs who is a daughter of the former.

Judge George Stapleton was one of about 25 guests who attended a banquet given at the Hotel Portland Tuesday evening in honor of Dr. A. E. Rocky, of Portland, who is to leave soon for Honolulu, where he will probably spend the winter.

The Rev. E. G. Ranton of Pleasant Home, P. F. Black and the Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Long and daughter, Lois, drove to Salem Tuesday. Mrs. Long and daughter went from Salem to Falls City to spend a few days with former friends in that city, the remainder of the party returning to Gresham Tuesday evening.

Luther Welch of Fresno, California, arrived Tuesday evening for a visit with his brother, R. M. Welch, and family. He will also visit relatives in Portland before returning to California.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PLEASES LARGE CROWD

The Portland Symphony orchestra, directed by Carl Denton, gave a beautiful concert Wednesday evening to an audience which filled the Portland auditorium. A number of music lovers from Gresham and vicinity were among those who enjoyed the performance. The soloist was Mieczyslaw Munz, the Polish pianist. The orchestra played beautifully and both players and leader deserved the enthusiastic applause which they received. In her criticism in The Morning Oregonian C. Hilton-Turvey says:

Mr. Munz, tall, and not unlike Rachmaninoff in his manner at the piano, played that master's concerto with success. Munz functions musically without spurge or waste movement. His long, flexible hands compass difficulties with ease; his inward fire manifests more by glow than by flash. There is no eccentric rocketing, but rather a quiet control of his pianistic forces even in the stormy passages. He is absolutely without pose.

The orchestra, one felt, was as lightly poised as a dancer, and instantly responsive to Mr. Denton, as with that almost uncanny gift of his, he caught the beat of the soloist, sensed his mood, thought with him and beckoned his musical forces to follow. It is only fair to say that all of the artists who have been soloists with the Portland symphony orchestra notice at once the "elasticity" of Mr. Denton's leading.

His Chopin group, however, revealed the real Munz—and incidentally the real Chopin. Once in a long time a pianist comes along who can play Chopin. Munz is one of them. The "Nocturne" was played with limpid singing tone and delicate rubates. Its statement throughout, like the two which followed, was simple. In all the Chopin numbers Munz seemed to dream the music at the piano. It sounded unpremeditated, almost like improvisation, a harking back in spirit to the real Chopin. No doubt it made many listeners rejoice.

Too Much for Your Whistle

On a certain holiday when Benjamin Franklin was a small boy, he tells us that his father gave him a lot of pennies to spend. Benjamin spent them all for a cheap whistle. For a time he was very happy, but when he realized his poor investment he cried with chagrin. But he never forgot the lesson.

How many of us pay too much for our whistle?

The man who lives beyond his means invites disaster. He is paying too much for his whistle.

Something is wrong with the man who does not save SOMETHING—he is surely paying too much for his whistle.

You may keep up your financial courage by whistling—but you won't get ahead until you start to save.
