

NEW ARCH FOR FAIR GROUND ENTRANCE

The architects' plans have been accepted and the contract has been let for the preliminary work on a large and fitting entrance to the county fair grounds to be located on Main street north of the present Fifth street entrance. When completed it will be one of the most pretentious gateways to any fair grounds in the state if not in the northwest. The architect's plans call for a development and construction which will cost around $6000.

The plans adopted by the fair board were drawn by L. M. Thielens, landscape architect, and Herbert A. Angell, architect, both of Portland. The contract for the work necessary to start this elaborate entrance and put it in shape to use for this year's fair has been let to A. F. Hammar who has started the work.

To get an idea of the plan it may be pictured by imagining a large, flaring bottle with the base on the street line and the neck pointing in toward the grounds.

Back 120 feet from the street line will be four massive pillars about six feet square, allowing for ticket offices inside of about four and a half feet square. It will be 102 feet between the two outside pillars. This will give ample room for three driveways with plenty of walking space. The pillars will be proportionately high and joined by a massive arch with flag poles above the posts.

For a space of a hundred feet or more each way along the street the walk will be recessed back from the street line. In the large open space between the street and the arch will be flower beds and a pool or fountain. In other ways the walks and drives will be landscaped and lined with shrubbery and flowers.

Just inside the grounds on either side of the driveways it is planned to build the offices and administration buildings of the fair. These will be of the same type of construction as the arch which will be stone-tone stucco finish.

The new entrance will be used as the main ticket entrance this year. The Fifth street entrance will be used for commercial purposes. All animals, delivery wagons, concessionaires, etc., will use the old entrance.

New Pavilion Next Year.
It had been planned to build a new half-mile horse race track and five-eighths-mile automobile race saucer this year, but lack of time and funds made this impossible. Immediately after the fair, however, work will be started building the two tracks on new ground recently purchased and a new pavilion will also be erected. The present pavilion, which has housed various exhibits and concessions for 18 years, is obsolete. This will be the last year it will be used.

It is expected the new pavilion will be of stucco or other substantial finish. Plans for this and other buildings, grandstand, bleachers and race track, together with other features, will be prepared at once by Messrs. Thielens and Angell for the contractors when the gates close at the conclusion of this year's fair.

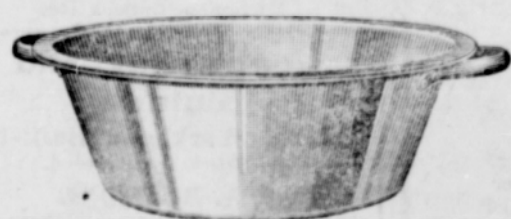

Zion Evangelical Church.

There will be no Sunday school or church services at the church next Sunday morning, but at 8 o'clock the Rev. Charles Hoffman of Portland will show about 100 slides showing the work of the Evangelical church. Among the institutions will be the Eden Seminary, of which Rev. Mr. Gebhardt is a graduate. Admission will be free.

ELKS GRAND LODGE COMING TO PORTLAND

Everything is in readiness for the 61st annual session of the grand lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, scheduled to meet in Portland, Oregon, July 13-18. Such is the word issued from the headquarters of the Portland Lodge Commission in the Elks' Temple, by James D. Olson, executive secretary. "Pack up and come—we're ready with many pleasures for you," is the word sent to all Elksdom.

Committees on all phases of the grand lodge session have practically completed their work and as a result plans that were laid in advance have been perfected until it may be said that were the convention to meet next week, the city would be prepared for the throngs to come.

Formal sessions will be held in Portland's fine big public auditorium beginning with church services Sunday, July 12, when divine worship and sacred music will be featured. Many noted Elk visitors will be in Portland and are scheduled to preach from numerous pulpits that day, in addition to the special services in the auditorium.

Adequate reception for all special trains, uniformed patrols and bands has been provided, as well as guides for each delegation during their sojourn in Portland—something new to Elk grand lodge conventions.

Hotels and other quarters for the visitors have been arranged for and those who come on special trains will live on these and will be parked within easy distance of the convention activities, as the railroads, at great expense, have rearranged trackage and other necessary features so this can be done.

The largest fleet of automobiles ever assembled here for any gathering, will be available to take visitors on special scenic and informative trips, including the famed Columbia river highway, historic Fort Vancouver, Washington, the great mills at Longview, Washington, and the largest paper mills in Oregon City, Oregon. City trips will also be featured. Meanwhile, there will be band concerts galore by visiting bands and drum corps and drills by the uniformed outfits will serve to entertain large numbers on Multnomah field, prizes aggregating about $3000 having been hung up for the best in this line.

In short, everything has been done looking toward the most valuable and pleasurable grand lodge session of the Elks ever held anywhere.

YOUNG PEOPLE UNITED IN CHURCH WEDDING

An attractive wedding was solemnized at the Methodist Episcopal church on Thursday afternoon, June 25, when Miss Winifred St. Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. St. Clair, became the bride of Raymond B. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rogers. The ritual was read by the Rev. A. S. Hisey and the beautiful double ring ceremony was used. Leon Jennison of Salem, Oregon, sang "Because," preceding the ceremony. The bridal party approached the altar to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," played on the organ by Mrs. Clyde Ruegg. The bride, on the arm of her father, was preceded by her sister, Miss Margaret St. Clair, acting as bridesmaid. Mendelsohn's wedding march was used for the recessional. The groom was attended by his brother, Russell Rogers. The ushers were brothers of the bride and groom, Chase and Leslie St. Clair and Arnold Rogers. The church was suitably decorated with pink and white blossoms and blue delphiniums against a background of greenery.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of white crepe roumaine with a girdle of rhinestones. She wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. Her veil was fashioned of flowing tulle with pearl head dress and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia rosebuds and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a dress of printed chiffon over rose and carried a shower bouquet.

A wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents, to which members of the immediate families were invited. During the supper music was furnished by Mr. Jennison, who sang, and by the bridesmaid who played piano numbers.

The bride is a graduate of the Gresham Union high school and of Willamette University. The groom is the artist for the Oregon engraving company in Portland. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will begin housekeeping in their new home at 1491 East 36th street, Portland.

TO SAVE "OLD IRONSIDES."

The Benevolent Protective Order of Elks has taken over the job of saving "Old Ironsides", the most famous fighting ship in the American navy, now in a sad state of decay as she floats upon the waters into which she was rushed by the builders 123 years ago. Into every school of the nation the Elks will carry the thrilling history of this old ship and ask the school children to raise $500,000 to rebuild her as a shrine of the American navy.

October 12 to 18 has been designated "Old Ironsides" week and the Elks will arrange for patriotic exercises in every school room in the nation and recount the thrilling sea battles of the United States Frigate Constitution and the early history of our navy.

The Elks have taken this patriotic job at the behest of secretary of the navy, Curtis D. Wilbur, and Exalted Ruler John G. Price has sent a stirring appeal to some fourteen hundred lodges with 900,000 members to get actively behind the campaign and make the contact with the schools. The National committee will hand over to the Elks 200,000 eight colored reproductions of "Old Ironsides" and they will place one in each school to be purchased by the pennies, nickels and dimes of the school children who in turn will present it to the school at appropriate patriotic exercises.

In March of this year congress voted to authorize the secretary of the navy to restore the Constitution but made no appropriation for the work. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur then requested that a committee be organized to raise the money from the school children of the nation.

Fair Boosters on Trip to Prineville.

At about the time Old Sol lifted his radiant face above the horizon in the northeast this morning several auto loads of county fair boosters left Gresham for Prineville in eastern Oregon where the state conventions of the American Legion and auxiliary are now in session. There were about a dozen men, mostly members of the fair board, in the party. Their main objects were to advertise the Multnomah county fair and get information regarding wild west attractions. Prineville is giving the Legion delegates a real entertainment with thrilling rodeo features galore. The fair is looking for the best and these boosters believe in going where it is found and seeing for themselves.

The county fair will open in just a month. The men wore their cowboy hats and bright kerchiefs and were prepared to do some shouting and stunts. "Let 'er go, whoope-e!"

KIDDIE KAMP WILL OPEN ON MONDAY

The Gresham Berry Growers have arranged for a Kiddie Kamp for the children under picking age, to be open from 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., seven days in the week, beginning Monday, June 29, and continuing until the end of the raspberry harvest. The play ground and shed of the Gresham grade school will be used for the purpose, on West Powell street.

A charge of $2 for one child in a family and $1 for each additional child in the same family, per week, will include general care, instruction in games, handicrafts, story telling, a noon lunch, a place for an afternoon nap, and free automobile transportation for children on ranches on the Base Line and Powell Valley and Section Line roads. Growers near these roads may make special arrangements for this service, and those in other localities are asked to arrange their own transportation.

It is suggested that half the payment come from the parents and half from the employers. The growers arranging for the care of their workers' children are asked to assume the responsibility of collecting the money from the parents, or deducting it from their pay checks, and paying it to the supervisor at the Kiddie Kamp.
