EVOLUTION AND THE BIBLE.

How did the universe, including the earth, originate?

How did man originate?

These have always been matters of study and speculation since man began to use his thinking and reasoning powers.

On the one hand the Bible seems to settle it and those who can accept its statements literally,—that the earth with all forms of vegetable and animal life, including man, were created in six days of 24 hours each, as the Mosiac record seems to imply,—have, of course, no controversy and no need of further information.

Once the idea of verbal inspiration is accepted the whole matter is settled and every word and phrase must be given its literal interpretation.

On the other hand are the conclusions of science, that this work, what ever its origin and beginnings, did occupy eons of time, and, in fact, is still going on by the same processes that controlled its earlier stages.

The most serious question in connection with this problem is, can the Genesis account and the opinions of scientists be reconciled?

Many will say they cannot. It is possible that in this matter, as in many others which history will disclose, the scientists are right and the Bible is right—the only thing wrong is our prejudice or shortsightedness in interpreting the Scriptures and understanding what they mean and were intended to imply.

"Who is sufficient for these things?" The greatest wrongs in the world's history have grown out of misunderstanding God.

The Bible is a revelation of his character and love and will. God is also revealed in his works. Many study his works and don't see his love.

Many study the Bible and don't understand his creative processes.

The one is not complete without the other. Man has both a body and a soul. Potatoes won't feed the soul, nor will John 3:16 sustain the body.

Evolution has its place. The Bible has its place. Their only conflict is in the minds of those who don't think.

MAN'S ORIGIN.

An expedition has been formed to study the evidences of man's origin in Africa. Our impression is that's where monkeys originated and are most plentiful. Africa is still the unknown continent and when the archeologists have opened up its long hidden secrets the world may gain much needed information on the beginnings of things.

We ought to be interested in the origin and development of life on this planet, especially the human race, but after all it's more important how we live than how we came to be here.

If one-half the affection some women waste on pet dogs was bestowed on hungry and motherless children the kingdom of God would come sooner on the earth.

THIRD ANNUAL POULTRY CONVENTION

The third annual poultry convention for the state of Oregon held at Corvallis this week was a well attended meeting. A number of poultrymen from Gresham and vicinity were present. The following poultrymen accompanied by County Agent S. B. Hall, left Gresham at 7:30 Wednesday morning to participate in the convention.

This convention had the largest attendance of any that has been held. A standing committee reported progress in its work and several problems were brought up and assigned to committees. Among these problems was that of establishing a state egg laying contest.

One of the topics which brought out lively discussion and in which a large number of the poultrymen were deeply interested was that of controlling or trying to catch the organization of chicken thieves which has been working throughout the state. A strong committee was appointed on this problem with power to act.

Fair Will Have Many Features

mand of Captain W. D. Jackson, Company "B" 186th Infantry in command of Fred R. Dierking, Company "H" 162d Infantry commanded by Captain Fred Weigand, Howitzer Company, 162d Infantry, in command of Capt. Roy Neer, Headquarters Company First Battalion, 186th Infantry, commanded by Lieut. C. G. Schneider, and the medical detachment in command of Major Howard E. Carruth. Also A Company 116th Inf. in command of Lieut. Carl Shoemaker.

Immediately following the demonstration the troops will parade through the grounds to the south grove where anyone wishing to see doughboys "eat up the mess" is welcome but it is advisable to stay at a distance as a "doughboy rush" far surpasses the department store variety.

Wednesday, July 29, will have band concerts featuring the forenoon entertainment while the public enjoys the various exhibits of livestock, boys' and girls' club work, florists' displays, automobile exhibits, carnival shows and the many other ways to enjoy oneself.

At 2 p. m. the daily livestock parade will be held, combined with the Indians, cowboys, cowgirls and all other moving features of the fair.

Queen Crowned Wednesday 2:15

At 2:15 Gov. Walter M. Pierce, assisted by George L. Baker, mayor of Portland, will crown Virginia Ringler, queen of the fair. Miss Virginia Ringler, popular co-ed of Oregon Agricultural College, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ringler, No. 875 East Harrison, Portland, has been selected as Multnomah County's queen for 1925. Her princesses, Hannah Edwards, Maud Mueller, Lenora Speidel and Dorothy Whitehead will also take the oath of allegiance at the same time.

At 2:30 p. m. the first harness events of the week will be run off with the 2:17 pace of three heats and the 2:24 trot of three heats. Between heats the various rodeo stunts will be given.

The Wild West and Rodeo is being furnished by two of the world's leading wild west show people. Ben Jory, who was also here last year, has brought a much larger aggregation this season than he has ever had before. The other is Lorena Trickey, World's champion cowgirl, who is associated with Sid Steele, one of the greatest riders of the west. His relay racing is considered the best of any. His other abilities are many and much entertainment is given by these two famous riders. Bob Hall has for many years been one of the leading riders of the world and different contests in which he has entered have with very few exceptions been captured by him.

Wednesday Evening Program Full The first full rodeo and wild west show will be given on Wednesday evening commencing at 7:30. This show will be second to none in the world and will consist of bucking contests, fancy riding and roping, bulldogging, Indian war dances and customs, square races, relays and, in fact, every known entertainment that the wild west is noted for.

The World's greatest riders are now on the grounds and will entertain daily with their stunts, providing some of them in the meantime don't break their necks as the small boys have received some fine entertainment the past few days while these riders have been limbering their mounts and themselves.

Among the various riders is Monk Avery and that other mule "Jack", both of whom are known as the funniest pair performing in the country today.

Many riders are now located on the fair grounds and will take part in the various events of the week.

Other Days Offer Big Things

Thursday the program will be practically the same as the preceding day with the exception of different races. The 2:13 pace, three heats, and the 2:24 trot, three heats, will be the card with the addition of a half-mile running race.

Friday's race card consists of the 2:24 pace, three heats, and the 2:10 trot, 3 heats, and a half-mile running race.

Saturday the 2:20 pace, three heats, and the 2:24 trot, 3 heats, with a half-mile run will be the card.

Sunday will feature the free-for-all pace, 3 in 5 heats, the connection race and the Meier & Frank one-mile derby for a $500 purse.

Famous Riders and Racers

Among some of the trotters and pacers with their owners that will take part in the races during the week are the following well known north-west horses together with many unfamiliar names but who all carry fast time marks.

A HINT.

There are streets in Gresham that are a disgrace to the city and to the property owners. They are especially conspicuous just now, a few days before the opening of the county fair. A stranger or visitor would be led to think some residents had very little pride in their city.

In many places we find littered streets and walks almost covered with overhanging grass, weeds and thistles.

Why not make every street and property line clean and attractive? TAKE A HINT.
