Couple Has Long Deferred Trip.
Mr. and Mrs. Simon Wold, who on the 6th of June of this year celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary, a short time ago enjoyed a long-deferred honeymoon trip. When they went to Westport, Oregon, recently to visit their daughter, Mrs. Walter Mason and family, it was the first occasion of their making a trip together since their marriage. At various times each had made a separate visit to some desired point, but never had the opportunity of going together. This may be partly accounted for in the fact that they had engaged in farming practically all their married life and their time had been well occupied with work incident to farm life. The Wolds came to Oregon from South Dakota in 1898 and for 14 years had lived at Santiam near Lebanon where they owned a farm. Before coming to Oregon they had also owned and operated a farm which no doubt explains the impossibility of both leaving on a mutual pleasure trip. The couple has resided in Gresham for the past five years, where they have many friends.
