

ROSE NURSERY ADDS BULBS AS SIDE LINE

As if it were not sufficient to have 15 acres or more planted to roses, the Columbia River Highway nursery near Corbett has added bulbs as a side line and is now planting 15 tons of little brown bulbs, practically a carload, using four acres of high priced land for the purpose. The bulbs came direct from Holland by water, being a part of a ship load consigned to Pacific coast ports. The vessel was cast on the rocks on an island off the coast of British Columbia, but the cargo was salvaged and brought to various ports by another ship.

Tulips, hyacinths and narcissi make up the shipment for the nursery at Corbett. There are thousands upon thousands of fine fat bulbs, fully matured, which will bring forth a riot of color in the early spring and which will make a striking show, easily seen by motorists on the Columbia river highway. Then there are smaller bulbs which will need a year of development before they will be full grown. Still smaller ones, which are being sown like small onion sets, will mature into fine stock in two years. It is estimated that in all there are a million and a half bulbs. It is expected that all will bloom in the spring, though the smaller ones will not produce blossoms as large as the others.

The Columbia River Highway nursery is owned by Frank C. Riggs of Portland and Ed. L. Shelton, who is managing the place. Gresham people will watch the venture with special interest, as Mr. Shelton and his wife lived for three years at Ambleside, near Hogan station. It was he who planned and laid out the beautiful grounds for that corporation. The Sheltons have been for three years at their new location on the highway.

The fair board held an adjourned meeting last night at which the report of the auditor was presented and read. It was quite voluminous and covered every item of the association's finances. Harry Pulfer, former secretary, recently laid up by sickness, was able to be at the meeting. The board has some weighty problems demanding its attention but regards the situation as hopeful and is taking up plans for another year's fair and for the improvement of the grounds, funds for which are expected to be available next spring. The meeting adjourned to next Thursday night, November 19.

EDWIN M. WHITNEY HERE NEXT TUESDAY AT U. H. S.

Edwin M. Whitney, who is to appear here on Tuesday evening, November 17, at the high school gymnasium, is a reader and an artist of nation-wide fame, and is the highest type of dramatic interpreter. His facial expression is marvelous and his rapid transition from one character to another stamps him as a genius. There is an artistic perfection about his every word, his every expression and his every gesture, that brings his audience to the realization that they are watching and enjoying a great artist.

A critic recently said of him: "His remarkable appeal to an audience might be summed up in one word: 'He is real.' His intrinsic ability, his ineffable charm of manner, and wholesomeness, complete a benevolent conspiracy to win the heart of any hearer. This 'being born, not made' expression, so extravagantly applied to professions, is exceedingly appropriate in Mr. Whitney's case. His appeal seems universal, if return dates are any criterion; he is as acceptable in one community as another, and before all manners of people."

His repertoire is indeed large and includes such plays as "Turn to the Right," by Winchell Smith (Twelve Characters); "The Fortune Hunter" by Winchell Smith (Thirteen Characters); "Hit the Trail Holiday" by George Cohan (Fifteen Characters); "In Walked Jimmie" by M. J. Jaffa (Twelve Characters); "Adam and Eva" by George Middleton (Ten Characters); Popular Short Story Programs.

"QUIET LISTENER" PRAISES REVIVALISTS

Gresham, Nov. 12.—I am only a quiet listener from the "back seat," but I feel that I ought to express my appreciation for Miss Caffray and Miss Christensen, so that others who have not availed themselves of the opportunity to hear them, may yet do so.

I am not a Methodist, and it is others like myself whom I invite to attend these meetings at the Gresham Methodist church.

Miss Caffray's sincere simplicity is charming, and appeals even to the most fastidious and criticizing.

Boys and girls come to the remaining meetings. You will just love to hear Miss Christensen sing, and I know you will enjoy the message Miss Caffray has for you.

INTERESTED IN YOUNG FOLKS.

CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS WIN PREMIUM MONEY

As was expected by their friends before the beginning of the Pacific International Livestock exposition, the boys and girls composing the various clubs in Multnomah county have acquitted themselves with credit, carrying off a number of important prizes, the premiums amounting to $453.50 which, with the $425.54 received from fat hog sales brings the total up to $879.04. This represents a gain of nearly $110 over the premiums awarded to the boys and girls last year, the total at that time standing at $771.66, $374 of that amount being the money received for prizes and the fat stock sales amounting to $397.66.

The competition all through the Pacific International was more keen than ever before, but the boys and girls of the county brought back their share of the premium money. In the Union Stock yard special pig feeding contest which was put on for pig club members only, the states of the northwest were divided into districts and the pigs were judged for market purposes, regardless of breed. In district No. 1, or northwest Oregon, of which Multnomah county is a part, Floyd Stafford won fifth place with his pen of four Poland China pigs and John Welbes won sixth with his pen of four Hampshire pigs.

The Multnomah county livestock judging team placed sixth in the contest, in competition with 35 teams from Washington, Oregon and Idaho. The team was composed of John Fleming, Robert Kerslake and Percy Carlson. The club members in potato work, both in club and open classes, were competing with Washington and Idaho. In the club work Roland Scheden won first prize on Burbanks and Sven Nelson won second place in the open class in miscellaneous varieties of Netteed Gems.

The girls also came in for their share of honors at the show. Pearl Yandell and Thelma Salisbury, members of the Gresham Cooking club under the leadership of Mrs. B. W. It is understood that the polling places will remain unchanged.

Work on Bull Run Headworks Ends.

The working season at Bull Run lake has come to an end and all have left with the exception of two workmen, J. S. Sutherland and Webb Roberts, who will remain in the camp during the winter to take care of camp property and look after the rain and snow gauges.

The diking and blanketing project, which has been under way for the past seven years, is practically completed now. Several hundred thousand cubic feet of blanketing the lake banks has been done to stop seepage and at the lower end of the lake a dike 500 feet long has been built. Charles E. Oliver, the engineer in charge of the development work at the lake, reports that the timber between low and high water mark has been cleared away around the shores of the lake.

The construction work to be done from now on will be at the site of the Bear Creek reservoir, about six miles above the Bull Run headworks. Heavy snows have started to fall on the watershed.

PROMINENT SANDY MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Death came suddenly and unexpectedly Tuesday night to a prominent resident of Sandy, Jerome M. C. Miller, who had been a resident of that locality for the past 19 years. He had been ailing for some time, but his condition was not regarded as alarming until within two days of his passing.

Mr. Miller was born near Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, August 23, 1855, and for the past 40 years had lived in and near Portland where in former days he had taken an active part in political reforms along various lines. Two decades ago he was considered a prominent educator, two years being spent as the president of Philomath college. He was the principal of Woodstock school in Portland for seven years and before coming to Oregon had been identified with educational work in California and Missouri. Locally he was held in great esteem. For years he had served on the school board and as justice of the peace, and was a Sunday school teacher of many years' standing.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Bennett Miller, the well-known newspaper correspondent, and three grand children, Jean and Bennett Miller, who are living with their mother in Seattle, and Drusilla Miller, who is making her home with her grandmother this winter. The father of the children, George Strauss Miller, who was the only child of J. M. C. Miller and wife, died about five years ago.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 at the Sandy community church in charge of the Rev. William Recce, pastor of the new Christian church in Portland. He will be assisted by the Rev. S. F. Pitts, of Gresham. The concluding services will be held at the Portland crematorium. Arrangements are in the hands of J. E. Metzger.

C. P. Tallman Wins in Legal Contest.

A decision was rendered by Judge Hawkins in the district court last Friday in favor of C. P. Tallman who was being sued by the Union Oil company in an effort to force payment of a bill incurred in the spring of 1923 by F. A. Parchen who had rented the Tallman place in the Cedar district and who had decamped after three months, taking a month's receipts with him and leaving behind him several hundred dollars of unpaid bills. The oil company worked on the assumption that Tallman was a partner of the man, which was not the true state of affairs, according to the plaintiff's testimony, Parchen being merely a tenant of the farm and responsible for his own purchases. W. J. Cooper represented Tallman at the trial, the outcome of which is a full victory for the defendant and absolves him of all liability for the mismanagement of his former tenant.

THE DAY YOU CAUGHT THE KICK-OFF ON YOUR OWN ONE YARD LINE AND RAN AND DODGED AND SIDE STEPPED THROUGH THE ENTIRE OPPOSING TEAM FOR THE WIMMING TOUCHDOWN — AND THE TOWN PAPER CAME OUT THE NEXT DAY WITH A LARGE SPREAD THAT YOU WERE A SECOND RED GRANGE — CH. BOY — THEM WERE THE RED LETTER DAYS!
