RADIO NEWS

Reference An Unnecessary Evil. Interference around spark sets and from regenerative sets has been the favorite but involuntary support of radio audiences of late. It is hard, after listening night after night to the whine or drone of interference and the warbling whining of radiating receivers to blame one or the other as the worse. Nuisances are so easily curable seems according to viewpoints expressed by persons with the best knowledge of radio at heart, rather than that they should continue to exist.

Supervisor Has Power.

Important steps toward clearing the atmosphere of constant offenders regarded as the matter of but a few days. Contrary to the general belief this will not require any action on the part of congress. Radio regulations already cover this, and every receiver that is a known source of interference comes now under jurisdiction of the radio supervisor. It is within his power to order offending set made non-radiating by the use of its use being prohibited. A radiating set is a transmitter as such is under the control of the supervisor.

Ignorance a Factor. Despite educational efforts, ignorance and indifference continue to play a part in radiation nuisances. It is not anyone who has read up even a small way doesn't understand the cause, but the fault or refuse to recognize the fact that they themselves often are the cause of ruining their neighbors' enjoyment—and their own.

That is radiating never can be anything approaching sweet or clear speech. At best, it is a harshness which thickens and garbles tones. If in no way a receiver owner can tell his tube is in oscillation he sure is in this way: By turning down the volume and adjusting the plate control he will clear up his reception. The point where it is clear is the proper operating point for the set. Bringing in outside stations is a bit more difficult, perhaps, there will be greater satisfaction when the signals must be picked up by a beat note, the tube filament should be lowered to the proper operating point the moment the station carrier has been located, and the volume without the beat note. If the volume can be picked up, then the set can also be without radiation.

GRESHAM MAN TAKES BRIDE ON CHRISTMAS

A wedding of much interest to a number of people in Gresham and vicinity is that of Martin W. Bjur and Miss Vivian G. Folsom who were married at the home of the bride's parents at Toppenish, Washington, on Christmas day. One hundred guests were present at the beautiful home wedding. The bride wore a gown of cream colored Canton crepe and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, sweet peas and baby breath. The maid of honor was Miss Helen Eagle, of Toppenish, and Wendall Morrison attended the groom as best man. After the ceremony a buffet lunch was served. Many handsome gifts were received by the couple.

Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Bjur left on a brief honeymoon trip to Seattle, after which they came to their future home in Gresham. They will reside in a furnished house on South Roberts avenue. The bride was a former attendant at Behne-Walker business college and the groom is employed at the electric shop of F. L. Mack. After the first of January they will be at home to their friends.

Bacterial blight of filbert is the most destructive filbert disease in Oregon. Because of its germ character it is easily spread in young plantings by pruning, disbudbing and suckering if no attention is paid to disinfecting hands, tools, or cut surfaces. Reimer's disinfecting solution is advised by the experiment station. The formula is 1 part mercuric chloride, 1 part mercuric cyanide, and 500 parts of water by weight. This is prepared by the druggist.

O. N. G. COMMANDER RESIGNS HIS OFFICE

C. G. Schneider, who for the past four years has been the company commander of headquarters company of the 1st battalion, 18th infantry, O. N. G., has resigned his command on account of pressing business matters requiring his attention, the office to be filled by Cleveland Bliss next in rank.

Mr. Schneider has been commander of the company since its formation in January, 1922, and at all times has taken the keenest interest in the affairs pertaining to the work, often neglecting important business engagements to drill with the boys, and in numerous other ways entering heartily into the cooperation and plans of the command. Many have expressed their regret at Mr. Schneider's resignation.

During the four years the company has been organized there have been close to 100 men who at one time or another have belonged. Some have dropped out and others moved away. It has been good training for the boys and several have gone into the regular service of the army or navy from this company.

Mr. Bliss, the successor of the retiring commander, has virtually been in command of the work for the past two or three weeks, getting acquainted with the routine of the business and otherwise informing himself as to his new duties.

The company has fine quarters and club rooms at the grade school, which are in part a result of the effort of Mr. Schneider to secure same.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS HERALDED THE DAY

Many residents of Gresham and vicinity caught a new note of joy wafted on the midnight air of the "Silent night! holy night!" as a band of singers caroled the Christmas songs very early Christmas morning.

Led by Miss Gertrude Alexander a dozen or more, in three autos, observed the very ancient custom of singing the beautiful heralds of the Saviour's birth. About 30 stops were made, an effort being made to reach the homes of the sick and aged and the homes of those who were known to appreciate the Christmas music.

In many cases a grateful response was made, others may have listened in darkness and silence, some may have only dreamed of the songs of the angels. In any case the singer found pleasure in the thought they were doing the most appropriate thing. One of the most appropriate and appreciated responses was from a home where hung in the window a holly wreath within which was a candle (or electric light) which was lighted when the carolers sang. This was most appropriate, is said to have been the ancient custom and would be a happy custom to re-establish.

One home, that of Mark Nickerson, on the Base Line, was so appreciative of the carolers that Mr. Nickerson wished to thank them through the Outlook.

Mineral mixtures are necessary for hogs if they are to reach their best development, advises H. A. Lindgren, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the Oregon Agricultural college. The use of mineral mixtures, because of the elements they contain that are required by the body, results in a better utilization of the other feeds. The most satisfactory results are obtained when minerals are kept before the hogs at all times. This can readily be done by means of a self feeder. A liberal proportion of salt is contained in the best mixtures. A satisfactory combination is made up of two parts of common salt, 1 1/2 parts of bone meal and 1/2 part of air slacked lime.

FUNERAL HELD FOR AGED COTTRELL WOMAN

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Ann Hyatt, who died Tuesday, December 22, at the home of her son, Samuel Bacon, with whom she had lived for a number of years past, was held at the Cottrell community church Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, services in charge of the Rev. D. M. Cathey. The interment was made in Cliffside cemetery at Bull Run. There were a number of beautiful floral pieces contributed by friends and relatives, testifying to the love in which the aged woman was held in the community.

Sarah Ann Hyatt was born in Columbus, Ohio, March 2, 1829. She was married to S. W. Bacon at Canton, Illinois, February 4, 1845, to which union three children were born, a son and two daughters. They came to Oregon in 1871, settling at Bull Run. Mr. Bacon died February 3, 1889 and in 1891 she was married to R. E. Hyatt, who died October 4, 1912.

She leaves to mourn their loss a son, Samuel Bacon, and two daughters, Mrs. Frances Cline, of Gresham, and Mrs. Lucy Kozman, of Bend, Oregon. She is also survived by 11 grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren. All the relatives were present with the exception of her daughter at Bend, but her husband, Adam Kozman, who had been in Portland in a hospital for several weeks, was able to come to Cottrell and attend the funeral. Grandmother Hyatt was converted to the tenets of the Christian religion several months before her death.

RED CROSS PLAYS SANTA TO VETERANS

"I feel virtually sure not one sailor, soldier or marine, disabled or otherwise, within our jurisdiction, will be without some form of Red Cross Christmas cheer," says William Carl Hunt, directing official of Red Cross activities in the seven western states. "The disabled soldier, sailor and marine has been remembered by the Red Cross this Christmas as in the past."

"I am happy to announce the Red Cross has again been true to its charter obligation to congress wherein it is stated our first duty is to the armed forces of the nation. It is gratifying to announce that more than 3000 Christmas bags for service men in this territory have been distributed among disabled men in 17 hospitals, and sent to service men in China, Guam, the Philippines and Hawaii."

Mr. Hunt stated that these bags, made and filled by volunteer workers in Red Cross chapters throughout the Pacific branch territory, contain such articles as decks of cards and other games, handkerchiefs, watches, neckties, razors, and other articles. States in the Pacific branch territory include: California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and Alaska.

Numerous boys and girls in public, private and parochial schools, members of Junior Red Cross, have done their bit for the disabled men. They have made Christmas postal cards, gift, place and menu cards and blotters. Holly wreaths, fruit, nuts and candy have been sent to hospitals. In November, 2500 cartons containing toys for children in the Island of Guam, prepared by members of the Junior Red Cross, were dispatched aboard the U. S. A. Transport "Thomson."

HIGH WIND PLAYS HAVOC ON STREETS

Apparently nobody loves the east wind if all the unkind remarks heard concerning it during the past three days count for anything. One result of the high wind was the burning out of a chimney in the residence of Fred Jennings Saturday night about 10 o'clock. The fire alarm was sounded, but it was not thought necessary to call out the engine. A quantity of salt was thrown into the stove which successfully put out the blaze and stopped further burning of the soot.

The east wind played havoc with the street decorations and also with the lights and decorations of the community Christmas tree. It was necessary to take down the poles and wiring of the street trimmings put up by Tajima and his men, as there was danger of their being thrown against windows. A number of colored lights of the Christmas tree were knocked to the ground and broken and the large star in the top of the tree was blown out of place.

The old ivy-covered stump at the corner of Powell and Roberts fell during the high wind of Saturday night and was hauled off from the scene of action yesterday morning by truckmen. It was an old familiar landmark and was beautiful with its mantle of green ivy. Mr. Arct has not made up his mind just what he will plant there in its stead. The large Kelly tire sign which stood on the top of the service station was blown to the ground, but happily missed hitting anyone who might be in the vicinity.

Perhaps the most serious loss was sustained when some freak of the windstorm struck the large plate glass window of A. W. Metzger's mercantile establishment on the north next to the feed shed and, while it did not shiver the window to pieces, it cracked it in four or five places, until it will be necessary to put in a new one immediately. It is now held together by a large two by four fastened to the stronger parts of the glass. There was a small hole in the glass to start with and the wind finished the job in first-class shape.

THIEVES CAPTURED WHO STOLE GOODS IN GRESHAM

It no doubt will be gratifying to honest people to know that four men answering the description of the four who burglarized the Aylsworth & Martin store a short time since have been apprehended and are in jail, two in the Clackamas county jail at Oregon City and two in the Portland city jail. It is certain in this case that the right men have been caught, as they were found with the goods. Nine garments have been recovered, seven suits and two overcoats, besides a pair of shoes. The remainder of the things have been disposed of by them in one way or another. Their capture came about by means of a stolen car which they were driving. Officers became suspicious of their actions and after repeated questioning, found they had stolen the machine in Oregon City. The burglarizing of the Gresham clothing store was finally traced to the same men, with the result of the recovery of part of the loot.

GRESHAM TRAVELERS HOME FROM TENNESSEE

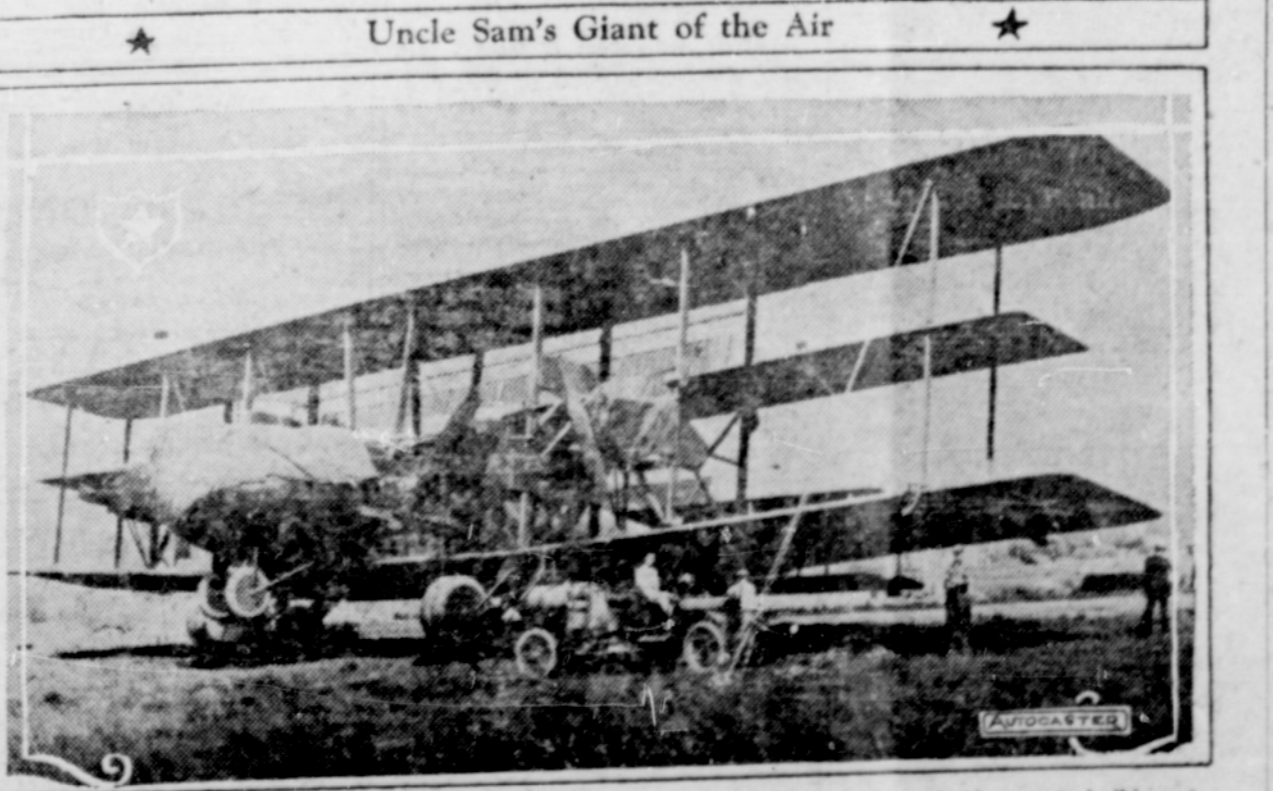

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lyon and two sons, Stanley and Victor, arrived Thursday from a trip over the Oregon trail to Tennessee. They left Gresham the 20th of August and reached their destination at Hopson, Tennessee, September 16, a distance of 3,249 miles, making an average of 26 1/2 miles to the gallon of gas with their Ford sedan. They came home by the southern route, arriving in Portland in time to eat dinner with their sons in Portland Christmas day. They traveled 3,991 miles and averaged but 22 1/2 miles to the gallon of gas on the return trip, but have yet a full tire of the air from sunny Tennessee.

There was a little snow on the Siaklyou mountains, and much fog, but they enjoyed sunshine most of the way. There were many oranges, lemons and flowers to be seen in California. They spent a few hours in San Diego and had a pleasant visit with friends in Valejo.
