Chiropractic is Mechanical

QUESTION—"Will you please explain why your patients say Chiropractic is a MECHANICAL way to get the sick well?"

ANSWER—Chiropractic is an agent that ADJUSTS disarranged parts of man's spinal structure, so that nature can operate without interference in providing Functional Energy to working parts. Ninety-five per cent of the diseases are due to pressure on nerves as they leave the spinal column. This pressure interferes with function in the organ at the end of the nerve, hence inflammation, pain and distress are manifested in the organ involved. Disease is prolonged until this pressure is corrected. The Chiropractor acts as a body mechanic when with his bare hands he adjusts the cause of this nerve pressure. He first locates the vertebra that has become slightly misplaced, then by hand palpation decides the exact degree and direction of the adjustment. With this knowledge he is enabled to intelligently give the adjustment. The entire procedure is MECHANICAL. If you are not enjoying perfect health—HAVE YOUR SPINE ANALYZED

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS

One can hardly believe it, but the meadow larks are here and their sweet songs remind one that early spring has arrived. The cherry buds are far advanced, the leaves on the honeysuckle vines are out, and the balmy air and sunshine have tempted the farmers to start spring plowing.
