OUTLOOK CELEBRATES 15TH BIRTHDAY.

The Gresham Outlook is 15 years old and with this issue records Volume 16, No. 1. It has passed through the dangers of infancy, the uncertain years of childhood, and is now a husky youth, ambitious, forward looking and ready to make the most of opportunities which may be presented.

The Outlook came into existence about the time the little village "at the bend of the creek" showed signs of life and development, and the Outlook thinks that the growing newspaper encouraged the growing town, and the town the newspaper. The very promise of future development of the town and community suggested the name for the infant paper.

The Outlook has ever tried to stand for the best in community life, for the highest moral standards in business, and for civic righteousness. True, mistakes have been made, but who that tries to do anything has been free from mistakes. The Outlook has made a slow but steady growth and its influence and helpfulness have increased from year to year.

Looking into the future, the prospect is alluring for this section and for the paper. The growth and expansion of business enterprises are noticeable on every hand. Diversified and specialized farming is firmly established. Manufacturing concerns are looking to this section for favorable locations. As these new developments come it will be the aim of the paper to assist all worthy objects in every possible way, and have an active part in building a better and more prosperous community.

The United States Radio society, an organization of radio listeners which plans to aid in the constructive development of radio broadcasting and reception, was recently incorporated at Cincinnati, Ohio. Membership privileges are open to all radio listeners of the country.

FAST AIR MAIL ASSURED.

"Use Air Mail." Watch for the slogan, for that's the last word in the progress of the great northwest. It is to be seen everywhere, pasted on the windshields of automobiles, in shop windows, on billboards. It marks the beginning of another chapter in the history of remarkable growth. New York will be within 40 hours' reach when the Washington, Oregon, Idaho United States air mail service, Route C. A. M. 5, opens on April 6. Letters posted in boxes in northwestern cities on a given day will be in New York on the afternoon of the second flying day. Mail trains require five days.

San Francisco has been using the transcontinental air mail for two years with undisputed success and the dependability of this means of mail transportation has been firmly established. The Washington, Oregon, Idaho line connects with the United States transcontinental line at Elko, Nevada, and will serve the entire northwest. It will also facilitate traffic from Alaska and the Orient, which passes through the posts of Seattle and Portland in large quantity.

Walter T. Varney, contractor for the new air mail line, says: "The spirit of the northwest is wonderful. The way in which the people have greeted the idea of this new service shows why the northwest is where it is today. A community interested in everything that means progress is bound to develop.

"We are starting this service with every confidence that the people of the northwest will use it. When our first ship takes off at Pasco at 6 o'clock on the morning of April 6, we anticipate a cockpit full of mail."

The new air line has six ships specially built for the run. Three will be in use all the time, the other three for reserve. Six pilots and six mechanics form the crew. Daily service will be given, the east-bound plane leaving Pasco at 6 a. m., carrying mail delivered by trains from Seattle, Portland, Tacoma and other northwestern cities, arriving at Elko in time to connect with east-bound transcontinental plane from San Francisco. West-bound plane will leave Elko on arrival of east-bound ship, about 11:30 a. m., arriving in Pasco before dark delivering its mail to trains leaving Pasco Junction for northwestern cities.

Postage to New York zone will be 25 cents an ounce, 20 cents to Chicago zone and 10 cents to Salt Lake City zone.

There is nothing mysterious about the railroad business. It is similar to any other, representing a continued cycle of experimentation in efforts to realize better and cheaper facilities and operation.

Home Ownership Strengthens a Nation.

The homes of the world are what the work of the world is done for. To build them and keep them is the first concern of a stable civilization. So essential to happiness are homes that Eureopean countries have made their construction a public utility. There is no such need of paternalism here, where a liberty-loving people will provide its own homes without government subsidy.

A new spirit is born of ownership. There is dignity in a permanent settlement. It was the hand on the plow that made America great. What was owned was worth fighting for. In an industrial age, with population massed in cities, that proprietorship which steadied the farmer must be transferred to ownership of homes.

Home ownership means better citizenship. The family that the landlord is apt to discriminate against is encouraged in the home. In good home districts there is a dearth of juvenile delinquency. Anything that enhances the dignity of man enhances his character.

The proper time to begin to think about buying your own home is right now.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Half a century ago the telephone was unknown. Today, there are 25,000,000 instruments in service in the world, and of these, 16,000,000 are in the United States.

Presence of Mind.

Some one has jokingly said that, in an accident, the next best thing to presence of mind is absence of body. In great excitement we often find presence of body and absence of mind. 'z-RCathfuls-nceprese

A few minutes after an alarm of fire was given in a hotel, one of the guests joined the group that was watching the fire, and chafed them on their apparent excitement. "There was nothing to be excited about,' he said. "I took my time about dressing, lighted a cigaret, didn't like the knot in my necktie, so tied it over again—that's how cool I was."

"Fine," one of his friends, remarked, "but why didn't you put on your trousers?"

New things under "Classified."

Woman has rapidly come to the fore in all lines of endeavor, but these three girls have made the world sit up and take notice by achieving the pinnacle of success while still in their teens. The sport world worships at the feet of Helen Wills, (center) America's youthful tennis queen; rises to its feet to acclaim Marion Talley, (left) whose triumphant debut at the Metropolitan makes her a star of the first magnitude. Gene Goldman demonstrates the ability of her sex to earn money instead of spending it, by amassing a million dollars selling Chicago real estate.
