Reports from Good Samaritan hospital in regard to the condition of Lucille McMurry, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. McMurry, are to the effect that the child continues the same, critically low. She was taken to the hospital Saturday where an operation for empyema was performed, it being necessary to remove an inch and a half of rib to allow the drainage of accumulated pus in the pleural cavity. The little one rallied from the operation, which was performed through the aid of a local anaesthetic, but from the first the surgeon, one of the best child specialists in the city, has offered very little encouragement to the parents.
