MORE AND STRICTER PROTECTION NEEDED.

Civilization will wipe out the wild life of America—mammals, birds, fish—unless protective measures are taken, according to Dr. William T. Hornaday, who has retired after 30 years as director of the New York Zoological park.

As remedial measures, Dr. Hornaday recommends the establishment of more game sanctuaries and further limitation of the hunter's bag. He has already been instrumental in providing more than half a million acres for safe retreat for bird and animal.

Migratory birds are in the most immediate danger. Authorities say that ducks, geese and woodcock are not on the increase, as reported from time to time. Squirrels become fewer each year. Quail hunting, in many places is a thing of the past. Trout streams are being fished out. Hatcheries are hardly able to keep up the unequal struggle to stock streams and ponds as rapidly as they are cleaned out.

Dr. Hornaday's statement should be viewed with interest by millions of Americans who love the outdoors. True, many states in their game laws fix hunting limitations and protect certain birds or animals for short periods. But the average person assumes an attitude of indifference toward the situation. Too many so-called sportsmen will take their season-after-season toll and complain bitterly at even the slightest effort to protect wild life.

OVERWEIGHT! BEWARE!

Are you fat?

Are you carrying more weight than you should for your height?

If you are five feet in height, you should weigh 110 pounds. For every inch over five feet, add five and a half pounds.

This comes from Dr. Charles Clark Sweet of Chicago who says being fat is a more dangerous occupation than that of being a locomotive engineer.

"More people die from overeating today than died from excessive drink in the wettest days before the Volstead act," he says. He points out that life insurance investigations show that weight, in relation to age, is a very important factor in influencing the life span. Bright's disease, diabetes, apoplexy and heart disease cause 80 per cent of the adult deaths in the United States annually, and Dr. Sweet says obesity helps along these diseases more than any other factor. How to grow thin? It's easy, for Dr. Sweet says:

"If, under proper medical supervision an individual will take less food than is required to carry on the combustion going on in the body, there is no power on earth that can prevent him from losing weight."

Let's all try it!

Rural America is not losing ground to the cities.

Figures compiled by the institute of Social and Religious Research show that 4,620,055 people became "city folk" between 1900 and 1920, not because they removed to cities, but only because the places in which they lived—their home towns—had grown sufficiently to be lifted from the rural into the urban class.

During these years the incorporated villages in the United States increased 41 per cent both in number and in population. During the same period, the population of the United States as a whole increased 39 per cent.

A college lad ate 50 hard-boiled eggs in 49 minutes. Isn't it wonderful what education will do.

People still run their neighbors down—especially when they cross the streets.

Red Grange's "Yes" Gal.

Here is the Miss—Edna Murphy—who has been selected to play opposite the famous red-haired—Harold Grange— in his football movie debut. Of course Edna will say "yes" to Red in the final close-up.

Simple Reason.

"Hi say, old chap, 'an where were you born?"

"In Dublin."

"My word that's a long distance away. And why did you pick out that spot?"

"Sure, just to be near to me dear old mother!"
