

Poultry Exhibit Best Ever.

Superintendent Matt has excelled himself in the size and quality of the poultry exhibit in the old pavilion, which with the rabbits and pigeons fill the entire ground floor of the old pavilion.

Bob Hamill, of Portland, is thought to be the largest single winner of firsts in the poultry division, receiving ten firsts and one second on his 11 entries. Mr. Hamill has also rabbits and pigeons on display.

Boys' and Girls' Livestock.

In the boys' and girls' department of livestock Vera Stafford had the grand champion senior yearling Guernsey cow in the open class. It is considered some honor when a little girl can go out and clean the field in the open class.

The champion ewe of the fair is owned and entered by Edgar Frank, another club boy. John Fleming captured the honors of grand, senior and junior champion in the Holstein calf. This lad has been capturing honors at the Multnomah and state fairs for several seasons past and is now considered an all-around showman.

Wonderful Horsemanship.

The horsemanship displayed by the six-in-hand drivers is in the expert class. Both Jim Houston, driving the beautiful team of the Damascus dairy, and A. C. Ruby, with his six, are being cheered to the echo at each appearance. While the space on the track is limited, it seems not to worry these men in the least. There are four six-in-hand teams on exhibition and it is wonderful to see them all performing at one time.

Their return will be by steamer from New York to New Orleans, and from there over the Southern Pacific to their home.

Manley and daughter Mary of Hillsboro. Mr. Brownhill was formerly editor of the Beaver State Herald of Gresham, and it was through the instrumentality of Mr. Brownhill and his paper that the first fair, known as the "Grange Fair and Carnival," was established just 20 years ago. Mr. Brownhill, who is editor of the Puente Journal, is president of the Southern California Editorial association, and a vice president of the National Editorial association.

The residence of Walter Deardorff west of the high school was entered Monday afternoon and several dollars in money stolen. Entrance was gained by removing the screen from a rear window and every drawer in the house had been thoroughly ransacked in the search for valuables and cash.

Paul Vedder and son, Allie, went to Eugene Monday to be gone a few days on a recreation and pleasure trip.

R. B. Jackson, proprietor of the confectionery stand on Main street on the property occupied by Miss Elva Dolan, has purchased a half interest in the concession at the county fair grounds in which photographs are shown of the Collins cave in Kentucky where the unfortunate man of that name was buried by a cave-in a year or so ago.
