BERRY GROWERS URGED TO FERTILIZE FIELDS

The following seasonal suggestions as to the care of the cane and strawberries were given to members of the Cooperative Berry Growers and others by D. E. Towle, manager:

"If you are not busy, cut the old canes out of the logans and red raspberries, cut off all runners from the strawberries and if you wish to market strawberry plants, have them inspected. Call J. E. Stansberry, courthouse, Portland, to make the inspection. Set plants only from this year's planting, if you want vigorous plants. The best known varieties are the Improved Oregon and Marshalls. The writer does not encourage the planting of any kind of berries as there is a prospect of over supply, but this is only a blind guess as we do not claim much power of looking into the future. Frequently the unexpected happens and our predictions are all upset, but we will all agree that there is safety in diversity. "Do not carry your eggs all in one basket."

Measured by Millions of Dollars

NO event is so important to all the West as the Pacific International Livestock Exposition which is held in Portland each year. It is the largest combined livestock exposition known in the world. Its exhibits are valued in the millions. The very finest bred dairy and beef cattle, horses, hogs, sheep, goats and foxes come from all over America.

And this year, it is said the Exposition will be far greater than ever before. The premium list of $100,000 is the largest ever offered anywhere. The Horse Show premium list is the largest, too—one single event offering $4000. An entire train of 25 cars is enroute from the East—bringing many of the prize animals from the National Dairy Show recently held at Detroit.

The date is October 30-November 6, and we say GO and look and learn. Mr. Farmer. Then come back and talk it over with us here at the First State Bank.
