Walking.

In order that the human body may be in perfect health as to its circulation, digestion, nervous system and muscular system, exercise is absolutely necessary. More illness is caused by disordered activity in organs as a result of errors in diet, rest and exercise than are caused by actual disease processes. The various physiological processes of the body depend for their proper performance on activity. The lungs will not function properly if the chest is not well expanded. Indigestion will result if there is inactivity in the stomach and intestines. The heart structure will fail in its efficiency if an excess of fat accumulates in and around its muscular walls, or increases its work by a disproportionate deposit of fat through the body generally. The nervous system is prone to certain functional disorders such as irritability, insomnia, etc., resulting from the prolonged irritation by poison created by the body's inactivity.

Some form of exercise is necessary to keep the body in perfect health. The most universal and beneficial exercise is walking, for the amount, the rate, and the type, are easily regulated to the particular needs of the individual. Walking is a pleasant form of exercise, easily obtainable, and meanwhile an abundance of fresh air and sunlight are possible. Almost two-thirds of the muscles of the body are involved in walking; this exercises the larger portion of the body muscles. The nervous system, the circulatory, the digestive apparatus, are all stimulated by walking.

To get the greatest benefits from walking, one must have in mind proper attire. Properly fitted shoes are essential; they should not be too wide and they should be long enough so that the top of the toes does not touch the ends of the shoes, and yet at the same time big enough to allow the wearing of wool hose. In summer or winter, the use of wool as a covering for the feet makes for comfort in walking. The rest of the clothing will be indicated by the season, though wool of different weight is to be preferred. Walk with the weight carried on the outer side of the feet, placing the feet on the ground parallel to each other. The chest should be carried well forward and the arms should swing easily at the sides. The stride and rhythm are important because unless there is a free swinging of the arms which is accompanied by a slight turning of the body with each step, a very valuable exercise of the body becomes a loss. Walking in the manner described exercises practically every muscle in the body, keeps you physically fit, and gives you an added zest and enjoyment in the day's work.

Do not consider walking a serious task. Walking should be more than a means of progression—it should be a real joy.

Increasing the Tax Load.

Oregon has printed and mailed to all voters, 350,000 booklets containing 104 pages of bills, amendments and referendums to come before the people in November. The cost will run into thousands of dollars.

Securing signatures for initiative petitions has become a regular business.

That the people are beginning to rebel against this type of legislation is shown by their increasing tendency to vote "no" on nearly all measures. The expense of elections, however, piles up, and it is safe to say that it will continue to increase as the interest of the voter lags on account of being swamped with contradictory statements and a multiplicity of candidates and measures.

Oregon, which is a small state in population and where political operations are honestly administered, affords a good example of the cost involved in primary elections. It has been shown that in many country districts, the election expense to the state alone, runs over $1 a vote. This does not include the expense of candidates, or of measures submitted to the people by their proponents.

Is it any wonder taxes pile up? Practically every new law passed requires tax money forevermore. Unless there is some way of checking this flood of legislative activity taxes can only increase.—The Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau.

Taxation, Capital and the Oregon Farmer

By BRUCE DENNIS, Author of the Dennis Resolution.

During the heat and excitement of political campaigns and the confusing statements that attend them we are apt at times to forget hard economic facts, and the bitter fruits of some pet "ism" that look good in theory but do heavy damage in practice.

For this reason it is time to begin telling a few plain truths about land taxation, the incomes of our people, corporations and industries, and again to bring to mind the fact that capital does not need Oregon—but Oregon does need capital.

And the reason why we should continue to remind ourselves and our friends is because another effort is being made to force a state income tax upon our people despite the fact that practically the same tax cost many millions in capital and improvements to Oregon and the people of Oregon before it was repealed in 1924. We cannot expect a proved breeder of hard times to bring good times, because it can't be done. And here are a few of the reasons why.

In all of Oregon's 96,000 square miles there is an estimated population of only 825,000 people—less than 9 to the square mile. We have 55,157 farms—an average of one to every 15 people. We have only 2500 industries that employ five men or more—an average of one industry to every 330 people.

Out of Oregon's 825,000 people, 782,256 didn't have net incomes big enough to file income tax returns. Of the 42,545 who did, one-half of them showed earnings under $3000 and only 311 had earnings in excess of $10,000. Only one-fifth of Oregon's 5000 corporations made enough to file returns and of the 1073 reporting, 478 made less than $5000, and only 183 made in excess of $20,000.

Our farms and our industries are our two main sources for new wealth. They both face hard problems on account of scant and scattered population, long hauls, competition, insufficient capital, and heavy and ever-mounting taxes. If our farms are to prosper they have to secure outside money for loans and money to finance crops. If our industries are to develop they have to finance their purchases and payrolls. Both have to have markets and that means new people and more industries.

That is what the Dennis resolution is designed to do. It is an invitation for capital to come in and help us all out. We desperately need new money to open up the state. We have to have money for farm loans and no matter how pretty this talk sounds about a state income tax we cannot escape the economic and unalterable fact that new capital which we require does not have to and will not come to Oregon unless we make it advantageous for it to do so.

We must remember that there are 120,000,000 people in the United States. Of them one hundred and nineteen million plus, live outside of Oregon. They have plenty of need for the same money in case we of Oregon don't show that we really want it. We tried it once—and before the people repealed the state income tax it cost us millions; drove industries, payrolls and taxable wealth out of Oregon and taxes still went up! Every farmer who had to borrow money knows what it did to him, too.

No forward thinking and constructive citizen wants that disaster to happen again. Instead of making things hard for everybody—farmer, merchant, industrial worker and citizens in general we want to have a purely economic problem taken out of politics. The way to do it is to vote no against both the Grange Income Tax Bill and Offset Tax Bill and vote yes for the Dennis resolution. By this means we guarantee to every citizen, industry, and to capital that there will be no income tax before 1940. It further guarantees to every family that they will not have to pay taxes on their savings when their bread winner dies. It is a prosperity-making measure—it is sound business policy and deserves every progressive citizen's support.

Vote 306 X YES—Dennis Resolution.
Vote 329 X NO—Offset Income Tax Bill.
Vote 335 X NO—Grange Income Tax Bill.
