BE SUSPICIOUS OF AGENTS.

Gresham was visited recently by a duo of dapper young men who tried to take subscriptions for something or other, representing themselves to some as high school students, to others as paying their way through college. When someone called up the high school to confirm their statement they disappeared.

Estacada was evidently visited by the same pair, for the News, under the heading "Buy at Home," comments as follows:

"Every once in awhile Estacada is swooped upon by a swarm of high powered magazine salesmen. The usual plea they make is that the State University is offering a scholarship to young men who get so many points. Each subscription they take gives them a point. The hatless young men proceed to tell you how they crave the university education. Don't fall for it. They have no idea of ever stopping off in Eugene unless some student should ask them to a hop.

"You can place your subscription at home with your newdealer. Just at present the school is making a subscription drive for the Curtis basketball team by subscribing through them. Keep that money at home as much as possible."

FINE SARCASM.

Arborea, Dec. 8.—To the Editor Gresham Outlook:—"Safety first." I notice in a recent Outlook that a plan has been suggested that in the event of suspected danger from a prospective "Strangler" the telephone should be promptly used in calling an officer. This is a happy thought. One would hardly be justified in responding to inflated imagination and in calling an officer simply on sight of a passing stranger whose manners might not be altogether conventional, but if a bold character should enter a home some bright morning and suggest strangulation to a lone matron she should feel at liberty to offer him an easy chair and invite him to be comfortable and patient while she calls the sheriff. If the officer could not come till afternoon, light refreshments might be served at the lunch hour. Any well bred killer would appreciate such courtesies and it is possible that he would himself be "killed with kindness."

W. V. CHURCH.

Do your Christmas thinking early, is equally as good advice as Do your Christmas shopping early.

Isn't it rather cruel for the motor association to urge auto owners to make payment for their licenses a part of their Christmas buying?

Two shipments of linen mill machinery from Belfast, Ireland, have been received during the past month and preparations for the manufacture of linen goods in Oregon are progressing rapidly.

Last year the air mail planes flew 2,500,000 miles, carrying 14,145,640 letters, and only two lives were lost through accident, it is said.

There are in the United States 50,691 postmasters, according to recent report, and 45,181 rural carriers. Every year the postal service handles 23 billion articles.
