

Gresham Locals

Mrs. Edna Black, who formerly resided in Gresham, has been appointed by a nationally known clothing firm to continue the work of soliciting which was so successfully carried on by her husband during the last few years of his life. She will be assisted by her father and her son who have been taking special training for the work.

Despite the fact that this winter is a more rigorous one than last year, when flowers bloomed practically the season through, violets are now modestly putting forth their faces to the January atmosphere. Several have been reported in blossom in this vicinity, also daffodils and pink daisies are showing in sheltered places. Pussy willows made their appearance a week or more ago. Spring plowing has begun on farms near Gresham.

In the absence of the Rev. W. N. Coffee, who was called to The Dalles Sunday morning to conduct a funeral, the pulpit at the Free Methodist church where quarterly meeting was in progress, was ably filled by Mrs. Coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Carothers and the former's nephew Army Smith were called to Springwater Saturday to attend the funeral of Mr. Carothers' brother-in-law, William T. Smith, who died last Saturday. He had been a great sufferer for the past six months. He was 89 years of age and had been a resident of the Estacada neighborhood for the past 50 years. After the funeral service Mr. and Mrs. Carothers went with a nephew, C. T. Blackburn, and wife to their home at Oregon City where they remained until Sunday evening.

The family of E. Wall, which has been under quarantine for diphtheria for the past four weeks, has now been released, the two children returning to their work in the Gresham grade school Monday. Mrs. Wall was the only member of the family to contract the disease.

G. S. Campbell, who was engaged as meat cutter at the Newberg Packing & Produce company store in Gresham when it was organized, has resigned this employment to return to Portland. Fred Chalker, who has worked for T. R. Howitt in his meat packing plant on Union avenue for several years past, is the new meat cutter here.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Michael of Portland at the home of Mrs. Harriet Timmerman Thursday, January 13. The little one, whose weight was six pounds, has been named Jeanette Maxine. Another guest at the Timmerman nursing home is the seven-week old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bell of Pleasant Home. She is under the care of a local physician who is endeavoring to regulate her diet.

The Oscanette is being re-painted and tinted on the interior, W. R. Johnson is doing the work for Henry Sell, the owner of the building.

Work has begun on a bell tower to be erected at the front of the Free Methodist church. The tower will be ten feet square with a Sunday school room on the second floor and bellry extending well above this room. The entrance to the church will be changed from the southeast corner to the south end of the building, where steps will lead in from the west. The parking strip in front of church and parsonage will soon be graded for the accommodation of machines.

A decided improvement in the office of Hamlin & Hoss is the installation of about eight steel bins and as many sectional counters to take care of parts for automobile. These bins are interchangeable and fire proof and can be adapted to the size of the parts. All the large up to date garages and repair shops are now adopting this system. Within the next two or three months Hamlin & Hoss expect to expand their parts room and put in additional steel shelving of the same type.

W. J. Miller of Linnton was a guest at the home of his brother-in-law, George Kenney and wife Friday evening and part of the following day.

Mrs. C. I. Raker and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Raker and son returned Thursday from a six weeks' trip to Long Beach and other points in California. C. I. Raker was down for the holiday season.

The regular meeting of Post No. 30 of the American Legion and the Woman's auxiliary will meet on Tuesday evening, January 25, at the Gresham grange hall.

SPECIAL COMMUNICATION of Gresham Lodge No. 152 A. F. & A. M. in Masonic hall, Gresham, Thursday evening, January 20, 1927. Labor in M. M. Degree. Degree will be conferred by past masters of Gresham lodge. W. L. GORSAGE, Sec'y. A. W. METZGER, W. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andrew have moved from the Eastman addition to Portland. Mr. Andrew is employed as parts manager at the Walter Metzger agency.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gibson are rejoicing over the arrival of a son born to them Sunday night.

A supper will be given Thursday evening at the Baptist church by the ladies of the Baptist Guild to which all are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase E. St. Clair served the first course of a progressive dinner to a party of Portland friends on Sunday afternoon. Fifteen persons made up the party and four other homes were visited in Portland before the last course was served.

The second session of the Gresham sewing class which was formed a week ago will be held at room 10 of the high school next Wednesday morning, January 19, beginning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Wilson from the Girls' Polytechnic school in Portland, will have charge of the class. Those who attended the first session were well pleased and enthusiastic about the work. Others who desire may join the class on Wednesday morning.

Primroses are in bloom in the yard of Mrs. S. I. Leland.

A number of Gresham people embraced the opportunity last night of hearing the concert of the Portland Symphony orchestra in its program commemorating the centenary of the death of Beethoven. Elly Ney, world famous pianist, was the sensation of the evening in her wonderful performance on the piano. She received an enthusiastic ovation which called her to the stage again and again at the close of her playing. Madam Ney is the wife of Willem van Hoogstraten, conductor of the orchestra.

Earl Thompson, who has been visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Thompson of Gresham and his children Lyle, Wanda and Harold in Portland, left this afternoon for his home in Detroit, Michigan.

A number of Gresham people enjoyed the splendid Victory luncheon at the Benson hotel in Portland last Saturday. Plans for the affair were in the hands of Mrs. C. O. Horning, president of the Multnomah County W. C. T. U. Mrs. Geo. F. Money and Mrs. Frank Peak had charge of the table decorations, which were pussy willows and daffodils. Many fine congratulatory speeches were made by men and women representing various interests, showing the advantages resulting from the prohibition amendment, even though imperfectly enforced. Gresham people present at the luncheon were Mrs. Horning, Mrs. W. F. Honey, Mrs. H. S. Clow, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Honey, Mrs. Peak, Mrs. H. C. Larsen and Mrs. H. L. St. Clair.

Dean J. Wilmer Gresham of Grace cathedral, San Francisco, who is the guest of Bishop Wm. T. Sumner of Portland, was in Gresham today and a welcome caller at the Outlook office. This is the second visit of Dean Gresham to this place, which he calls his town, and in which he is greatly interested because of the name. Dean Gresham and Bishop Ivens of Milwaukee are national crusaders of the Episcopal church, who have been assigned to the crusade in the diocese of Oregon. They will hold special services in Portland and other cities for two weeks beginning February 6.

Unusual Interest Taken in Contest

The First State Bank essay contest is creating more enthusiasm than ever heretofore, says Archie Meyers, president of the bank. Those who did not receive a calendar are asking for one and those that have mislaid their instructions relative to the contest are asking for new copies.

One teacher writes as follows: "Notice of your essay contest has been handed to me. In your explanations you mention Robert Morris, a noted patriot, a man who practically saved the patriot army during one of the darkest periods of the Revolutionary War, in connection with such terms as 'speculative and vicious habits.' I am pretty well informed on the subject of American history, but I never even heard it hinted before that Robert Morris of Philadelphia was vicious. I have seen it deplored that such a noble patriot should lose his fortune after his commendable self-sacrifice and the substantial help that he gave the American army. I should like to know just where you get your information."

Our reply will appear in the Outlook next week. In the meantime many of the students are busy learning "How we can best live to preserve the government" which Robert Morris did so much to help organize and to which he gave so much financial assistance, at the most critical time.

The seventh and eighth grade students do not in any wise compete with the high school students this year, says Mr. Meyers, and much is to be expected from the seventh and eighth grade students throughout the eastern portion of Multnomah and Clackamas counties. Teachers and students should remember that the essays must reach the First State bank not later than February 1, 1927.

The First State bank is continuing its policy of purchasing historical calendars and has already purchased for the year 1928 the calendars for use in the schools taken from the original painting of J. Henry Hintermeister, the title of which is "The Dawn of American Expansion." Mr. Hintermeister, a man who has made a careful study of American history and hence brings out in his paintings what no other painter could do. The subject for the essay in 1928 will be made public about Jan. 1, 1928.

Food from the North.

The reindeer industry in Alaska, although a comparatively recent commercial undertaking, promises to become an important factor in the future development of the territory says the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture. The original stock of 1,289 animals imported to Alaska from Siberia about 25 years ago has increased to nearly 350,000, distributed in 110 herds.

More than 1,000,000 pounds of reindeer meat was exported from Alaska during 1924 and 1925, and a steady increase in the output and demand is indicated. When properly produced and handled, the meat compares with beef. It is fine grained, contains a good, palatable fat, and when fresh is exceptionally juicy and tender.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS

The Multnomah County Farm Loan association held its annual meeting last Saturday at Summit. Mr. McConnel of the Montavilla bank, who has been secretary since the association was organized, was re-elected, as was also J. Ross, who has served as president. The board of directors consists of J. Pounder, A. Barr and P. Andersen, all of Corbett.

Mrs. Jasper Crane is spending a few days in Portland. She has fully recovered from her recent illness.

Mrs. Doris Kaiser of Latourell has bought a home in Gresham, where she and her daughter Josephine are moving this week.

Chanticleer Inn was a gay scene on last Saturday night, when a large number representing the Oregon Chapter of the DeMolay of Portland gave a dancing party for members and friends. Both the Daughters of Job and the Rainbow, the organization for girls, were represented in the party, which was a fine and dignified gathering. A delicious banquet was much enjoyed.

The Parent-Teacher circle of Corbett met last Tuesday and voted to spend $50 on improvements and furnishings for the teachers' room at the high school. Twenty-five dollars was appropriated toward the $50 set of encyclopedia for the Corbett grade school. The first entertainment put on with the new motion picture machine, which was held at the high school on Wednesday evening, was well attended. The machine was considered entirely satisfactory. The P.-T. A. has presented the high school with a picture.

Invitations are out for a miscellaneous shower to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Woodward on February 12 in honor of their daughter, Lucile, who will be married in the near future to W. Gebhardt, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Gebhardt.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hicks, who are lying at present at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. W. Hicks, were honored with a shower last Thursday evening. A good many useful gifts were presented to the newly married couple.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burba of Corbett were initiated into the Order of Eastern Star at Troutdale last Saturday night, as was also Mrs. John McGinnis of Troutdale.

Young Boy Wins Swim.

George Young of Toronto, Canada, 17 years old, won the Wrigley prize of $25,000 by swimming the Catalina channel. The distance is 23 miles. He worked his way to California and was practically penniless before the swim. Now he will aid his widowed mother.

Balky Waffles.

An electric waffle iron should never be greased. If your waffles stick perhaps you have not put enough melted butter or other shortening into the batter. One or two extra tablespoons of melted shortening in the batter will often prevent sticking. Also when the waffle is brown and crisp and ready to take out of the iron, thrust a fork firmly into it and lift the waffle straight up. If you work around the edges with a knife attempting to loosen it in that way, the waffle will break and be almost impossible to get out whole.

Berry Growers Study Marketing Problems

D. E. Towle attended the meeting of the co-operative berry growers of Oregon and Washington held at Summer, Washington, on Friday of last week. At this meeting, which is the latest of a series of similar gatherings in the interests of the marketing end of the berry industry, the Berry Growers' Foundation, Inc., was formally launched. This movement, which is backed by an initial fund of $50,000, marks the beginnings of a nation-wide campaign to broaden the market for preserves, jams and jellies, thereby placing the small fruit industry of the northwest upon a solid commercial basis.

Provisional trustees elected at the Summer meeting include the names of D. E. Towle, J. J. Fisher and W. D. Fraley of Gresham. This cooperative effort toward standardization and marketing is the largest undertaking of its kind ever undertaken in the west, according to R. H. Kipp, manager of the marketing department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Kipp further says, "The significance of the undertaking is in the circumstance that the organization contemplates not only membership of the real berry growers but of all allied industries as well, including canneries, can manufacturers, label printers, distributing organizations and others concerned directly or indirectly with the growing of berries. The idea is to pool interests in advertising and promotion campaigns to expand markets for berries and to assemble marketing facilities to handle the situation properly after markets have been developed."

W. A. Linklater of Payallup, who was elected temporary chairman of the organization, declares:

"The importance of this new movement will be appreciated by everyone in the two states. The berry crop in 1925 was in excess of 100,000,000 pounds, for which the berry growers received close to $8,000,000 in cash.

"The prosperity of our territory depends in a large measure upon the return from the land. The highest per acre return from our land can be secured in raising berries. We cannot raise berries in larger volume unless we have broader markets."

Need More Forests.

Every country, foresters believe, should have one-third of its land area in forests in order to meet its timber and wood needs, says the Forest Service of the United States department of agriculture. Our country now has 138,000,000 acres of virgin forests, together with 250,000,000 acres of cut-over land, or a total of only 388,000,000 acres that are really valuable for timber production. This is only one-fifth of our total land area.

In addition to the wood used in buildings and other construction, thousands of articles, including even medicines and clothing, are made from trees or lumber. Furthermore, forests protect game and give enjoyment to hunters and vacationists. They also prevent the washing away of hillsides by heavy rains, and help to check floods by holding back the melting snow and rain water and allowing it to drain off slowly.

Home Her Career

It is not necessary to go outside the home for a career, says Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of Vice Pres. of U. S., "The Second Lady of the Land," cares little for outside interests or sports, she is an ardent lover of her home, and centers her life upon it.

ENFORCEMENT FILM SHOWN AT BORING

The law enforcement film, "Lest We Forget", which has been drawing capacity houses in all parts of the nation, will be shown Thursday evening, January 20, at the Methodist church in Boring, Oregon. This is said to be one of the most powerful dramas ever presented through motion pictures. It is a wonderfully realistic and dramatic portrayal of the tragedies of old saloon days, and makes an impression which will never be forgotten. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of Oregon and the superintendent, Rev. R. E. Close, will deliver an address on the most interesting topic of the day, "Can Prohibition Be Enforced?" Everyone is invited. There will be no admission charge. It is requested that children under 16 years shall be accompanied by adults.

"Choosiness"

The outstanding reason for malnutrition among American children is bad food habits. Of course, there are some parents who do not provide the right food for their children because of lack of knowledge of food values or failures to understand the importance of the information at hand. In any case bad food habits, whether based on the child's "choosiness" or the parent's lack of information, can be corrected only through education in what are the proper foods for children and how they can be trained to eat wholesome foods.
