A WRONG TENDENCY.

An outstanding feature in the cident commission in California is the recommendation that the state compensation insurance be given a monopoly in writing workingmen's at 11 by regular worship. The sercompensation insurance.

This is certainly a wrong tendency. State accident insurance is a good thing, but why make it a Through the Bible" will be conmonopoly? It's another instance tinued. This time the fall of man of the state going into business and because it is profitable cutting off all private competition.

Why should the state in a free country, attempt to crush the business of its citizens? asks The Manufacturer. Why is it not better that the state fund be required to compete with private companies, as the surest means of keeping the state insurance activities in a healthy condition, free from political dry rot that immediately afflicts any monopolistic governmental function?

One of the strongest arguments against enlarging the power of public officials to monopolistic proportions, is the mere fact that the officials themselves seek this enlargement of their authority.

It is easy for the private citizen to give up rights; it is hard for him to get them back. The minute he closes one avenue of private enterprise, he has limited his future possibilities by that much.

Already the advocates of state insurance are working hard to establish compulsory automobile liability insurance; and immediately that is done, we will see the same drive made, first, to have the state write the insurance in competition with private companies, and, second, to have the state create a monopoly of the business to the exclusion of private companies. Thus, another branch of business would be taken over by the state to the exclusion of its private citizens, and to the enrichment of thousands of new public officials.

It isn't all grind. The legislature is having some recreation repealing dead-letter laws.

Crisp, golden brown hot waffles-

made right at the table in the twinkling of an eye

Not long ago you'd have believed that impossible. The thought of hot waffles was associated with a ponderous iron affair, heavy to handle-slow to act-one that smoked most inconsiderately when it wasn't greased just right. Now, you can make these delectable golden waffles at your table, electrically, without using a bit of grease or having any smoke.

During February we offer
