FEBRUARY.

We are apt to think of February as a short month and of little consequence. Not so, however, so far as American and Oregon history are concerned.

Not only were the two greatest Americans born in this month but Oregon became a state and Portland became a city in February.

John P. Gaines, as territorial governor, on February 8, 1851, signed the bill which granted Portland a charter and provided for its incorporation.

St. Valentine's day, while of small significance, has that human appeal of sentiment that makes it interesting and perpetuates its observance especially among the young and the love-lorn and its observance is increasing.

For Oregonians February 14 has an added significance. On that day in 1859 Oregon was admitted to the union of states, to play an important part politically in the issues of the Civil War and an increasingly important part in the industrial development of the united country.

Oregon as a state is 68 years old and there is probably good grounds for the expression "Old Man Oregon." But Oregon should consider herself young, though slow in development, with a bright future in prospect. Some day Oregon will wake up, then her charms will become known, sought after and appreciated.

NARROW-MINDED PREJUDICE.

The Advocate, organ of the colored people in Portland, comments on the recent incident of excluding a 13-year-old colored grade school boy from a rink on the occasion of a class skating party as follows:

"A Greek owner of a rink drew the color line on one colored boy, member of a class of 41 whites.

"The white students resented the insult by leaving the rink in a body. Those children demonstrated the attitude of most, if not all, children when left to act of their own volition. They know nothing about race prejudice and care nothing of racial differences, and would grow to manhood and womanhood admiring the worthy if they were not taught prejudice and race hatred by grown-ups.

"When left alone they are perfectly satisfied to play together, fight together, go to school together, eat and sleep together.

"It is a pity and a disgrace to our civilization that the children are taught prejudice and race hatred.

"If left alone, the children would solve our race problem."

It is well the class left as a protest. They stood by their classmate who is an American boy, son of respectable parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cassidy. His color is purely incidental. Why doesn't the rink exclude the Greeks? or Japanese?

As the editor of The Advocate suggests race prejudice is superficial but persistent, especially among certain adults. Children are broader.

The Outlook editor is a roller skater enthusiast and believes the exercise is fine recreation for young and middle-aged, but he would hesitate to go to a rink that was so un-American as the one that excluded a 13-year-old colored boy, member of a grade school class party. The manager of the rink explained that the rink was open to the general public and the rule could not be overlooked. As if the presence of a colored school boy with his class would be resented by the general public!

Gresham happens to have two colored people and many more Japanese. They are welcome so long as they behave themselves and their conduct will average up with the rest of us.

Japanese children are in our public schools. A Japanese boy is a bright student in our high school and a leader in athletics.

Let's put aside narrow-minded prejudice.

The usual last week rush is on at Salem. The usual batch of last minute, ill-considered laws will result. Our system of law making is growing archaic and poorly adapted to modern conditions and needs.

Small Hat Still Rules for Spring

The small close fitting hat will be a Spring favorite in Fashion Centers. It is especially chic and flattering when a combination of satin and straw is used, with gay novelty trimming, ingenious cut-out trimming, or straw lace.

WITH FATHER'S HELP.

Under the caption "Will the Organized Mothers Protect Their Children?" the current issue of Sunset directs a strong editorial against the fifth and slimy flowing into every section of the country elected every two years, say one-third elected every two years for a six-year term, and no laws, except certain specified emergency measures, becoming effective at the session when proposed, we might secure better results with less expense to the state and less uncertainty as to changing policies and political intrigues. It would give us a businesslike government, and avoid the haste and rush that so often results in poor legislation. The proposal that has been made that the legislature hold a double session, the first for the proposal of legislation, the second for enactment, does not seem to meet the conditions. We commend the above proposed to our legislators for consideration. Who will introduce a constitutional amendment?

DANGER SIGNALS.
Since my last letter to this paper, I have seen the announcements of at least five deaths—the victims ranging in age from 51 to 66 years, all of them business men. The cause of death in each report was given as "heart disease." What has brought about this state of affairs? What may take place in the next decade, among our business men if this goes on? The question is deserving of our most profound study.

From an experience of almost thirty-five years, I am led to believe that the heart is one of the most durable, lasting organs of the human body; it is capable of enduring more punishment—and, undoubtedly gets it. Where? Not from intense physical effort; hearts fail in the swivel-chair—at the steering-wheel of the car. Pugilists never drop dead from heart disease—at least I never heard of one doing so; heart disease is rare among the laboring class.

The greatest enemy of the heart is, the overloaded stomach—the stagnant blood-stream—the rotten artery. Keep away from these and you will have escaped nine-tenths of the terrors of death from "heart disease." It can only be done by moderate indulgence in food of the plainest variety—and, drinking plenty of pure water; commercialized drinks, let them be water or what-not, should be thoroughly investigated as to their fitness for human consumption. The old oaken bucket that hangs in the well! supplies about the safest beverage known.

Tobacco is a genuine poison, don't be horrified, when I say Frankfurters and kraut may kill a man quicker if over-indulged. I am loth to call the faithful Irish potato a silent assassin, but am tempted to do so sometimes.
