Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

St. Patrick's day, next Thursday.

There's enough Irish in the best and the worst of us to make us one on March 17.

We don't like to disturb the birds and were taught to never destroy their nests, but what are we to do when they persist in building their nests in our office awning? Some day the sun will shine again, and then—

The average man or woman is about nine-tenths commonplace. It's the one-tenth that distinguishes the individual. Everyone has some distinguishing characteristic that might lead to an outstanding success if developed. Too many of us suppress, through fear or prejudice, the one thing that would lift us out of the commonplace.

The first electric fans were made in 1834. They were first rented for the season at a nominal price plus the cost of the current used. They were made without guards and caused many wounds when curious strangers and children poked their fingers into the whirling blades. The electric fan now finds almost as many uses in winter as in summer and one wonders "how did we get along without it so long?"

A hearing on the Longview bridge is being held today in library hall of the public library, Portland, before representatives of the secretaries of agriculture, commerce and war. The bridge as a toll bridge has been authorized by congress and approved by the president. Failing in an effort to block the bridge project, the Portland Chamber of Commerce is now bending its efforts to safeguard the interests of commerce and river navigation.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Defeat of the titling bill in the recent state legislature was not due to a lack of a majority favoring its defeat, says the Oregon City Enterprise, but to the existence of senate rules providing that a matter once laid on the table requires a two-thirds vote for reconsideration. Then this observant paper has the following pertinent paragraphs:

"Presaging opposition to the titling bill, upon which state appropriations were dependent, the ardent supporters of the toll road foreshadowed their course and stood pat. In effect, they said to the governor: 'Give us our toll road or we will block your revenues.'"

"The season will go down in Oregon history as one of high wind velocity, without much distance covered by the ship of state. It is an unfortunate spectacle when a constitutional majority becomes unable to maintain the financial credit of the state because of senate rules employed by an individual bloc, who gained their power through clever manipulations of senate rules."

Deserved credit is given to the men of hard-headed business ability, some of them farmers, but it is pointed out that 14 of the 30 senators were lawyers and 16 of the 60 house members, making one-third of the assembly of the legal profession. Of course, they are supposed to be wise on the laws.

OREGON TELEPHONE CO. ADDS TIGARD EXCHANGE

Addition of the Tigardville telephone company, operating an exchange at Tigard serving approximately 500 subscribers, to the properties of the Oregon Telephone company has been announced by Charles Hall, president, and Earl W. Gates, general manager.

A unique feature of the negotiations culminating in the sale of this property was the fact that final details were completed at a meeting held almost exactly 25 years after the date of the first telephone conversation in what was at that time Tigardville, now known as Tigard.

In 1902 a single telephone line was built between the residences of C. F. Tigard, president of the Tigardville Telephone company and B. G. Leedy and over this line was carried on the first conversation ever held on a telephone in that vicinity.

The Oregon Telephone company operates exchanges at Tigard, McMinnville, Gresham, Beaverton, Hillsboro, Forest Grove and Newberg.

ESSEX SUPER-SIX PROVES ENDURANCE

An average of more than a mile a minute—61.7 miles an hour, to be exact—was achieved by a standard Essex Super-Six Coach in a continuous run of nearly 14 hours on a dirt track at Tanforan, California, just outside of San Francisco, according to word received by M. C. Webster Motor Co., dealer, in the Gresham area.

This record run, said Webster, was made by amateur drivers who are connected with the service department of Stanley W. Smith, the San Francisco distributor for Hudson and Essex cars. The record was made under the supervision of newspapermen. Shortly after the test began, rain fell heavily, loosening the surface of the dirt track so as to interfere seriously with fast time. Writing of the run, one of the newspapermen who acted as an official observer said in part:

"Tanforan track was chosen to make the test of speed and stamina because it was the only available place in northern California. The track was never designed for anything but horse racing and in a few attempts that have been made in the past to put motor cars over it at high speed, four lives have been lost on the unbanked sharp turns. In addition to these handicaps, the track had lain in disuse for many months. It was overgrown with weeds, its surface rough and full of rain gullies.

"Added to these difficulties, lowering clouds began to spill rain on the course at the outset and continued at intervals throughout the darkness. With no special equipment except shock absorbers and a spreadlight, the Essex battled these adverse conditions hour after hour. Its sturdy motor never missed a beat during the long hours of the night. Lap after lap, it tore down the backstretch at top speed, slipping into the vicious curves at the ends, straightening out as it slithered through the mud and pounded over the wretched roadbed.

"The super-performance of the motor was equaled by the courage shown by the men who drove—none of whom had ever driven a car on a race track before. Several professional drivers who were present refused to go on, declaring that no automobile built could keep up such a terrific pace in view of all the obstacles.

"Words can convey no adequate description of the punishment that the Essex car took in this long grind or the unflinching courage of the men who kept on, hour after hour, in the face of obstacles which would daunt the most stout-hearted. Yet, at the finish, the motor was functioning so perfectly that the car was driven with four passengers, including myself as official observer, to the top of Twin Peaks in five hours.

"After observing the run, checking every detail and examining the car, I believe that had weather permitted, it could have gone on at this high speed almost indefinitely, even under all the other adverse conditions encountered.

"The record is surely proof positive of stamina, endurance, speed, reliability, roadability and power far greater than the most exacting person could expect in a motor car which sells for so little money. At Tanforan last Saturday and Sunday, if never before, the Essex earned its right to be called a 'Super-Six.'"

Despite the lingering days of winter, the first two weeks of March have passed with excellent activity in land settlement, according to the land settlement department of the Portland Chamber. Inquiries concerning farm opportunities have numbered 1516 during the period. Of these inquiries 447 were received from people who had been referred to the department by those who have already profited by its service, being either new or prospective settlers on Oregon lands. Twenty-seven settlers for the period were reported so far by local chambers of commerce. These families brought to their newly adopted communities investments which amounted to $67,900.

The telephone barely escaped being called a "pleistophone" from the Greek meaning the "voice of your neighbor." "Telephone" means "distant sound."

DRIVE AUTO CAREFULLY IN SPRING, SAYS WRITER

Spring driving requires its special precautions as well as winter car operation, but the motorist who has been forced to exercise restraint for the more severe months of the year may be inclined to ignore the need for further care.

This point is raised by George O. Brandenburg, secretary of the Oregon State Motor association, who points out that under certain inevitable seasonal conditions roads and streets in springtime can be just as treacherous as those of winter.

"The road that is dangerous in winter, because it is covered with ice or snow, may be just as much a menace to safety during the rainy spring months when a thin film of mud covers the highway," says Mr. Brandenburg. "As compared with driving over a snowy or icy road, it seems mere child's play to operate a car over one that merely is wet with rain. However, during spring, the wet road usually is made hazardous by the thin film of mud that works over it when the ground begins to thaw and there seems to be no bottom to the world.

"The American Automobile association, with which this club is affiliated in its far-reaching surveys into accident causes, has found that the hard-surfaced highway which is lightly coated with mud is a fertile factor in producing mishaps. It has shown that the well-advised driver makes the necessary concessions to safety under such circumstances by recognizing the potential dangers of the highway."

Green Mill Petition Rejected.

The Multnomah county commissioners yesterday rejected a petition asking for the license renewal of the Green Mill dance hall, a resort west of Gresham on the Powell Valley road. The petition was rejected on the advice of the commissioner's legal adviser in that it lacked the required number of 12 signatures of resident freeholders. Only six qualified residents signed the petition for the dance hall. It is said that a new petition will be circulated.
