One year, $2.00, six months, $1.10, three months, $0.60, single copy, 10c. Combination rates with all the Portland Dailies.

ADVERTISING Rates reasonable. Our representative will call.

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Special election today.

A few more days till the Fourth. "Ain't it a grand and glorious feelin'?"

The nearest celebration this year will be at Blue Lake Park.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars who sponsor the three-day celebration at Blue Lake Park will re-enact the "Trenches of Chateau Thierry." They know how to do it.

MT. HOOD IS STILL TO BE CLIMBED.

"The spikes of your boots won't collect chewing gum parked by giggling flappers on top of Mt. Hood," says the July Sunset magazine, commenting on the decision of Col. W. B. Greeley to refuse the right to construct a cableway to the summit of Mt. Hood.

"The climbing of Mt. Hood will continue to be done on foot, a feat to be proud of because it requires endurance, strength, courage and agility. Thus it should be.

"The west needs many areas in which men and women have an opportunity to make their way unaided by mechanical contrivances, and it looks to the Forest Service to keep them inviolate. Elbow room and self-reliance are far more important than a few additional tourist dollars. Golf without traps and hazards, with nets to guide the ball down the smooth fairway, would cease to be a game worth playing."

"YOU GOT TO GO."

Mary Carolyn Davies has written a beautiful little poem with the above title in which she says, when you have the rovin' fever, you got to go.

This fever is epidemic with lovers of nature, in this part of Oregon, at this season of year and the only cure is to "hit the trail."

The Eagle Creek trail is one of the most accessible and enticing for those who enjoy hiking of any in this vicinity. About an hour's drive from Gresham, over the Columbia river highway, brings one to Eagle creek camp ground where there is every facility for camping and safe parking.

Then to feel the lure of the green mountain sides, the rushing mountain stream, the dozens of roaring waterfalls, along an excellent trail that leads on and on toward higher mountains, with a new surprise breaking at every turn. That's what gives one a new grip on life, a new appreciation of the beauties of nature, inspiring a feeling of awe and reverence that cannot soon, if ever, be forgotten. One wants to sing—

"I love thy rocks and rills, Thy woods and templed hills, My heart with rapture thrills Like that above."

Even the weariness and chafed feet felt by the novice are soon forgotten but the thoughts inspired by the grandeur of the scenery long remain as a benediction.

BEE LICENSE IS A PROTECTION, CLAIM

Boring, Ore., June 24, 1927.—Editor Outlook:—After reading the letter by H. W. Snashall, will you permit me a few lines in defense of the bee license, as undoubtedly there seems to be a misunderstanding as to logical facts.

Let Mr. Snashall start out some day, make a short tour of our wonderful country, ask some of his neighbors if they have bees, and they will answer "We used to have bees but foul brood has taken them." And this is the reason a license is required, not for the bees but for the man that cares for the bees. As foul brood is menacing the honey industry of the country, people who have one or two swarms of bees that are attacked by foul brood, and they do not understand what it is and what to do for it. The bees fly about the flowers, carrying this disease, then bees from other apiaries carry it back to their swarm and what happens? This foul brood is spread on and on, and if nothing is done will soon eradicate all the bees.

Whereas, if a license is needed the government has the beekeeper's name and address and his bees will be inspected, and he will be told what to do if he has the foul brood in his swarms. And eventually this menace will be eradicated. So this license is only a protection for the bee not a great injustice, as the impression was given.

Health Notes

Safe Vaccine. Vaccine is a God-sent agent of protection against one of the world's worst diseases—smallpox, says Dr. Frederick D. Stricken of the State Health Board.

The vaccine is made only in establishments which have been shown by periodical inspection to possess the necessary personnel and equipment to produce a satisfactory product. The calves in which the virus is grown are kept in modern heated stables, that are models of cleanliness. Each calf is observed for a period of two weeks prior to use, and none are accepted but those shown to be perfectly healthy. A record of the history of each animal is carefully kept, dating from the time of purchase, through quarantine, propagation, the harvest of the vaccine, and ending with the autopsy of the animal which determines if any diseases other than vaccinia was present.

The vaccine when harvested, is immediately stored at temperatures below the freezing point to prevent loss of potency. It is removed from the cold only for such processing as is necessary to prepare it for the market. It is ground and mixed with sterile glycerine, then tested to determine that it does not contain any harmful substance. Each lot is tested on the skin of animals to determine that it will give good "takes" and as an additional test, a large quantity is injected into a guinea pig to prove that it is harmless to this animal.

After these tests are all completed, the virus is placed in small capillary tubes, one vaccination to each tube, which with a sterile needle and a rubber bulb for expressing the virus, composes the vaccination "outfit."

The manufacturer places the virus on the market to remain for only three months, and states that it must be kept below 3 degrees C (41 degrees F) during this time. It is obviously impossible to follow this temperature, but the doctor who uses the product and the person on whom it is used are entitled to know how it has been kept since it left the manufacturing establishment. Below freezing is best, on the ice next, and in the ice box third. Vaccine virus should never be kept from the cold, as some tubes will lose potency in seven days if they are not kept at a sufficiently low temperature.

For the year-old infant, the tot entering school and the boy and girl grown to the dignity of adulthood, vaccine is not only safe but necessary. It will insure them against smallpox. Now is the opportune time to be vaccinated for it. Now the doctors and clinics and boards of health throughout the country are uniting in a practical campaign to make you and every citizen of the United States immune. Ask your personal physician for information or consult your local board of health.

World peace is far less likely to be achieved by means of statesmen and diplomats than through the Greater Neighborliness so powerfully fostered by the telephone.—Dr. Frank Crane.

Clean Teeth.

The doctors and the dentists will pull your teeth, if you don't watch out! Infections will ruin the health, which means that an abscessed tooth may send its poison into the blood and joints and cause the latter to get stiff and lame. Bad digestion and poor health may come from bad teeth.

In the book of Job there is a line which says: "I escaped with the skin of my teeth." It isn't generally supposed nowadays that the teeth have skin. However, the care of them is very important. The cleaning of teeth is an age-old practice, although the methods have varied in different parts of the world at different times.

The first tooth brush used by the ancients was the "chew stick," a twig about the size of a carpenter's pencil, with one end beaten to a soft fibrous condition. This "chew stick" not only cleaned the teeth but also gave the gums a general and beneficial massage. Primitive people in some parts of the world still use this type of tooth brush.

An old time implement to keep the teeth clean was a strip of linen cloth. Tooth powder came into use in the 17th century. A burnt cork preparation became popular because the black charred cork whitened the teeth.

Modern bristle brushes are practically always made of hog bristles, the first grades of which come from the cold, bleak region of Russia, Siberia and China; where half-wild hogs are abundant. Apparently the thinner the hog, the longer and stiffer are the bristles.

The best type of tooth brush handles are made of pyralin, which lends itself admirably to the uses of tooth brush manufacturers, because it is hard, waterproof, flexible, and thoroughly sanitary. Hundreds of thousands of pyralin tooth brush handles are in daily use and they have taken the place of the old form of beef bone and other animal substance.

During a scarlet fever epidemic in a middle western farming community, the local Boys and Girls' Club held a meeting by telephone, the leader receiving a telephone report from each member.

More than 800,000 people have invested their money in the 9,600 telephone companies that serve the people of the United States.

North America has over 46 times as many telephones as South America.

New York City's new telephone directory contains 1,078,000 listings.

North America has more than 20 times as many telephones as Asia.

A continuous day and night telephone service has been established between Berlin and Paris.
