

Gresham Residence Looted by Burglar

Articles valued at about $300 were stolen from Mrs. A. Hughes' residence on Powell street and Wallula avenue sometime Sunday evening while Mrs. Hughes and her daughter, Miss Della Hughes, were absent from the house. The most of the articles taken belonged to Miss Hughes and included a winter coat and several pieces of jewelry, among them pearls and amber beads, a diamond lavalliere, bracelets and a cameo brooch. A traveling bag and an ivory toilet set were also taken, the latter the property of Mrs. Hughes. A small clock taken from the house was found on the ground outside.

Access to the house was gained by jimmying a bedroom window and it is certain that the intruder did not go throughout the house, as small sums of money easily accessible were not molested. The most of the work was done in the room where he entered.

GRESHAM POSTMASTER ATTENDS CONVENTION

Miss Elisabeth Johnson and her mother Mrs. Marion Johnson are enjoying a trip which has taken them as far east as Niagara Falls, New York, where Miss Johnson attended from September 14 to 17 the 27th annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters. A full program of business conferences, with addresses by the leading postal authorities of the United States, was interspersed with delightful outings to nearby points of interest and other social events.

En route Mrs. Johnson and her daughter stopped off at Chicago and Detroit where they spent a few days with relatives, among them the mother of Mrs. Johnson, 91 years of age, who visited in Gresham ten years ago. At Detroit they visited Ford's plant and air port, also the U. S. army air station. They planned to spend a few days at Brooklyn where Mrs. Johnson has a daughter, Mrs. Cushman.

Their route home will take them via Philadelphia, Chicago and Denver. At the last named place Mrs. Johnson has a daughter, Mrs. Goudy.

The various local radios will receive the report of the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight next Thursday afternoon and invite those interested to listen in. One of the most popular places, affording room in the open where hundreds can hear, is at the Radio Electric shop, corner Roberts avenue and Powell street.

Peter Michel Is Claimed by Death

The many friends of Peter Michel were deeply shocked to learn of his sudden death which occurred Sunday evening at the office of the Portland Electric Power company at First and Alder where he was employed as janitor. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from the chapel of Miller & Tracey.

PRUNES AND APPLES.

The agricultural department of the government in its crop report of last week covering the prune crop of western Oregon and Washington says it is at this time doubtful how much of the 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 pound dried prune crop can be saved. It is not thought the unsettled weather has caused any considerable damage. Some cracking, however, is reported. The production is very spotted, it says. Many orchards have a full crop, while often an adjoining orchard may be practically bare. Localities run from perhaps 40 to 90 per cent of a full crop. The total production will probably be around 60 per cent of last year, or possibly higher should favorable weather prevail. Present weather conditions do not look very promising, and there is a probability of considerable loss. Some driers will be in operation early next week, and probably all will be going by the latter part of the week.

Canneries have taken considerable of the crop at prices around $20 per ton. A few drier operators have bought fresh prunes to be delivered at $20 per ton for the fruit averaging good size. Small sizes will find pretty slow movement this year, and some few orchards probably will not be picked.

The report says the production of Oregon apples this year will probably amount to about 5,000,000 bushels. The commercial crop will be a little over half that of last year and a little below the five-year average of 4,500,000 bushels. The short United States crop appears to be stimulating the market. Numerous Oregon growers report orchards around $100 per bushel for orchard run apples, culls sorted out, in districts where there was practically no sale for the fruit last year. In the districts with a well established apple reputation very better offers are being made. Quite satisfactory f.o.b. offers are being made for packed fruits.

Forests Menaced by Fire.

A fire, plainly visible from Gresham, is said to be menacing green timber in the holdings of the Bear Creek Logging company in the vicinity of Sandy. The fire originated from the burning of slashings on the logged-off land and apparently proved hard to handle. There is another large fire on what is believed to be property of the Bridal Veil Lumber company.

At the same city during the week will be held the annual convention of the aeronautical division of the American Society of Engineers.

S. & H. PREMIUMS SHOWN IN GRESHAM

Many may have noticed the fine display of valuable premiums on exhibit in the window of the Walrad Mercantile company. These are but a few of the articles which are being offered by the Sperry & Hutchinson company in exchange for its new premium book filled with the green trading stamps which are known practically to every household in the land.

For several years past the Sperry & Hutchinson company has been giving a cash premium for a small book of stamps, but it has now discontinued that practice, due to a recent ruling governing these matters, and from now on will give a premium of more than relative value for a larger book of stamps. Due to the immense purchasing power of the company, these premiums are of better value than could be purchased by the individual with the money obtained from the book under the old system, according to those who are giving the stamps.

The green trading stamps are being handled by the Walrad Mercantile company, J. E. Metzger, the Gresham Service station, Gresham Drug company, A. J. W. Brown and the Myers bakery.

EXAMS. ANNOUNCED FOR FOREST RANGER

An examination for forest ranger will be held the latter part of October this year. Applications must be received by the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., not later than October 14, the forest service announces from its Portland, Oregon, offices.

This is the first ranger examination held since 1925. Places of examination include the eight forest supervisor headquarters towns in Washington and the 14 towns in Oregon.

The forest service points out the passing the examination does not necessarily mean an immediate appointment, since a vacancy must exist before offers are made. To quote from the notice, "applicants must be in sound physical condition and good health. The forest service requires that applicants be able-bodied and capable of enduring hardships and performing severe labor under trying conditions. Invalids and consumptives seeking light out-of-door employment are not qualified for the work and should not apply. No one may expect to pass the examination who is not able to take care of himself and his horses in regions remote from settlement and supplies."

Applicants must have reached their 21st but not their 35th birthday. Subjects examined on are education and mental tests, practical experience relative to duties of position of ranger and experience; the first two have weights of 40 points each, the last, 20; the passing grade is 60.

Ex-service men must attach to their applications their original discharge or photostat or certified copy thereof.

Positions of ranger carry salaries from $1620 to $2000 in the United States and from $1900 to $2500 in Alaska.

Applicants should apply direct to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. for form 2600 and state that the examination is for forest ranger.

POWELL VALLEY

Mrs. Mary Welch was the dinner guest Saturday evening of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wrenn at the Halcyon ranch, of which J. L. Bowman, of Portland, is the owner. This ranch, which is one of the model farms of the county, no longer features the splendid Jersey herds it did formerly. Mr. Bowman has now turned his attention in a different direction and some time ago disposed of over twenty Jersey cows. Instead of the dairy project, he has had set out ten acres of strawberries which are in a thriving condition and it is thought will prove more lucrative than the cows. In addition to the strawberries Mr. Bowman is a firm believer in the future of fibbers and has ten acres set out, some of the trees of which are four years old. Mr. Wrenn has successfully managed the Halcyon ranch for six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nelson have rented the house on the Frank place recently vacated by Mr. Husband and family, who moved to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wrenn drove to Salem where they visited the former's sister, Miss Sierra and Miss Etta Wrenn who moved there recently from Gresham.

Walking Is Urged; Aid to Longevity

There is talk of forming a hikers' or walking club in Gresham if a large enough number who are sufficiently interested can be found to make it worth while to effect anything like an organized effort. It is true that this is the automobile age and it is fast becoming the flying age, although doubtless it will be many years before flying will become a common sport for Gresham inhabitants.

But while it is true that it is the age of the automobile, and that agency contributes largely to a pleasant variation in the dull routine of living, it is likewise true that for the sake of health, for the sake of lengthening life and for the purpose of making that span more enjoyable, reasonable exercise must not be discarded to the extent it is being done.

This article is not being written for the teen age youngsters who are bubbling over with life and energy and who get sufficient exercise from their jaunts to and from school and from varied amusements to keep them in good trim. But where is the woman past 40 who can round out a mile without becoming winded or ready to sink with exhaustion? Walking is fast becoming a lost art, surrounded as people are by every facility for transportation. The auto is a time saver and folks have to make every minute count in this restless rapid age, forgetful that it takes time to pay the doctor, to say nothing of the inconvenience and the discomfort of illness.

If everybody would get out and walk three or four miles a day in the open, regardless of the weather, inhaling at every step deep breaths of ozone, throwing off the cares of life as a mantle, eat moderately and otherwise sanely, half the ills of life would be cured and life itself greatly prolonged. But just so long as the middle aged folks eat heartily of everything they want and settle back after dinner for a good rest, thereby accumulating flesh they have no earthly need of, just so long will their ills increase.

Walking has become such an obsolete factor in daily life that the average automobilist, in passing up a pedestrian, sometimes taps his own head significantly as much as to say, "Something wrong up there, poor fellow, guess he can't afford a car."

In the September issue of "Physical Culture" the editor has some pertinent hints in his article entitled, "Walking for Glorious Health". A few of Mr. Macfadden's ideas are briefly expressed as follows: "No matter what other exercise you may take, walking should be a part of your regular habit. There is nothing that can effectively take its place. Walking accelerates the circulation of the blood throughout every part of the body. It materially accelerates tissue changes which is so important in the maintenance of splendid health. The proper amount of walking will give you more life while you are alive. Every day will be more complete and more satisfactory, and it is no exaggeration to say walking will add many years to your life. Professional walkers remain young many years beyond the time for showing age."

The author in his article cites the wonderful possibilities of golf as a healthful exercise, but attributes those benefits almost solely to the walking necessary in the game. "Bubbling vitality, boundless energy and buoyant youth are within the reach of people if they but knew it, and that without the expenditure of a cent."

The Outlook would like to hear expressions from any who may be interested in this form of diversion and who would like to join such a club. Six persons have already signified their intention of becoming charter members. A few simple rules to be adhered to, with suitable by-laws, can be worked out if a club is formed. As walking is more beneficial when there is an objective, something along the line of a schedule might be planned to advantage. At any rate, suggestions are invited and will be welcome.

EDWIN A. YUNKER WEDS IDAHO GIRL

A pretty home wedding took place Thursday, September 15, at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Harry of Jerome, Idaho, when their daughter, Gertrude Helen, became the bride of Edwin A. Yunker of Gresham. Dr. A. G. Pearson of Twin Falls officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony.

A wealth of garden flowers was used effectively about the rooms. The wedding party stood in the living room before an arch covered with greens and cosmos. The bride was dressed in flat crepe de June rose, shading to crushed raspberry and shell pink. She carried asters of the same shades. Following the ceremony and congratulations, a buffet luncheon was served. Only a few relatives and close friends witnessed the ceremony. Mrs. Louis Yunker of Gresham, mother of the groom, was the only out of town guest.

Mrs. Yunker was graduated last spring from Oregon Agricultural college. She is a member of Delta Omega sorority and Omicron Nu and Cap and Gown honoraries. Mr. Yunker is a graduate of the 1918 class of Gresham Union high school and the University of California and is entering his third year as physics instructor at Oregon Agricultural college.

The young couple left immediately by automobile on a honeymoon trip and will later be at home to their friends at the Avondale apartments, Corvallis.

CEDARVILLE

Mrs. C. De Witte, her son Theodore and daughter Avilla attended Thursday at Oregon City the funeral of a young friend who was killed on the Pacific highway south of Roseburg.

Ray Card of San Pedro, California, has been visiting at Cedarbrook, the home of his uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Smith.

Cedarville is rapidly becoming a flower center and the gardens are admired by all. Miss Cora Giese's garden is a pleasure to walk through with its many varieties of flowers, roses and peonies predominating. Mrs. C. F. Rineg has a fine collection of dahlias; while Mrs. Percy Giese has a beautiful old fashioned garden where the many varieties of narcissus and iris each try to outdo the other. The garden of Mrs. Walter Forbes is beautiful with its asters and other annuals. Cedarville has one garden that cannot be seen from the highway and must be seen to be appreciated. That is Max Miller's rose garden where there are several thousand beautiful roses. The garden at Cedarbrook, the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Smith, is admired by many and can only speak for itself. Many perennials are found there and the garden is a continuous mass of flowers, from the tulips of early spring until the "mums" are gone in the late fall. There are 50 varieties of chrysanthemums. Nothing can be more beautiful at this time of the year than the wonderful colorings of the asters, zineas and marigolds.

The C. S. C. club will meet with Mrs. Walter Forbes on Thursday, September 22, for its regular meeting. The club recently completed two beautiful quilts which it sent to the Children's Farm home at Corvallis.

Mrs. Arthur Grant is able to be out again after a brief illness.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Giese were Mr. and Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Millison of Portland and Mrs. Mary Irwin of Seaside.

The dairy barn just completed by Byron De Young, who purchased the Heiney homestead, is one of the most complete in the state. It has a capacity for 100 tons of loose hay and will accommodate 60 cows. The stables are equipped with cork floors, have all modern dairy conveniences. The barn is ideal in every respect for the production of the highest grade of milk.

U. G. Smith has on display at his store two guns that are attracting much attention. One is over 100 years old and belonged to his father. It is a long barrel and muzzle loading gun. There is with it the old shot pouch, the powder horn and bullet mold. The shot pouch is made from the skin of a muskrat which his father trapped in Indiana. The other gun is a Civil War musket with bayonet attached. Both guns are of especial interest to the older generation as it reminds them of the old days.

Famed Hymnologist Gives Fine Recital

A most attentive and responsive audience, which filled the Powell Valley Mission church Saturday evening, greeted Robert Harkness of Australia, world famed composer and pianist, and listened with rapt interest to the hour and a half program which was without a dull moment from start to finish.

Mr. Harkness' work is, to say the least, imitable. His accompaniments and improvisations, many of which were more or less impromptu compositions in solo, duet, quartet, minor and congregational forms. Mr. Harkness showed himself the thorough musician when he imitated chimes perfectly in an original chime treatment of "Joy to the World."

One of the most enjoyable parts of the evening's entertainment was the composition of an impromptu chorus, based on a scripture text recited by a member of the audience. But three or four moments were consumed in getting the chorus into shape and Mr. Harkness then stepped to the piano and played it through. Everyone was soon singing it and when Mr. Harkness called for a volunteer to step to the front and sing it as a solo, offering as an inducement a copy of his song book, Mrs. Oscar Nooren sang it through twice to his accompaniment, with the applause of those present.

Interspersed with the musical part of the program was the droll wit of the entertainer which flashed through all he said. He concluded with an account of his conversion and how he came to enter this field of endeavor, which was intensely interesting. He has circled the globe six times in the interest of sacred song, the associate of such men as Charles Alexander, Dr. Torrey and the late Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman.

Mr. Harkness has consented to return for a second recital on Saturday evening, October 8, in the Mission church. He will appear this evening at the Arleta Baptist church and tomorrow evening at the Highland Baptist church.
