

Club Members Win Many Fair Awards

Multnomah county club boys and girls have again brought credit to themselves and their leaders by the fine showing they have made at the state fair at Salem. The poultry judging team of Fairview was awarded first place. The livestock judging team placed second in a competition with 16 other teams. Lawrence Douthitt was third high point boy in the contest.

Three out of four of the showmanship contests at the fair were won by Multnomah county club members: Anna Boeckli in the Brown Swiss class, Floyd Stafford in the Guernsey and Isabelle Newlands in the Jersey class.

Perhaps one of the proudest boys in the state is Floyd Stafford who was awarded a fine $150 Guernsey calf for his all around proficiency in club work. In determining the prize winner for this award, general record work, showmanship ability, work with animals and herdsmanship during the week are taken into account. The beautiful animal was donated by H. B. Howell, a prominent Guernsey breeder and the county agent of Josephine county. J. Luscher & Son of Fairview donated a $150 Holstein calf which was won by a club boy from Lane county under the same conditions as those observed by Floyd Stafford.

In the open class of winnings at the fair Paul Boeckli received the grand champion female prize in the Brown Swiss class and Theodore Brugger & Son the blue ribbon for their grand champion bull in the same class.

Louis Hoffmeister and S. B. Hall, Holstein breeders, each had a small group of animals on exhibit. Hall carried off five blue ribbons for the six animals he exhibited, and Hoffmeister received two blue ribbons for the three animals on exhibit. The Holstein showing at the fair this year was the strongest ever made.

All livestock departments at the state fair were well filled, many of them housed in tents. The quality was said to be exceptionally good all the way through.

"Y" Men Organize Gresham 'Pioneers'

Beginning with a group of about 25, a Christian citizenship club for boys to be known temporarily as the Gresham Pioneers, was organized at a meeting held at the grade school building last Tuesday evening. The initiation ceremony was conducted by H. C. Richter, city-wide director of community service for the Portland Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices this work is promoted. Mr. Richter was assisted by Joe W. Tibbetts, director of high school activities for the "Y". Both are ex-service men, Mr. Tibbetts having been commissioned as an officer in the World war.

The object of the juvenile organization is to provide a healthy medium by means of which normal, happy boys may "grow in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Under Christian leadership they are taught reverence, loyalty, patriotism, the care of their bodies and many other traits of character that will tend to make them useful citizens.

Any boy from 12 to 15 years of age who is willing to try to live up to the four cardinal points, intellectual, devotional, physical and service as emphasized in the club ritual is eligible to membership in the group.

Annual membership dues in the club are nominal and but cover cost of necessary supplies. In addition to the local benefits, the boys without further charge may go to the Y. M. C. A. any Saturday afternoon and receive instruction in physical development under competent instructors. This service is an extension of courtesy by the Portland "Y." Ellis Judd was chosen to act as leader with Robert Barnes as assistant leader.

Sponsoring the group is a central committee, members of which have worked for months to perfect plans for this movement in Gresham. Those named on the local Y. M. C. A. committee are Rev. E. G. Judd, C. M. Quicksall, Rev. H. V. Wilhelm, Benj. H. Davies, Rev. E. Horstmann, Melvin Brugger, Rev. D. B. Weintz and Jas. A. Bushong.
