

Unique Restaurant Opened by Sid Wood

Many Gresham people have availed themselves of the opportunity during the past three days of dining at "The Unique," the new eating establishment opened up Wednesday by Sydney Wood at the 12-Mile corners north of Gresham.

Mr. Wood, proprietor of the Oregon Grill, the well-known clubhouse on the Sandy river, has spared no time or effort to make his latest eating house all and more than its predecessor. He has worked wonders with the small building which he purchased recently from George Page, transforming it into a neat yet ample eating place, capable of seating about 40 persons.

The grand opening Wednesday evening far exceeded the anticipations of those interested in the enterprise. Old friends and new friends were numbered among those in attendance at some time during the day and evening. Those present at the opening meal pronounced it excellent in every detail and this is proving true with the succeeding ones.

Artistic hangings, a homey fireplace and music by an electro, combined with pictures and seasonable flowers, make up one of the most attractive eating places to be found anywhere on the various roads leading out of Portland. Mr. Wood is considered worthy of the continued patronage of a wide circle of friends.

In speaking of the name "Unique" as applied to the new eating house, Mr. Wood says his new venture is not to be considered the same as a roadhouse, as that feature is popularly known, but is to be run solely as an up to date dining place with all objectionable lines of entertainment strictly barred.

WEDDING RECEPTION PLANNED FOR COUPLE

Invitations are out for the reception to be given Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Staffenson in Powell Valley for their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Tanney F. Staffenson, who are expected home from their wedding trip from Minnesota soon.

The wedding was an event of September 30 when Mr. Staffenson and Miss Eleanor Carlson of Aiken, Minnesota, were united in marriage at the Lutheran church of that city by the father of the bride, the Rev. J. E. Carlson, pastor of the church. The Rev. and Mrs. Carlson and family were former residents of Powell Valley, where Mr. Carlson was pastor of the Saron Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. Staffenson will make their home for the present with the groom's parents until the completion of a new home which will be built on their ten-acre tract, a part of the Staffenson farm.

Economic Situation Subject of Letter

Gresham, Ore., Oct. 11, 1927.—Editor Outlook:—A retrospective view of the agricultural and economic situation or condition that confronts the people of the United States, in fact the whole world's agriculture has suffered and lost heavily by seven years of agricultural depression but we in this country seem to have been hit the hardest and the question is how long can other interests prosper with agricultural depression.

Other countries have tried to help their agriculture by favorable legislation more than we have. As an instance I wish to cite you to the wheat market quotations in Minneapolis and Winnipeg under the date line of October 8th where the same grade of wheat No. 1 Northern is quoted at a spread of 14 1/2 cents per bushel and there is a difference of 5 cents per bushel on the freight rate from a given point in Saskatchewan and a similar point in eastern Montana or western North Dakota, making a spread today of 19 1/2 cents per bushel which in itself would mean a nice profit or loss.

At this time the Canadian railroad commission is seriously considering a reduction in freight rates, while our interstate commerce commission is called upon by our railroads to consider a re-valuation of our railroad properties from 18 billion to 40 billion dollars as a basis for increasing the rates, in order to keep the earnings down to 5 1/2 per cent as allowed under the Eitch-Cummings law which provides that all earnings over this amount shall be refunded to the government. Incidentally, I wish to say that under the law there has been accumulated many 100 of millions of dollars that should be paid over by the roads to the government but the roads refuse to disgorge until the supreme court says they must and to prevent refunding they ask to double the valuation.

This is one of the reasons for agricultural depression that should be corrected but it seems to be a hopeless task as the law says the roads shall have their pound of flesh and they have enough nerve to ask for more.

In fresh fruit express shipments there are many thousands of cars shipped annually that make a loss for the grower and shipper but the roads reap a handsome profit. In our experience this year in shipping blackberries in car lots the roads got $100 per ton for delivery as far east as the Twin cities while the shipper got $86 gross and nothing net after the harvest cost and taxes is paid leaving nothing for the investment or cost of production. The question is, how long can we carry on this way?

The truth is that all other elements of our industry are organized and have had favorable legislation enacted except agriculture, but the powers that be claim that the McNary-Haugen law that was passed by the last session of congress was class legislation and our executive used the veto ax for fear it would work a hardship on the consumer of bread or the baker so it was thought best to have the bankrupt farmer stand the loss.

Incidentally, it is a matter of record that the Oregon delegation in congress all voted for the McNary-Haugen bill except the late Hon. Maurice E. Crumpacker, who did the bidding of the city of Portland and voted against the measure. This leads up to the question of whether Mr. Kōreil would have done likewise if he had been in congress, or how Mr. Watkins would have voted. The record of Mr. Watkins' votes cast while in the previous congress would lead the writer to conclude that he would have voted for the McNary-Haugen bill which would have made the Oregon delegation's vote solid for it.

This question will come up again in the next congress and may be made a national question, so the election of a congressman from this district may be very important to us farmers and all who are dependent on agricultural prosperity.

The principle involved in the bill is to take care of the surplus annually in any of our staple farm products and prevent the surplus breaking down the value of the whole crop below the cost of production. It is a reasonable theory and, if given a trial, would doubtless help to steady values. There should be a full vote cast on Tuesday the 18th. All should do their duty as they see it, but they will not do their duty if they do not vote. Good citizenship requires that all go to the polls and vote on all questions for the best interests of all of the people as they see it. This is a great privilege but it also carries with it a great responsibility as one citizen's vote is equal to that of any other citizen.
D. E. TOWLE.

FELIX CHIODO WEDS OREGON CITY GIRL

Felix Chiodo, a well known young man of this vicinity, and his bride formerly Miss Elsie Kuhnhausen of Oregon City are receiving the congratulations of their friends. They were married last Saturday at St. John's Catholic church at Oregon City by the Rev. Father Hildebrand, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chiodo witnessing the ceremony.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kuhnhausen, was a former attendant at the Oregon City high school where she was prominent in student activities. She was the editor of the "Hesperian", the high school annual. Mr. and Mrs. Chiodo will live on the Chiodo farm west of Gresham. He is a member of Dahlquist's orchestra which fills dance engagements.

MAKES SUCCESS OF POULTRY RAISING

An example of a livelihood being made in poultry if only attended to properly is found in the case of H. Wirth, a poultry rancher living north of the Section Line on the Kaser road. A glance at the well-kept yards on the Wirth ranch shows it at once to be a chicken yard of more than ordinary proportions. Mr. Wirth came to that locality four years ago and purchased a tract of ten acres. He has cleared six acres but four are still unimproved. He has erected a comfortable home for himself and wife and two children and is enjoying the benefits of his hard work in clearing and putting a portion of his farm under cultivation. He now has over 1000 White Leghorn chickens, believing the White Leghorn variety to be the best egg producer. Ample pens and lighting facilities are conducive to a successful egg production. Mr. Wirth is a firm believer in cooperative marketing. He is a member of the Pacific Cooperative Poultry Producers' association and has no trouble in disposing of eggs at top prices.

Old Time Drama to Be Given.

"Mr. Rich from Richmond" is the title of the unique and restful old time drama which will be presented Saturday evening, October 15, at the Russellville grange. More than a dozen persons are comprised in the interesting cast of characters and it is safe to say the entertainment will be one of unusual amusement. Dancing will follow the play.

Portland Symphony Season Opens Nov. 7

November 7 is a date to enter in your date book and write after it—Portland Symphony orchestra—at the public auditorium. Then the next date should be Saturday morning, November 12.

These dates are set apart for the opening concerts of the seventeenth season of this great musical organization.

The first of these concerts will be the opening event of the regular Monday night subscription series of ten concerts; and the second will be the opening event of the series of seven Saturday morning performances.

The Portland Symphony orchestra has, since its inception in 1910, developed steadily, until it is today considered to be one of the dozen or more outstanding civic symphony organizations in the United States. Portland is almost unique among cities of like population in that it supports an orchestra of the standing of that maintained by the Symphony society of this city. Much impetus was given the development of the organization, by the appointment of Willem van Hoogstraten as conductor, more than two years ago. During the last two years the orchestra has made tremendous strides in musicianship, patronage, and in quality and extent of the programs offered the public. Mr. van Hoogstraten will return to Portland during the latter part of the present month, and will commence rehearsals at once. The orchestra will have the largest personnel, the coming season, it has had during its entire history. Moreover, the programs as outlined by Mr. van Hoogstraten during the summer, and approved by the library committee of the symphony society, are by far the most elaborate the orchestra has ever undertaken to present.

THE CITY THAT VOTED JESUS OUT

The ten Monday evening programs represent a variety of about 50 compositions, 20 of which have been newly added to the symphony society's library. The numbers that are being repeated over last season and preceding seasons are selected on the strength of their appeal to the musical public of this city. The selection of new numbers is based almost entirely upon the preference of the musical public in the great music centers of the world. Many of the numbers are genuine classics, having great reputations, which have, for some reason, failed to penetrate to this part of the country thus far. The inclusion of new repertoire pieces should not be interpreted as an exclusion of the better-known pieces that are loved by all, for such has not been done.

Added interest is being taken in the coming series of concerts in the excellence of the list of soloists announced for the season. The list consist of Ignaz Friedman, Ely Ney and E. Robert Spitz, pianists; and Albert Spalding, violinist; in addition, David Campbell, distinguished Portland pianist, will be featured as soloist in one of the Saturday morning events.

The management of the symphony society announces that reservations for seats for both Monday evening and the Saturday morning series of concerts may be made until shortly before the first concert. It wishes to emphasize, however, that reservations made in the near future will make it possible for the patron to have the selection of a good location of seats.

All of the concerts of the orchestra for the coming season will be held, as in past seasons, at the public auditorium.

Don't make excuses—make good.

California Guests Are Given Surprise

A most pleasant social event of Wednesday evening was a surprise given Mr. and Mrs. Dan Metzger of Lodi, California, who are visiting relatives and friends in Gresham and other places in the vicinity. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. Metzger's sister Mrs. Clementine Metzger and was attended by more than 30. Wednesday proved to be the 48th wedding anniversary of the guests of honor and this made the occasion doubly significant. Six were present at the surprise Wednesday evening who were at the wedding of the couple 48 years ago.

At such a gathering it was not hard to find diversions for the evening. Part of the time was spent in listening to piano numbers by Miss Helen Exley, but for the most part reminiscences were exchanged, old friendships were renewed and the events of olden days lived over in the present. During the evening refreshments were served and Mr. and Mrs. Metzger were presented with a beautiful floor lamp.

During their visit in Gresham they have been extensively entertained. Their niece, Mrs. Bessie Dixon of Portland, entertained at a luncheon in their honor Wednesday. The day previous Mr. and Mrs. Metzger, Mrs. Clementine Metzger and Mrs. Violet Poff visited to Newberg where they escorted with Mrs. John Weatherly who has been an invalid for the past four years.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. John Sleret, Mr. and Mrs. George Sleret, Mrs. Arnold Ruegg and Mrs. Anna Drube drove to St. Helens Thursday where they visited Mrs. Clara Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fieldhouse.
