

GRESHAM OUTLOOK

Published every Tuesday and Friday at Gresham, Oregon, by the Outlook Publishing Co., H. L. St. Clair, Editor and Manager.

Yearly, $2.00, six months, $1.00, three months, 50c. Single copies, 10c. Combination rates with all the Portland Dailies.

ADVERTISING Rates reasonable. Our representative will call.

Entered as second-class matter March 2, 1911, at the Postoffice at Gresham, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE HOLIDAY OUTLOOK.

It was a big undertaking but was in the mail on the date of issue and that is always the first thing that satisfies the publisher and probably also the advertisers and readers.

The Outlook regrets that the conditions and necessities of publication prevented the use of all the good material contributed. This and succeeding issues of the paper will contain the overflow.

The many favorable comments made on the holiday number are appreciated and apply to every worker who had a part in the undertaking.

The Outlook is very thankful to all who contributed in any way to make it a success.

CRIME FOR MONEY.

This is an age of crime. Life is held so cheaply it is hardly possible to understand just what value criminals place on human existence. There is apparently a growing tendency on the part of criminals to commit crime solely for money. These crimes range from the comparatively simple one of burglary to the most atrocious the mind can feature, such as the heinous crime which now occupies the center of attention, that of the murder of a little innocent maid of 12 in Los Angeles.

The details of this crime, one of the most revolting in the annals of criminology, are well known to the reading public and need scarcely be reiterated. Who but a fiend, for $1500, or any amount, would with his hands reddened and the soul blackened for eternity, with the blood of a child who never wronged anyone in her brief life?

What must be the feelings, the outlook on life, of this monster, the self-styled fox? What sum of money could stop the ringing of a death knell in the ears of such a man? It would seem as if he must forever hear that plaintive, pleading postscript to the childish letter, "Please, daddy, I want to come home this morning."

The sum total of the award now out for this arch criminal is $100,000. May the slayer of little Marian Parker be brought to speedy justice is the prayer, both spoken and silent, on a million lips.

Evangelist Urges Family Worship.

Mrs. May Giltner writes the Outlook suggesting to the fathers and mothers of Gresham that they hold a few moments sacred each day during these weeks for worship in the homes. With the family together it would be well, she suggests, to read a psalm, offer a prayer and perhaps sing a hymn which the children know.

Mrs. Giltner's suggestion is a good one for any season. The practice would go a long way toward developing in the children qualities of mind and heart which would help them to meet the temptations of life.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Giltner are missionaries of the International Christian Union, Inc. They conduct regular services at the Pleasant Valley community church.

COTTRELL

A Christmas entertainment and tree will be given at the Cottrell community church Saturday evening, December 24. All are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Klinaki, who are living on the Chase farm near Gillis station, have purchased a 30-acre ranch, the old Bud Jones place, located on the Bluff road near the Cottrell schoolhouse. They expect to occupy their new home about the first of the year. They will live in the house now on the property and later plan to erect a new home there. At present Mr. Klinaki is engaged in building a large chicken house on the farm.

A birthday party, which was arranged by John Miller and Oliver Loney for J. M. Brophy and L. E. Craewell, was given at the Brophy home Saturday evening, December 17. About 100 guests were present. Included among them were, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kubitz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Griffin and Miss Alma DeLarco of Sandy; Mr. and Mrs. Mendenhall and children and Mr. Stoney of Boring; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Hoyt and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baxter of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Baxter and Mr. Hoyt furnished musical numbers during the evening which were much enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

High School Boy Tells How to Grow Cauliflower

By HOWARD LINDROOTH, Member of the Farm Crops and Horticulture Class in the Smith-Hughes Agricultural Department of the Gresham Union High School.

To grow cauliflower successfully one must first get good seed. Some of the best seed is secured from Peter Henderson, seedsman, New York City. He charges one dollar an ounce for Wyboits Express Snow Ball. You should plant at least an ounce to the acre but if you plant more seed you will be sure to have enough plants. The seed should be planted in an open but protected seed bed, about April 25, to May 10. Sow the seeds in rows about 18 to 24 inches apart so that you may cultivate between the rows. The seed bed should be fertile but not exceptionally so because if it is too fertile it will produce soft plants. The small plants should be watched carefully to see if they are infested with maggots or other diseases. If any becomes infested they should be thrown away.

When the plants get about six or eight inches high it is time to transplant them. This should be done during cool moist weather, but if it is during a hot season it should be done toward the latter part of the day when the heat is not so intense. They should be ready for transplanting between the 25th of June to the 15th of July. Some people recommend setting the plants about 3 1/2 feet between the rows and about 3 to 3 1/2 feet between the plants in the row, but locally they plant them about 2 feet between rows and about 2 feet between the plants in the row.

A rich, well drained soil capable of holding a constant, liberal moisture supply is best for this crop. A soil that is too wet will probably cause what is known as root maggot. It doesn't make much difference what slope it is raised on if the soil is good but the north slope seems to hold the moisture a little better during the hot summer months.

The black soils are not good for cauliflower because the root maggots are worse in them. A little rock salt put along in the nearest cultivator furrow will help to control this, but if you put too much in it is liable to kill the plants. The most danger from the root maggot comes when the plant is in the seed bed. One ounce of bicarbonate of mercury to 12 gallons of water sprayed on the plants will help control the root maggot in the seed bed. A tight, fine screen stretched over a frame will also keep the flies out.

Aphis frequently attacks the leaves and can be controlled by the use of nicotine dust. Green cabbage worms attack the plants and may mar or discolor the head. The plants should be sprayed or dusted with arsenate of lead every ten days to two weeks if the yellow butterfly or adults are seen in the field. The nicotine dust may be combined with the arsenate of lead when aphis are present.

The ground that is going to be used for the cauliflower, should be plowed deep and as soon as possible in the spring. The fertilizer should then be applied and disced in. It should then be harrowed every week or ten days until the cauliflower is ready to plant. After the plant has set, you should cultivate often enough to retain the moisture and to keep down the weeds.

When the heads get about the size of a hens egg, the leaves should be tied around the top of the head to keep the curd or developing flower pure white. This process is called bleaching. The patch has to be gone over often to catch the heads at the right stage. Different colored strings are sometimes used in tying the leaves to aid in telling the stage of maturity. After the plants are tied some one has to look at each plant every few days to see if they are ready to pick.

When the heads have reached market size you should secure crates for shipping them in. The average crate holds from 12 to 14 heads if the cauliflower is of No. 1 size. After the cauliflower is cut and stacked in piles in the field the good heads are picked out and packed in the crates with the leaves on. The rotten or blown ones should be trimmed and sold to some pickle factory which will probably pay from one to one and a half cents a pound for them. The heads packed in the crate should be packed in as tight and neatly as possible. After they are packed the leaves will be sticking out a considerable distance, which should be cut off with a large knife that will reach across the top of the crate. Shove it down over the top of the box bowing the blade in the center so as to hold the heads in place when the top is fitted on. Three strips are then nailed over the top of the box, then the number of heads counted and marked on the outside of the crate. The crates should always be shipped upside down because if it isn't the water from the ice will drip on the head and will get on the curd which will make it dirty.

The markets in the west are over supplied with cauliflower and you won't be able to get enough to pay for growing it so it is best to find an eastern market for the cauliflower before you plant it. The eastern markets are usually good and the cauliflower associations here are securing good prices this year. You usually can make good profits on this vegetable because it is much used. This country is very suitable for cauliflower growing because it is warm during the spring and does not get as dry as other places during the summer.

SPRINGDALE

Bobbie Gross, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gross, had the misfortune to fall recently on some ice and break his arm. He is getting along nicely now.

Mrs. A. LaLonde entertained the Needle club Wednesday afternoon. A very pleasant time was spent after which refreshments were served. A suggestion was made to remember absent members with a Christmas card. Mrs. Prebe will entertain the club on December 28. There will be a grab gift bag to which each will contribute and from which each member will draw a gift. All are looking forward to a good time on this day.

The Springdale school will have a private Christmas tree, at which time the children will enjoy their annual Christmas entertainment.

Wilma Lucas, who has been ill for about two weeks, is improving.

Mrs. Lellie Usher and two children, of Bend, Oregon, are visiting with her sister Mrs. Jack Zilm.

Mrs. Sadie Phillips died in Portland, Oregon, recently at the home of her sister Mrs. Nelle Bannerman. Mrs. Phillips had been ill for about four years. Her husband was called from Calgary, Canada. She leaves a brother Will Wright, and a sister Mrs. Ann Reynolds. The funeral was held in Portland Friday at 10 o'clock, with burial in Columbia cemetery.

Residence Burglaries and hold ups are more numerous at the Xmas holidays than any other time of the year, due to the valuable gifts of jewelry and silver that one has, and the extra money one carries for shopping.

Don't let your Christmas be spoiled by such an occurrence when, for a small amount, you can get a Burglary and Hold Up insurance policy through Elkington & Brown, Telephone Bldg., Gresham, Phone 2501. ASK US ABOUT IT.—Adv.

State School Funds for Farms Loans, 6% Loans are made on basis of one-third of the agricultural value of the lands exclusive of buildings. Maximum loan $5000, minimum loan $250. The state cannot lend more than the assessed value of the lands as shown by tax receipt.

No commission is charged for making these loans and the only expense is in connection with the title to the land and recording the mortgage.

For further information see John A. Beckwith, attorney and agent for State Land Board for Multnomah county, 614 Porter Building, Sixth and Oak streets, Portland, Oregon.—Adv.

We Find the Cause

Tire troubles don't just happen. There's usually a reason. Tires will wear out—of course—and the poor ones quit long before the good ones. But many tire disasters can be avoided by locating the cause BEFORE instead of after. We sell Goodyear Tires. We back them with service based upon the "prevention" idea. The combination will save you tire money. Drop in and let us quote our price on the size you need.
