ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Again we honor the memory of that grand man and towering type of the best American citizen—Abraham Lincoln. To read about him and to look on his picture inspires one to noble thoughts and purposes.

Sixty-three years ago, nearly, he died a martyr to the cause of freedom. He lived for his country, he died for it as truly as ever did soldier on the battle field. But the memory of him lives on and on to bless each succeeding generation.

What Lincoln stood for and what he said and did has been a guide and bulwark of the nation.

There is much that has been said in tribute to Lincoln. His character, his greatness, have not and cannot be overdone. No one has stooped to besmirch his character or impeach his life and work. It is not idealism, or hero worship to say that he stands above reproach.

The story of his boyhood of poverty, his struggles for learning, his fidelity to every trust, his high ideals, his loyalty to principle—these things are needed today, and children need them and so will their children. It's a story that never grows old.

He has been called the Savior of his country. His spirit was diffused to the great majority of those who associated with him and is dominant in our citizens who have survived him and those who have read and thought of him. There are Lincolns today. As we keep his memory fresh in the minds of the youth Lincoln will live on to bless the nation he saved.

BARNES & SON SELL LOCAL LUMBER YARD

Coming as a surprise to the industrial part of the community is the announcement that the Barnes & Son Lumber company, which has been in business in Gresham for the past two years, has disposed of its Gresham holdings to the Copeland Lumber company, an incorporation of a line of branch stores, with headquarters in Portland.

J. F. Barnes, general manager of the Gresham plant, came here two years ago from Seattle and, with Sam Rorrison of the same place, bought out the Jones Lumber company, located on East Powell street at the intersection of Maple avenue.

In October of 1926 Mr. Rorrison sold out his interest to Herbert Barnes who has since been associated with his father in the business which has enjoyed a steady growth since that time.

The plans of both Mr. Barnes and his son are as yet indefinite as to the future. Since taking possession of the Gresham yard they have built up a fine retail trade in this and surrounding territory and their friends bespeak for them success in whatever line of endeavor they may choose to engage in. It is understood they will dissolve partnership and take up different vocations. They are thoroughly appreciative of the patronage given them by their friends in this vicinity. They expect to remain in charge of the yard here until March 1, which will give them an opportunity to straighten up their affairs satisfactorily.

The Gresham yard will make the 19th one which the Copeland Lumber company will be operating in Oregon and Washington. They will be represented in Gresham by a sales agent who will be in charge of the yard two weeks from this time.

Not all advertising pays. That's true. Neither is all human effort productive of the right results. It depends upon the proper engineering back of the effort and the merit of the product offered for sale. A product of merit—plus good advertising—is a combination that always wins.
