Goitre Specialist Will Examine Pupils

Goitre prevention work among the pupils of Multnomah county schools is being actively carried on by the Multnomah County Public Health association. Dr. J. Earl Elise, eminent goitre specialist and member of the University of Oregon Medical school faculty, has consented to give a half day once every two weeks to this campaign. He will visit the schools of the county and examine the children for signs of goitre. Where such signs are found the parents will be notified that steps may be taken to cure the disease. Simple prevention measures will be recommended for all children not actually showing signs of the trouble.

The examination will be given to those children only whose parents send their written consent. It is simple and painless and will be absolutely free. So quickly can the test be given by an expert that it is expected that the children of both the Gresham and Orient schools can be examined in a forenoon. The date set for the tests is Wednesday, March 14. Parents are urged to be present and hear what Dr. Elise has to say on the subject.

The goitre examinations were recently given in the Fairview school, when only three or four pupils showed indications of the disease. The results were reported to the parents with the suggestion that the family physician be consulted. Dr. Elise recommended the administration of goitre tablets to the pupils at the school to prevent the development of the disease, and it was thought that the Parent-Teacher circle would take care of the costs, which he said would be small, especially if ordered in a large quantity.

Miss Maud Hicks, successor to Miss Mary P. Billmeyer as public county health nurse, in company with Mrs. Ellen Post, visited Gresham school Monday to make arrangements for the work of Dr. Elise.

ANSWERS

1. Our table pepper, black pepper, is a berry that grows on a vine that creeps or climbs. It grows chiefly in the eastern tropics. The berry is picked when red, turns black when dried. White pepper is the seed of this berry or the berry with the outer black skin removed.

2. Ginger is a small rice like plant about two feet high, a native of China or India. Most of our supply comes from eastern subtropical countries or from the West Indies. It can be commercially grown in Florida and southern California. Medical ginger is made from the dried root of this plant; cooking ginger, of the green root. Candied ginger is the green root preserved in syrup.

3. Cloves are the dried flower buds of a handsome tree of the myrtle family, a native of the Spice Islands, but now grown in the West Indies and elsewhere.

4. Bob-white quails are successfully raised in captivity. Some of the state game commissions raise them for restocking the game of the state. A quail in captivity will lay as many eggs in one year as one in the wild will lay in five or six years. Captive quails have been known to lay 128 eggs in one year. These are hatched under bantam hens and given to the quail cock to "mother" and rear. The wild cocks habitually care for the young.

5. A shooting star is a term applied to the smallest class of meteors. Meteors of the first class, astronomers say, are seen no more than two or three times in a lifetime of any one person. When about 15 years of age I saw such a meteor. It rose from the eastern horizon slowly, did not ascend very high, was nearly as large as the moon at zenith and cast a distinctly reddish light. It left a trail that slowly faded out.

6. All meteoric stones so far found have in them only the elements found in earth matter; but they are all in different combinations from any earth matter.

7. At the Battle of Kennesaw mountain, General Wm. T. Sherman directed the aiming of a cannon the shot from which killed the confederate general, Leonidas Polk, corps commander.

8. September 29, 1862, General Wm. U. Nelson in an altercation in the Galt House, Louisville, Kentucky, was shot and instantly killed by General Jefferson C. Davis. Both were prominent Union generals. Nelson was a man of uncontrolled temper and was killed in self defense. Davis was exonerated.

OLD DOCUMENT TELLS INTERESTING FACTS

A document of unusual interest and importance from a historical standpoint is in the possession of A. W. Shipley of Gresham. It is a carefully written report of the returns of the Portland postoffice from July 1, 1859, to November 21, 1861, when Adam R. Shipley, father of A. W. Shipley, was postmaster. The amount involved was $6497.44, and receipt was given Mr. Shipley in full by E. W. McGraey, United States district attorney for the district of Oregon. This report covered only the last part of Mr. Shipley's tenure of office, as he was postmaster from November, 1854, serving under the administration of Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan.

It is interesting to note that during the two years and five months covered by this report the average monthly receipts of the Portland postoffice were $299.46, while the same postoffice for February, 1928, reports $237,001.76.

In an article in the Portland Telegram dated March 21, 1923, Frank L. Jones, a writer of Oregon pioneer history, says that Adam R. Shipley moved to the postoffice in 1856 to what is now known as 131 Front street, between Alder and Washington, where he conducted a book and stationery store, and that this business, with a few changes of ownership, has continued to the present time—the firm of The J. K. Gill company.

Mr. Shipley always took an active interest in the cause of education, and in later years became a member of the board of regents of the Oregon Agricultural Society at Corvallis, where he died on July 14, 1893.

HALEY

The Haley Baptist Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m. Sunday, followed by morning worship at 11 and the evening service at 7:30, all services to be in English. Bible class is held every evening at 7:30, and prayer meeting every Thursday evening at the same hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eklund and family were pleasantly surprised Friday evening as the Haley congregation and some friends from Portland marched in and took possession of the home. A short program was rendered after which refreshments were served. A most enjoyable evening was spent and the newly-arrived friends were made to feel at home as they were welcomed to community and church.

The Rev. Andrew Johnson's lecture delivered at the Haley Baptist church Sunday evening was appreciated by an attentive audience.

Orchestra to Give Request Program

The Portland Symphony orchestra's 17th season will close with the much awaited request program, to be given in the public auditorium Monday night, Willem van Hoogstraten conducting. This will be the first program to be presented in many seasons, that represents a plurality vote taken among the orchestra's patrons. Its diversity demonstrates rather conclusively the catholicity of taste among Portland concert-goers. The vote resulted in the selection of the following numbers: Tchaikovsky's "Pathetique" symphony, Ernest Schelling's "A Victory Ball," Rimsky-Korsakov's "The Flight of the Bumble-Bee," Sibelius' "Valse Triste," Dent Mowrey's "Danse Americaine," and the overture to Wagner's "Tannhaeuser."

Patrons were asked to name their favorite numbers in four classes. One symphony, one symphonic poem, one overture, and three shorter numbers were selected for this program. It is remarkable that these six numbers comprise such a well balanced and representative program. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the poll—and gratifying too—is the large vote cast for Dent Mowrey's piece, which was introduced by this orchestra only two months ago. It demonstrates Portland's loyalty to its own musicians, and Portland's eagerness to accept home-grown compositions of genuine merit. The dance is an orchestral version of a piano solo that had brought honors to its originator.

The "Pathetique" is unquestionably the most popular of Tchaikovsky's six symphonies, and is, moreover, the only extended symphonic work programmed by Mr. van Hoogstraten for presentation here during each of his three consecutive seasons.

The "Victory Ball" was introduced by Mr. van Hoogstraten in his second Portland concert. It made such an instantaneous success, that it was repeated last season. It was no surprise that popular demand is causing it to be programmed Monday night. Still another one of Mr. van Hoogstraten's innovations is "The Flight of the Bumble-Bee," which has been given twice on the evening programs—as well as a number of times on the morning programs.

The overture to "Tannhaeuser" and the Sibelius waltz have likewise been presented during every one of the last two seasons.

In the year 1915 the aggregate volume of business done by cooperative marketing and purchasing associations in the United States was $653,838,000. In 1925 this had increased to $2,400,000,000.

FRUIT MEN GIVE VIEWS ON CONDITIONS

The Better Fruit magazine for February gives a review and preview of the fruit growing industry in the Pacific northwest.

In the opening article the opinions of 14 men prominent in the industry are given, among them an expression by D. E. Towle, manager of the Berry Growers Packing company.

The various problems connected with fruit growing are being studied and improvements made. A note of optimism is noticeable and the coming fruit season promises well in the general opinion.

Mr. Towle says in part as follows: "If we average the returns to all berry growers for the years 1926 and 1927, the showing would not be too bad, and as compared with any other farm or truck crop the berry grower fared a little better for the two years."

"In trying to look into the future as to values, judging by the stocks on hand both of berries in cans and jam stocks, the condition is much improved over the condition as to supplies compared with a year ago. This is especially true of red raspberries. There is hardly enough to supply the trade until the new crop matures and we expect values to go up considerably and offset this year's losses."

"We find considerable hazard in red raspberry growing owing to winter kill. This is caused by the canes maturing and with our favorable growing weather of September and October the canes start to fruit and of course a few degrees of frost kills the developed fruit buds and reduces the yield considerably. This problem is being closely studied and some progress has been made toward overcoming this weakness as our more progressive growers have changed their cultural methods. They favor early sown cover crops, early application of fertilizers, and early tillage, and in this way force a better growth condition during the fruit growing season and stimulating less fall growth."

De Moss Musicians Give Fine Concert

The only fault anyone could possibly find with the concert given by the De Moss entertainers last night at the Baptist church is that it was too short. It is evident that many would gladly have remained for another half hour of the excellent music. Much of the program consisted of novelty playing, these unusual offerings making a decided hit with the good sized audience.

George De Moss, director of the program, in one of the musical numbers, played two cornets at once, alto on one and soprano on the other, seemingly with as much ease as though performing on a single instrument. "The Holy City," played with sleighbells, was a clever part of the program and called for a vigorous encore. The piano selection of Miss Florence Smith was a brilliant piece of work, as indeed were all her accompaniments. Her readings were most appealing and one could but wish there had been more of them. The quartet of banjos was a delightful piece of work, as was also the number rendered with bells. The vocal selections were much appreciated.

Not a dull moment was experienced by the audience from the beginning of the concert till its close and it is safe to say if the De Moss entertainers ever return to Gresham, they will be greeted by many who were present at their program last evening. The instruments used during the evening were violins, piano, flute, cello, bass viol, cornets, bells, sleighbells and banjos. Elbert De Moss, one of the violinists, began his stage career at a tender age. He made his second public appearance in Gresham when but two years of age. The De Moss tours began in 1872.

S. P. CHEF GIVES 12 DONT'S FOR COOKS

What every home cook may learn from any dining car chef includes many important "don'ts", according to Paul Reiss, noted supervising chef for Southern Pacific's commissary department, who recently issued the following list:

Don't put the soup meat on the fire in hot water. Use cold water with a little salt to extract the nutriment.

Don't season soups except for a little salt, until done. This will assure flavor as desired.

Don't put fish with skin into boiling water, as too high a temperature contracts the skin and makes the fish look unsightly. Fish should be placed in hot, not boiling water.

Don't salt liver before frying. Salt it afterwards for salt causes liver in hot fat to shrivel and toughen.

Don't cover with lid when boiling, nor add salt to green vegetables if it is desired that their color be retained.

Don't, when making an omelet, salt eggs before beating for it will render them watery and cause omelet to stick.

Don't overheat fat or butter when frying eggs, as this will blister and make them stick to the pan. Don't boil coffee. Coffee boiled is coffee spoiled.

Corner Stone of Church to Be Laid

Preaching services at the Evangelical church will be held Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. and the Bible school will meet at 10 a. m. The sermon for the morning services on "Making Excuses" will contain a timely message and will be replete with searching questions. The evening sermon on the topic, "A Missed Opportunity," will also bring an important spiritual message. Do not miss the opportunity to hear this message.

An important event in the history of the congregation will take place at 2:30 p. m. Sunday when the cornerstone for the new Evangelical church at the corner of Fifth and Main streets will be laid. Although the building is already under roof and a departure from the usual procedure of cornerstone laying is necessary, none of the significant features of the services will be sacrificed. The public is cordially invited.

The Sunshine club will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 with Mrs. Theodore and Miss Anna Brugger hostesses.
