A BANK

may be likened to a reservoir full of water. The reservoir is filled by many little rivulets, and furnishes water as wanted in many places. The bank likewise is filled by many small deposits, checks from all parts of our country and some from distant lands. These are continuous day after day, and provide the funds which the bank loans in the community in which it is located, for the development and betterment of the people in the community. No concern is more interested in the progress of the community than the bank.

Let us serve you. We are interested in your welfare.
