

Annual Founders' Day Will Be Celebrated

The 85th anniversary of Founders' Day, the day when the provisional government of Oregon was organized, will be celebrated at Champoeg park on the east bank of the Willamette river 33 miles south of Portland, Saturday, May 5, under the auspices of the Oregon Pioneer association and the Oregon Historical society.

This event, which occurs annually at the same place, the site of the organization of the first American government on the Pacific coast, recalls a train of rich historical happenings dear to the hearts of those interested in the early development of the west.

This anniversary will be the 28th celebration and picnic and will be presided over for the day by Judge P. H. D'Arcy, a pioneer of 1855 and past president of the Oregon Pioneer association in 1910. The exercises will begin at noon with a picnic dinner and the afternoon filled with appropriate addresses, interspersed with musical numbers. Governor and Mrs. I. L. Patterson will occupy a prominent place on the program.

Champoeg may be reached by the steamer "Northwestern" which will leave the foot of East Washington street at 7 a. m. sharp. It is also accessible by automobile.

Pioneers, sons and daughters of pioneers, and citizens in general are given a cordial invitation to attend this celebration. Information regarding the day's program and the manner of reaching the picnic grounds may be secured at the Outlook office.

OBSERVATIONS OF A VERY BODIE

"Bootleggers asked to meet dry agent." (News item from Seattle). We half suspected they were doing it all the time.

Correspondent wants the bond election tried again. Some people don't know when they're licked.

Much has been said about the per capita debt of Oregon. September 1, 1927, shows, exclusive of road bonds, $40.76 per capita. Most bonds, $40.76 per capita. Most be gasoline. Must have been bet-

Many people in Oregon think if Al Smith is elected president, the 18th amendment will be repealed and we will live happy ever after. How about our own state-wide prohibition act?

The Beavers lost the opening game due, we suppose, to the wet weather. Ho, ho, hum!

We sometimes wonder why famous persons have to be blindfolded to pick a certain brand of highly advertised cigarettes.

Clackamas county man severely burned when coal oil turns out to be gasoline. Mose have been better than some we've tried in the "divver."

A recent news item from The Dalles told of the man who put up a sign on his little place advertising the fact that his taxes were something like $14 per month so he was moving on. Wonder where he got the money to buy gas?

A remark frequently heard during the recent bond campaign was "We can't make our land pay us expenses plus six per cent. In our humble opinion if you could "Big Business" would own the land and the rest of us would be peasants.

New World Invades Old

The motor car makes available to travelers many such quaint old-world spots as this one, on which the Buick party chanced while touring ancient Berkshire. This village cross and sun-dial did service before the invention of clocks. Presumably the hour was a matter of guesswork on sunless days, though the tale is told of a villager who visited the dial at night to tell the time,—by means of a lantern.

THE EYES HAVE IT

April 22-28 Proclaimed Vision Week—To Be Observed Throughout Nation.

By Mart Sloan.
Portland, Or., April 16—(Special). The week of April 22-28 has been designated "Save Your Vision Week" and this is heartily endorsed by the Hon. I. L. Patterson, Governor of the State of Oregon.

This is in conformity with the proclamation of the American Ophthalmic Association which, through the several state organizations, will carry the message of conservation of vision to the public during that week.

Civilization is the fruit of Man's spiritual and intellectual victories. It is a composite product of the contributions of the Ages.

The large part played therein by the human eye can hardly be exaggerated. More and more the function of vision has been called upon to meet the strenuous demands of present day life. As a result, visual defects have apparently grown apace, as is evidenced by the wider use of eye glasses. Yet we are told by trustworthy authorities that the American people are still woefully lacking in the care of the eyes.

It is pointed out that more than 30% of the people are seriously in need of optical attention, though not to exceed 10% of the entire population has ever had a scientific eye examination. The public schools and colleges of the United States enroll 25 million students. Numerous surveys made of this group revealed serious visual defects prevailing among more than 30% of those examined.

Most readers will recall press references to the findings of the Federated Engineering Society's industrial survey which covered ten different institutions. Not only did they report an alarming percentage of employees suffering from visual defects but a large part of them were unable to render efficient service because of these defects. No end of astonishing figures could be quoted from the Compton-Jones report. Incidentally, Herbert Hoover was chairman of the committee.

Thus the evidence is conclusive that the class room, library, picture show, factory, store and counting house, all take toll of the human eye. But we cannot all be trappers and hunters, nor languish beneath the palm tree—we have the World's work to do.

When the eye weakened under abnormal demands, science sought a solution. Then there came into existence a new group known as optometrists, who specialize upon vision and eyesight. They number more than 20,000 in America today and their practice is regulated by statutes in every state in the Union.

Verily, mankind is not to be thwarted in its onward, upward struggle.

Business was resumed a few days ago for the season. W. O. Muss is the proprietor of the establishment.

Among the features to be offered in this entertainment will be a minstrel troupe of 60 persons, accompanied by a ten-piece orchestra and a chorus of 40. A one-act play, end men, clog dancing and other specialties are expected to keep the audience from going to sleep.

DAMAGES ASKED FOR CHILD'S INJURIES

S. B. Hall, Multnomah county agricultural agent, has filed suit in circuit court for his nine-year-old son, Stanley Hall, asking for $15,000 damages from the Warren Construction company.

The complaint charges that the injury to the child occurred through the negligence of the construction company permitting the boy to play where highway construction work was in progress near the Hall home on Sandy boulevard. The child was struck by one of the company trucks, severely injuring him and necessitating an extended stay in a Portland hospital.
