Attention has been called to the fact that more publicity should be given to ousting the caterpillar nests in fruit trees throughout the country. This is a grave menace and can be remedied by burning out the accumulation, either with gasoline torch or a simple torch consisting of kerosene-soaked rags on the end of a stick. Nothing seems to have been found which is as effective as fire for routing this enemy. Unless it is exterminated, it will eventually spell ruin to the orchards of the northwest.

Only Unwise Persons Lose Zest of Living

It is a fairly common experience to see life go stale.

Every one has known people who have reached a point where they have lost their zest in living. They feel they have had all the thrills. Nothing is left except boredom. Young people who have been spoiled by indulgent and unwise parents often are in this plight. They are eager to find a new kick and no kick is forthcoming.

There are two preventives of such a frame of mind. One is to practice self-denial for self-denial's sake. Just as an athlete keeps fit by exercise and restraint of diet. The other is to get interested in doing something worth while; to forget the pursuit of happiness and take happiness as a by-product of useful living.

An athlete, needn't go stale if he takes sensible care of himself to prevent it. Neither need any person in the ordinary business of living.

City of Genoa

Genoa, one of the most magnificent cities in the world, as Venice may be one of the most beautiful, has suddenly been interesting the globe trotter. And there is no city in the world that has streets of palaces for proportion and perfection of form as perfect, nor a sea more sapphire blue. As I walked here the other day, I thought of the many distinguished travelers who have stopped and remained here. Byron lived two years in the old Saluzzo palace and worked on his cantos of "Don Juan." Leigh Hunt and Shelley coming down and spending a merry week-end. Dickens cast himself into a "pink-jail," as he called his rose-tinted villa; Chaucer and Flaubert, Rembrandt and Van Dyck have been Genoa's guests, and the palaces still contain many a fine Van Dyck and Rembrandt. George Sand and Chopin were here, as well as a long list of Crusaders.—New York Times.

"Uncle Tom" Relics

England is claiming to have the only specimens of certain relics of Rev. Josiah Henson, the original Uncle Tom that inspired Harriet Beecher Stowe's story. Two are plaster busts of Henson, one being in Windsor castle and the other the property of A. Josland Lobb, whose father entertained Henson and introduced him to Queen Victoria. Another is an oil painting of Henson, also owned by Lobb.

Henson's story was almost identical with that of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" except that he escaped to Canada and spent his last years in Canada in peace and preaching. When nearly eighty he went to England to lecture and there met the senior Lobb, who was editor of the Christian Age.—Hartford Courant.

Record Meteorite

Nothing like Meteor crater has been discovered anywhere else on the face of the earth. Until recently no meteorite has been known to penetrate more than 11 feet into the surface of the earth. On the morning of July 30, 1908, natives of north-central Siberia saw a fiery body shooting across the sky and heard, a short time later, a thundering detonation. A Russian scientist succeeded only last year in locating, in the Yeniseisk district, a place where the forest has been blown down over an area of 30 miles in diameter. At the center of devastation were many pits indicating the tombs of a number of meteorites, but no holes comparable to Meteor crater.

Church Services at Sea

On great ocean liners the passenger list almost invariably includes priests and clergymen, who volunteer to take charge of religious services. In the absence of a clergyman the shipmaster or his staff captain, assisted perhaps by the chief officer, conduct the service. The altars are often prepared with candles and banks of flowers. On one of the largest steamers in the transatlantic service there have been celebrated in the past five years 1,453 masses by 290 priests, while 2,856 communions have been received by passengers.
