We need another Lincoln in the White House, not a representative of Tammany Hall.

We have great respect for those who honestly differ with us on real political policies but we have less respect for those who make a political issue out of an accepted moral principle.

The new secretary of commerce, William F. Whiting, has announced that the policies of his predecessor, Herbert Hoover, are to be continued. The new secretary has tackled the new job in earnest and he expects to maintain the high state of efficiency of the department during the term of his office which will run until the end of the Coolidge administration.

President Coolidge is said to be greatly disturbed over the prospects that there will be a deficit of over $94,000,000 in the business of the government for the year that ends next June. He proposes to summon the various department and bureau heads for a conference and will find out if possible whether there is some way to cut down expenses and keep the red ink off the government ledger.

"I especially rejoice in the effect of our increased national efficiency upon the improvement of the American home. That is the sanctuary of our loftiest ideals, the course of the spiritual energy of our people. The bettered home surroundings, the expanded schools and playgrounds, and the enlarged leisure which have come with our economic progress have brought to the average family a fuller life, a wider outlook, a stirred imagination, and a life in aspirations."—Herbert Hoover.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HIM.

Mr. Hoover has placed his campaign upon a distinctly high level. He repudiates religious intolerance, calls dishonesty in government treason, believes thoroughly in the equality of opportunity and is a strong advocate of peace, which he thinks, we can best promote by maintaining our independence from the political exigencies of the old world.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Herbert Hoover is a man of astounding capacity. He has never fallen down on a job; and he has been given tasks so multifarious and so diverse that one wonders how a human being could stand the strain. In a recent book a partial list of his recent activities is given; and it is so extensive that the public should know of it. Even this, however, is not complete. It shows the sort of a president the United States would possess if the electors place Secretary Hoover in the White House.—Troy Record.

From whatever angle he may be regarded, Herbert Hoover is a national asset of incalculable value. His extraordinary prestige, at home or abroad, has not yet been fully capitalized for the benefit of his own people.—Saturday Evening Post.

Springdale Man Has Numerous Contracts

Cecil Pounder, contractor, is doing considerable building this season. His contracts up to date amount to $12,300, and others are in prospect. These in addition to some smaller ones will make the total value of his work in recent months about $24,000. Some of the buildings that Mr. Pounder is to begin work on soon are a $2700 residence for W. H. Northway, Springdale; a $2700 residence for W. P. Bell, Rockwood; a $2700 residence for John Hessel, Gresham; a $2000 warehouse for Troutdale; a $1200 playshed for the Springdale school and also a small job at Welches.

Mr. Pounder expects to build a work shop on the highway at Springdale in the near future.

SYMPHONY LEADER RETURNS TO PORTLAND

Willem van Hoogstraten, who has been for the past three seasons conductor of the Portland Symphony orchestra, will return Monday morning to take up the baton for his fourth season. The affable young Dutch conductor is returning to Portland after a three-weeks' vacation at Saranac Lake, N. Y., where he was the guest of Adolph Lewisohn, noted New York music and art patron. The orchestra leader forewent his customary fall European vacation in order to be back in Portland earlier than usual.

Mr. van Hoogstraten will conduct the opening concert of the orchestra's 18th season in the public auditorium Monday night, October 22. The following Monday afternoon he will conduct the first of the seven matinee popular concerts. There will be 17 concerts in all.

The Portland conductor has been engaged to lead a short series of concerts with the Detroit Symphony orchestra, and is to be one of the guest conductors who will serve in the place of Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the regular conductor.
