Chest Program is Next Local Project

Interest in the Portland Community chest is being urged on this community as in a large sense it is our concern. Gresham is so near to the metropolis and, being in the same county, its interests are identical with those of the city, though in smaller measure. What is true of Gresham is equally true of other suburban communities. For this reason the schools are taking up the matter and appeals are going out through them. The little play, "Heart Trouble," which was given at the Gresham grade school auditorium last night by pupils of the school, is being used in other schools of the county to arouse interest in the project. It is an appeal to the humanitarian instincts of people and especially to the desire to relieve distress which is natural with most children.

Besides the play last night, there was on the program solos by Mrs. Davis and a short address by William F. Woodward, both of Portland. Mr. Woodward recommended to his hearers the business-like method of caring for those in distress by the community chest plan. He pointed out the fact that without this orderly plan, solicitors from the 39 organizations now given aid by the chest would be on hand to get contributions, instead of one solicitor for the entire chest program. It was urged that Gresham people give liberally to the chest. Their receipt should be their protection against promiscuous soliciting. The beneficiaries, which were published in a recent issue of the Outlook, include a large number of organizations for charity or philanthropy giving aid throughout the county, a number of them in our own community.

C. E. Johnson of the Bank of Gresham and Mrs. C. O. Horning are the co-colonels in charge of the local solicitation. They are desirous of having volunteer helpers, as an organization of considerable proportion will be necessary to do the work successfully. They have the promise of four captains but need six more. These in turn will need a force of field workers. Mr. Johnson and C. G. Schneider have agreed to care for the business district but many solicitors will be needed for the residential districts.

People are urged to send their contributions or pledges to the bank, thus lightening the work of solicitors. They are also urged to make their contributions to the chest here rather than in Portland, that Gresham may have the credit.

"It Can't Be Done"

You cannot expect a "high Flash" or quick burning coal to "last long." Anthracite coal is hard, and therefore lasts longer, and in this respect, UTAH-GRAND COAL is very similar to it. UTAH-GRAND COAL is hard, Stores Without Loss, lasts longer and is clean. It makes no stringy soot, and no clinkers. In fact it burns almost like Anthracite, but costs no more than ordinary coal. UTAH-GRAND is a coal for all purposes where coal can be used.
