Everyone will agree with the Civic club that our city charter is an unweildly thing. The question is how to remedy it. Its provisions require so much detail in carrying out as to be almost impossible. For instance, our sidewalks, where they can be called such, are a disgrace, but no city engineer appears to have been able to have them repaired.

Members of the county court should carry memorandum books to help in remembering dates. They have promised several times to come down and look over road matters but for some reason those promises have not been kept. We wonder how long this will continue?

The pamphlet on the six million dollar bonding measure will soon be in the hands of the voters. Do not throw it away without a careful study. This seems like an opportunity for improved roads that we are not likely to get again if now turned down,

When a place like the Sorrells ranch sells for the price it brought this week, one begins to see what this country will be like when developed and improved farms everywhere. It is considered that the Sorrells place was a splendid buy for the man getting it.

With some of our home boys joining the colors war with Germany is brought much closer than would otherwise be the case. And if actual conflict comes and there is a call made Hermiston will respons with its share as it has in everything else.

There are a number of spiendid roads around Hermiston but they need a little work to keep them up. For the most part a drag when wet would be sufficient.

Friday evening about 25 of the Epworth Leaguers and their friends gathered at the parsonage for a short business session after which a most enjoyable evening was spent with a "newspaper social." One of the most interesting features was a dress making contest. Each couple was given scissors, pins and newspapers and the gentleman was instructed to make his lady a gown. There were some very good ones but the one receiving the prize was a most elaborate evening gown from Paris. The entire evening was one of laughter and merriment.

The program was concluded with a convention of states when each had to respond with something when their native state was called. The evening closed with refreshments and a social hour.

Sour Milk.

Many people throw sour milk away. Wise ones utilize it. By draining off the water the curd remains as a solid. Put a cupful of curd in a cheesecloth and twist the loose ends together and hang it where it will drain overnight. In the morning place it in a dish and flake it with a fork and salt. Give it to the children and tell them it is the same thing that Miss Muffet was eating when along came the spider.—New York World.

His Mistake.

"How did you lose your last job?"

"I was fired for making a mistake."

"That seems unfair. We are all liable to make mistakes."

"Yes, but I told the boss that he couldn't get along without me."—Detroit Free Press.

What Is an Editor?

The editor is the man upon whom we rely to preserve the standard of literature. Without editors, orthography, etymology, syntax and punctuation would soon fail. The beauty about editors is that they are independent and uncompromising. They yield nothing to the rabble for the sake of profits. If they print blood and thunder stories, mushy love tales and platitudinous essays, it is not to make money, but merely because they know that if the public doesn't get this kind of reading it will find worse mischief elsewhere.—Life.
