

Not on Account of Its Size is This Bank Safe

But it has attained its present high standing by reason of being, first of all, a safe bank.

Who's the Profiteer?

"Not I," says the packer. "Not I," says the manufacturer. "Not I," says the middleman. "Not I," says the retailer. "Surely not I," says the consumer with the flat pocketbook. "And positively not the farmer!" thunders

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

True enough, the farmer has profited by war prices. But to what extent? Well, he has been able to paint his house so it looks as well as the grocer's in town.

He has been able to buy an automobile as good as the plumber's. His family has been able to wear clothes as good as the other church folks. In other words, the farmer for the first time has had a fair living wage for his labor, with a little return on the capital he has invested in his farm and its equipment. The farmer is not a profiteer, and THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will fight to prove his right to a fair profit for his labor and his products. A year's subscription to THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN (52 issues) is the biggest dollar's buy on the market. Get your money's worth—a hundred times over—by letting me order it for you today. Remember—

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR IS ALL IT COSTS!

LOCAL BRIEFS

O. C. Gray of Prineville, who owns 40 acres three miles northwest of this city, was a business visitor here a few days this week.

On Wednesday of this week Col. J. F. McNaught received the sad news of the death of an elder brother residing in New York state.

Tabor Brothers have rented all of their large ranch except the orchard to Jesse Sears of Idaho. This ranch, which is well improved, is located in the east end of the project.

W. S. Egbers, well known north of town rancher, has been passing the week in Ritzville, Wash., near which city he owns a large wheat ranch.

Famous English Honey.

One of the most sought after products of Lakeland is its famous heather honey. The French claim that the rosemary honey of Narbonne is the finest in the world, but that of the English feels may challenge a sporting comparison. Its only fault is that there is so little of it. A development of bee keeping on the extensive American system, under the management of skilled apiculturists, could increase it a thousandfold, and provide the public with an unequalled medicinal food—for invalids and children. With fruit culture, dairying ought to be combined to provide fertilizing material, and soldier settlers could buy in the Lakeland Shorthorn, one of the finest dual purpose cows in existence.—London Mail.

Oldest Candy in the World.

Most of the black licorice comes from Spain, where it is made from the juice of the plant, and mixed with starch to prevent it from melting in hot weather. The licorice plant is a shrub about three feet high and grows wild where its roots can reach the water. It grows largely on the banks of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. As the valley of the Euphrates contained one of the earliest civilizations in the world, it is probable that licorice is about the oldest confection in the world, and that the taste which boys and girls like so well today was enjoyed by the boys and girls of Babylon and Nineveh three thousand years ago.—Brookton Enterprise.

Man of Contradictions.

July 30 is the birthday of Samuel Rogers, who was born in 1763 and died in 1855. For fifty years the world of art and letters flocked to the entertainments given at his beautiful London house in St. James' place. It was said that an invitation to one of his breakfasts was as good as a formal introduction to literary society. He was a poet of some merit, but he was more famous—and is better remembered—for his caustic wit. At the same time he was extremely generous. "He certainly had the kindest heart and the unkindest tongue of anyone I ever knew," said Fanny Kemble.

A Strawberry Dream.

Strawberry time recalls to those who have visited Denmark in summer that delightful cellar in Copenhagen where a feast of strawberries and cream was spread, and whose chose could partake thereof at a quite small charge—the equivalent of 60, if we remember rightly. Piles of strawberries, quart jugs of cream partly whipped, great basins of sugar, and nothing else, all down the long table in the cool basement, to which the visitor descends from the hot street. It is in truth a strawberry dream. Every Dane knows Anderson's cellar. It is one of the attractions of Copenhagen, and to have eaten strawberries there once is to have an enduring memory of something nearly perfect on this imperfect earth.—London Chronicle.

Real Article Not Recognized.

A theatrical manager was watching his stage manager drill some "supers" who were to represent an army. "Not a bit like it!" he exclaimed. "Why don't you try to look like real soldiers?" The stage manager went up to him and whispered in his ear. "They are real soldiers straight from the barracks!" he said.

Notice of Final Account

Notice is hereby given that Nettie E. Barham, executrix of the estate of John C. Barham, has filed her final report and account in the County court of the State of Oregon for Umatilla County, and the Judge of said Court, by an order made and entered on the 16th day of October, 1919, has fixed Monday, the 17th day of November, 1919, at the hour of ten o'clock A. M. as the time, and the County Court room in the Court House in Pendleton, Oregon, as the place, for hearing and settling said account. Any heir, creditor, or other person interested in said estate may, on or before the day appointed for such hearing and settlement, file his objections thereto, or any particular item thereof.

Dated at Hermiston, Oregon, this 17th day of October, 1919.

Talks at Field Day Meet showed the following:

Where manure is applied on the land, 5 per cent less water is used.
Manure has actually proven to be worth $5.00 per ton when applied to land.
Alfalfa records show 1 1-2 tons per acre more per year where manure is applied.

LITCHFIELD

Manure Spreader will do this kind of work best

It spreads twice the width of the spreader, and there are more Litchfields in use on the project than ALL OTHER MAKES COMBINED. The reason is that farmers look into these thoroly before buying and always find the Litchfield the best. We have a carload in and sell on easy terms where the purchaser does not have the ready cash.
