FIRE! FIRE! FIRE!

Last week Hermiston had a bad fire, at which time Mr. Ward lost his home and furniture. Every stick of wood in the house and every piece of furniture burned, leaving nothing whatever except his fine MAJESTIC RANGE. Even his heating stove was ruined by the heat. This, however, is not unusual with Majestic Ranges, as there are many instances in Oregon and elsewhere where houses have burned down when the Majestic Range has fallen from second floor thru to basement and afterwards taken out undamaged. However, Mr. Ward's Majestic has had two such experiences. It was in the Earl Carson house on Main street when that gentleman's home burned down, and the Range was not injured. Now it goes through a fire that even ruined a heating stove, yet Mr. Ward has taken the Majestic into new quarters and it is none the worse for the second experience.

We have another large shipment of Majestics coming in a Pendleton carload during the next few days and if you have a Range in mind, make it a Majestic. There are many other reasons than the above for owning a Majestic Range. Of course they cost just a little more than the ordinary ranges do, but they are also worth more than they cost. They last a lifetime. There's a reason—in fact several—and we can show you why you need a Majestic if you intend buying a Range.
