VOTES COUNT NOW

For many years we men have been told what would happen if women were ever given equal suffrage with men.

Now they have it. In future the vote of the humblest female citizen will count just as much as that of the president of the United States.

Acts, not words, will write the story of the future.

It is a matter of speculation as to just what effect the feminine vote will have in national and state politics, but the presumption is that it will have a tendency to purify the ballot and retire a certain stamp of politicians who have been seeking to debauch the ballot for years.

Morally women is unquestionably the superior of man, and if she demonstrates the fact that she is broad minded enough to rise above peanut politics and vote for men of stability and character, regardless of political considerations, we may reasonably expect her advent to be one of supreme importance to the future welfare of our country. In such an event political leaders will hesitate long before attempting to foist upon the voters of their party a man who does not truly represent the intelligence and the integrity of that party.

Until women adjust themselves to their new station in life some no doubt will vote merely as their husbands do, while others will do their own thinking and vote as they please. It is to the latter class that we must look for any material change from our present political methods and system.

The November election will tell much of the story, but few political forecasters are willing to make even the smallest kind of a prediction at this time.

The politicians themselves are all floundering in a sea of uncertainty.

JAB 'EM, UNCLE, JAB 'EM!

It is reported from Washington that Uncle Sam has annexed a sharp stick and is beginning to jab the profiteers, with the result that a decline in the price of living is announced.

Just where the decline is we don't know, but we hope it is somewhere. One thing, though, is certain. Uncle's stick will have to be mighty sharp and mighty long before it will make even a dent in the alligator hides of the gougers.

Gouging is a pleasant and lucrative pastime—to the gougers—and they can hardly be expected to reform their ways until they feel the point of the stick or the weight of the star spangled foot.

But Washington says there is a decline, and because Washington says so it must be so.

But personally we decline to fall for a decline that declines to decline.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

A good citizen stopped us on the street a few days ago. He had a case of nerves. He was peeved because "nothing ever happens in this town." He will recover.

But his remark started a train of thoughts in the editorial mind, and we are passing them on to you, as is the custom of our profession.

It is true that "nothing ever happens in this town," and that is one of its beauties, its greatest asset.

We have no murders, no riots, no race disturbances, no class conflicts, no rowdism, no disgusting scandals—none of the numerous things that happen so often in many other places.

We have a class of citizens who are law abiding, God fearing, patriotic, and who respect the rights of other people.

Our citizens are energetic, thrifty, and are producers—not destroyers. They are workers in the hive of industry—not drones.

Truth abounds, because it is a community of clean and upright people who have nothing to hide from the rest of the world.

It should be a matter of pride to every citizen that "nothing ever happens in this town."

Stenographer Extraordinary.

Two members of the bar were trying a replevin suit in the superior court recently and in the course of the trial got into a sharp wrangle—as lawyers sometimes do—over the admission of a certain piece of evidence. The wrangle resolved itself into an oral battle in which both lawyers tried to talk at once.

They spoke in loud tones and at a rapid-fire gait. When the smoke had cleared away and the case was over they were quite surprised to learn that the court stenographer had been able to get down in his book every word they had said, despite the fact they were both talking at the same time. The clerk of courts commented on the feat.

"Oh," remarked one of the lawyers, "that little chap could take down a hailstorm and never miss a stone!"—Portland Express.

Fading Shrines of Oriental Splendor.

To me, after revisiting the East after an absence of ten years, it seems as if all its splendid past and all its present discontent were recorded and symbolized in the imperial palaces of Peking, Seoul and Tokyo. Ten years ago all three were the habitations of emperors, sacred spots from whose mysterious depths issued the edicts whereat men trembled and obeyed. Today the Son of Heaven and the Lord of the Morning Calm have gone their ways, to join the mournful company of kings in exile. Only his majesty of Tokyo remains, a dim, mysterious figure in the medieval seclusion of Chiyoda, a picturesque survival of old Japan, like an idol in a shrine, a sort of living Buddha in the great new city throbbing with machinery.—J. BRYAN ASSAILS COX AND H. S. CUMMINGS

Called Choice of Democratic Convention Chairman a 'Tragedy' for the Party.

COX CANDIDACY A DISGRACE

His Nomination Would Be an Insult by the Liquor Forces, Nebraskan Asserts.

Special to The New York Times. LINCOLN, Neb., May 13.—William Jennings Bryan turned his political batteries tonight on Honorable J. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Governor Cox of Ohio. In a statement given out here he says: "The selection of Chairman Cummings to sound the keynote of the Democratic National Convention is worse than a comedy. It is a tragedy. It is a melancholy beginning if the Democrats have any intention of making a campaign this year. If the Democratic Party is to be wrapped in a well-shrouded, locked up in a well-

Street safe and buried at sea, Cummings is just the person to officiate, but his selection is a serious handicap if the party proposes to appeal to the progressive sentiment of the country."

"Mr. Bryan calls the Cox candidacy a disgrace. He says: 'The fact that the Democrats of two dry States, Ohio and Kentucky, have instructed for Governor Cox makes it proper to consider his position on the liquor question. It is becoming every day more and more apparent that he is the man about whose standard the wet forces will gather.'

"Governor Edwards is a joke. A drunkard in the last stages of delirium tremens would have sense enough to know that Edwards has no chance of nomination. Senator Hitchcock did not have any chance even before the Nebraska primary, hence he had nothing to lose. Governor Cox is their man and he has fairly won the dishonor that he seeks."

"After disgracing his State he aspires to a position in which he could disgrace a nation. For years the men engaged in the liquor business have been the real anarchists of the country, far more dangerous than the professional anarchists. Governor Cox has become their candidate."

"His nomination would make the Democratic Party the leader of the lawless element of the country and his election, if such a thing were possible, would turn the White House over to those who defy the Government and hold law in contempt. 'There is no likelihood of his nomination and no chance of his election if nominated, but why should any Democrat be willing to support a man whose nomination would insult the conscience of the nation? For the triumph of prohibition is a triumph of the nation's conscience.'

ADVERTISING PAYS—DO YOU?

THE unusual regard in which the average family holds its home is, of course, the reflection of unusual qualities in the home itself.

One owner might tell you his home is comfortable. Another that it is beautiful. A third that it is convenient.

But if they all were to sum up the reasons why they value their home so highly they would probably say that the home gives a feeling of pride, self-confidence and safety.
