NOT SO TRAGIC, AFTER ALL

Fair Traveler's Emotion at Seeing Affecting Parting Was in Large Part Uncalled For.

The temperamental difference between a restrained and an emotional race occasionally brings about kindred effects through accident. A lady, waiting for a belated train, witnessed a most affecting parting between an aged father and his son, both Italians. The old man seemed in a frenzy of woe. He moaned, raved, lifted his clenched hands toward heaven and shook them despairingly.

"Poor, poor souls!" she exclaimed, compassionately. "The young man going away to seek his fortune and the old man left behind. I suppose he fears they may never meet again. A common tragedy, but it grips one's very heart."

"Cheer up!" briskly advised her companion, who understood Italian. "The young chap is only going to the next town to visit his married sister and the venerable old person is worried because he loaned him his season ticket and wishes now he hadn't promised to do so. He says he knows the boy will lose it, but, anyway, if he does, he'll break every bone in his body when he gets home. That's all."

MONUMENTS OF VAST SIZE

That on Leipzig Battlefield, Though Higher, Less Costly Than Memorial to Italian King.

Leipzig possesses a monument which rises only a few inches short of 300 feet. "The Battle of the Nations" monument stands in the middle of the plain where Blucher routed Napoleon's army. One million cubic meters of earth were displaced to make room for its base. It is surrounded by an enclosure a quarter of a mile wide and nearly half a mile long.

Next to the Pyramids it is the highest in the world, but it is by no means the costliest. This distinction belongs to the national memorial to Victor Emmanuel II, erected on the Capitoline hill in Rome at a cost of $20,000,000. It took 31 years to complete this huge pile of marble steps, covered with statues, bas-reliefs, and mosaics. Sacconi, the architect, who designed it, died long before the work was finished, but he left models complete in every detail, and his original plans were never tampered with.

Colors Save the Eggs.

We have heard a great deal about protective coloration in nature, and when we consider the advantages which accrue to protectively colored eggs we may wonder why some eggs have remained pure white through the ages, why others are of the most conspicuous greenish blue, and why still others stand out by their spotted or speckled patterns, says the American Forestry Magazine. White eggs are for the most part laid by hole-nesting species of birds like the owls and woodpeckers, and since the eggs are well hidden in their dark cavities it has not been necessary for them to develop protective coloration. The bright greenish blue eggs of most of the thrushes, for example, must be hidden in nests which are concealed in dense vegetation and the speckled eggs of the ground nesting sparrows depend for their safety upon the good hiding of the grass-woven nest.

Modern Casabianca.

A fire guard in the Shenandoah national forest not so long ago found himself in a predicament similar to that of Casabianca, although his decision was not so silly. Discovering that there were three bears at the foot of the lookout tower in which he was stationed without arms of any kind, he telephoned for permission to leave at the first chance to get a gun. The district ranger replied that the forests were dry, that a fire might start anywhere at any time, and that he must stay where he was, bears or no bears; and the guard stayed. After a time some one who had "listened in" came to his rescue.—Youth's Companion.

Japs Eating Frog Meat.

Frog meat made its first appearance last month in the menu of one of the most popular restaurants of Tokyo, Japan. Frogs had never been considered as a food until very recently by the Japanese.

In 1918 Dr. Watanabe brought some edible frogs from the United States. They were kept at the infectious disease experimental station, where experiments were made in breeding and raising.

The government has taken steps to encourage the raising and eating of frogs.

World's Smallest Newspaper.

The smallest newspaper in the world is now being printed in New York city. Its pages are only about five inches wide and six inches long, but they contain short news items that are very easily and quickly read. Another odd newspaper published in this same city is called The Deaf Mutes' Journal, all of its editors and general staff being members of a deaf and dumb school. However, The Deaf Mutes' Journal is a real newspaper in size and contains four pages of interesting reading.
