SOIETY EVENTS OF THE WEEK

The members of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges of Hermiston celebrated the 13th anniversary of the organization of their lodge, Monday evening at the Odd Fellow's hall. Music by the High School orchestra and by the Columbia orchestra, recitations and a demonstration of an old fashioned hoedown dance by Mr. Mortimer added much to the pleasure of the evening's entertainment. The refreshment committee composed of members of the Odd Fellows lodge served a hearty two course luncheon at which Daddy West proved his ability at making oyster stew. Nearly 150 members and guests enjoyed the evening celebration which ended with an informal hour at dancing.

Mrs. Bert Haneline entertained the members of the Study Club at her home on Tuesday afternoon. In response to roll call March birthdays of historical interest and other important events on the calendar of March including Independence Day of Texas, inauguration Day of America's presidents and St. Patrick's Day were given. Mrs. Haneline read an interesting article on Mexican Students Trade Exchange. Mrs. A. C. Voelker presented the lesson on Social and Moral Inheritances in Mexico, after which tea was served by the hostess, while the guests engaged in an informal discussion on the common errors in grammar.

Devoted to Interests of the Hermiston Schools
VOL. 1. No. 17

The Hermiston boys and girls basket ball teams returned Sunday from a two days trip in Morrow county where they played four games, two of which were played in Ione against Ione boys and girls and the other against Lexington girls and Heppner boys at Heppner.

All four games were lost after hard fights against heavier and well coached teams.

Everyone reports a good time on the trip which ended with a royal reception at the Hotel Heppner.

The basket ball game with Pendleton scheduled for March 11, has been called off so this ends the basket ball season. Max Warriner and Norman Rubner are getting the lineup for base ball and track.

"There is nothing either good or bad"

But thinking makes it so." Thus wrote the poet Shakespeare, in the days of long ago.

Now lately I've been thinking, I've schemed and I have wondered, if thinking so would raise my grade From a poor one to a hundred.

In my school work I'm not brilliant, I could be a better student, if I'd spend more time in studying, I'd would be considered prudent.

But will you please inform me That if thinking bad is good, Would it make my grade much better? I only wish it would!

"There is nothing either good or bad"

But thinking makes it so." So if thinking so will do the trick, Just watch my credits grow!

—Martha Winslow, Class of '21

Ida Rhodes was given a delightful little surprise Saturday evening when a number of her friends came in to help her celebrate her birthday.

The High School band played at the Play House Wednesday night as part of the "High School Night" program.

A few of the High School students that did not go to Ione and Heppner enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Phyllis Dyer on Friday evening. Cards and music were the diversion of the evening after which a dainty luncheon was served.

Norman Rubner is a zealous base ball manager. Last Friday Norman's zeal reached its height when he stepped in the way of a ball coming at full speed, and for a while he saw all the beauties of the zenith.

Judging from the serious expression on Lawrence Winslow's face we infer that he is taking the affairs of the (Nation) too much to heart.

Governess—"When did William the Conqueror come to England?"

Governess—"But doesn't it say in your book, 'William the Conqueror, 1066.'"

Pupil—"Yes, but I thought that was his telephone number."

New Justice of the Peace district has been created for the Irrigon district and the County Court has appointed C. E. Glasgow justice with authority to appoint his own constable. We seldom have any use for a justice of the peace, but it does away going to Boardman or Heppner when any papers or action might be necessary.

W. A. Ford and E. R. Ash of the first unit, are the first ones to sign up contracts with the railorad company for seed corn and agree to build a silo this season. This is going some for the first week after the announcement of furnishing the seed corn. We look for many others to rush in this week while the seed raised in this district is yet available.
