The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXXVII.—NEBRASKA

THE Indian name for the Platte river was Nebraska, meaning "shallow water," and from this came the name of the state. A nickname for the state is the Blackwater State. Of the early Spanish explorations little is known, except that Coronado probably reached the great plain of this region in 1541. More than one hundred and twenty-five years later Father Marquette noted the Platte river on his trip up the Missouri. In the beginning of the Nineteenth century the Lewis and Clark expedition skirted the boundaries of the present state and in 1805, Manuel Lisa established the first known settlement which was a fur trading post at Bellevue. This was just after the Louisiana Purchase had brought Nebraska into United States territory.

Omaha was established as a post of the American Fur company in 1825 and Nebraska City the following year. With the California gold rush in 1849 many pioneers passed through Nebraska and some stopped and settled there although there was a law forbidding settlements among the Indians. The real colonization boom, however, started with the passing of the Kansas-Nebraska act in 1854, which arranged that these two sections should become free or slave states at the dictate of their inhabitants. The Nebraska territory was then organized and reached from the fortieth to the forty-ninth parallel. In 1861, the region north of 43 was made into Dakota territory. The Idaho territory was also created, which reduced Nebraska to its present size of 77,520 square miles, except for a slight addition in the Northwest which was made in 1882. In 1867 Nebraska was admitted as the 37th state over the president's veto. It has eight presidential electors. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The Story of Our States

XXXVIII.—COLORADO

COLORADO is the most precious of our states, for in the mining of gold and silver it surpasses all other States, producing about one-third of the total output of the entire country. In fact, its real history starts in 1858, when gold was first discovered. Prior to that time there had been but little settling in this region. Spanish explorers had traversed the country in the latter part of the Eighteenth century, and laid claim to it. As a part of the Louisiana Purchase it came into the possession of the United States in 1803. Officers of the United States army were sent out to explore this wilderness among whom were Lieutenant Pike in 1806, and it was after him that Pikes Peak was named. In 1819 Colonel Long made extensive explorations and he was followed in 1842 by Fremont, whose activities in the Mexican war brought him into much prominence. At the close of the Mexican war, Mexico ceded her rights to this territory to the United States, but it was considered a barren waste and unattractive for settlers.

Then in 1858 came the discovery of gold in the bed of Dry Creek, a few miles south of where Denver now stands. The following spring tens of thousands of men flocked into what was then called the Pikes Peak country. In 1859 Denver became a town of one thousand inhabitants, and by the next year had grown into a big city with newspapers, theaters, and a government mint. In 1861 the Territory of Colorado was created and in 1876 Colorado was admitted as the thirty-eighth state of the Union. Its area is 103,948 square miles and its population entitles the state to six presidential electors. The name is taken from the Colorado river, and is a Spanish adjective meaning "colored red." Colorado is often called the Centennial State, as it was admitted to the Union just one hundred years after the Declaration of Independence. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
