Work on the telephone building is continuing. The crew are now engaged in taking out the arched front.

The roads have been full of cars going to the round-up the past few days.

Miss Laura Phipps left Tuesday morning for Walla Walla where she will enter Whitman college.

Miss Luella Winkler of Portland is now stenographer at the office of the Oregon Co-operative Hay Grow-

T. H. Gaither was a Pendleton visitor Tuesday.

Roy Mammersley of Pendleton was in Hermiston Friday and Saturday on business of the Knights of Pythias.

Sunday and Monday saw some very rainy weather in this vicinity. The rain began Sunday evening and continued at intervals through Monday. It was not very much appreciated here on account of the hay which was down at the time.

Mrs. C. E. Glasgow was in from Irrigon Monday.

COLUMBIA NEWS NOTES

Most of the farmers of the locality were fortunate in having their hay in stacks before the recent rain storm. Only a small amount of damage was done however and the third cutting will be completed before many days.

Fruit picking has begun in some places, many are hauling boxes getting ready for the crop which is very good in general. A few trees in many orchards have small apples on account of the damage done from the severe cold winter of 1919. The trees were not strong enough to bear the fruit to the matured state. It is noticeable that the damaged trees are here and there among apparently hardy healthy ones.

A millinery school was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Reid Monday conducted by Mrs. Edith Van Deusen county demonstration agent. Several who had started work at the school held in Hermiston recently completed their work at this meeting.

Several farmers and their families will attend the Round-Up this week in Pendleton the hay and grain show in the alfalfa building on Main street. The show promises to be an annual affair.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hounshell and family have taken up their residence on the Jones farm for the winter. 4 children are attending school. They had been living on the Pearson place the past two months and formerly lived at Echo.

The Neighborhood club will meet Wednesday the 28th at the home of Mrs. Will Leathers.

J. D. Mann of Portland, deputy U. S. Marshall for Oregon is in town on official business.

The Herald has been bothered by shortage of power all this week. Sometimes we haven't had any and most of the time we haven't had enough. Since our linotype and presses require electric power to run this has caused considerable delay and inconvenience. We have not been able to set quite as much news matter as usual on this account.

WOMEN PRESENT OLD MAID DRAMA

th special features but the singing of Patience Desire Mann both before and after rejuvenation, the original "pones" of Betsey Bobbett and the presiding of Josephine Jane Green drew strongly in applause. The latter showed the instincts of a true politician. Every vote was unanimously carried no matter how many voted "No." Then, too, the revelations when a mouse was discovered in the convention hall were especially striking.

A pendant pin seemingly a Rebekah emblem was found after the Boardman fair and has been left at the office of the superintendent. Owner may receive the same by notifying M. B. Signs.

The Boardman schools enrolled an even hundred the first week which closely approaches the total enrollment of the preceding year. The school is evenly divided between boys and girls. Several pupils are entering this week and all are settling down to vigorous work. Steps have been taken to organize and train a school orchestra. This work will be in charge of Mr. Lee. It is also a matter of community pride that all the graduates of the high school are entering college this fall. Miss Belle Packard at Walla Walla, and Paul Hatch and Uram Messenger at O. A. C.

Persons owing accounts to the city meat market are requested to settle the same at once as we wish to get the old firm business closed by Oct. 1. City Meat Market, 2-1tc.
