ETHEL CLAYTON COMING IN "SINS OF ROSANNE" SUNDAY Valuable Jeweled Costume is Worn in One of the Scenes; Its a Paramount Picture

An elaborate garden fete with a South African setting is one of the features of Ethel Clayton's latest Paramount picture, "Sins of Rosanne," coming to the Play House next Sunday. It was adapted from a story by Cynthia Stockley.

The heroine, played by Miss Clayton, has an uncanny craving for bright stones. At the fete, she is attired to represent the Queen of Sheba and wears an exquisite costume consisting almost entirely of jewels, many of them diamonds. The latter are the real thing. Miss Clayton's own collection and that of many of her friends in the Los Angeles cinema colony were utilized for the purpose, and the costume is probably the most valuable one ever worn in a picture. It was closely guarded by special detectives, and the pretty star declared that she did not have a tranquil moment until the garden fete scenes were completed.

"Sins of Rosanne" tells an exciting mystery-love story. Jack Holt, Fred Malatesta, and C. H. Geldart are prominent in the cast supporting Miss Clayton. It is a Paramount picture directed by Tom Forman.

"BEHOLD MY WIFE" COMING TO PLAY HOUSE SATURDAY Picture Deals With Love in the Great Canadian Northwest; Gilbert Parkes Story

An appealing story of the Canadian Northwest is produced in George Melford's latest production, "Behold My Wife" which will be seen at the Play House next Saturday. The picture was adapted from a novel by Sir Gilbert Parkes.

The action centers around the incongruous marriage of Frank Armour the young son of an aristocratic English family, and Lall, granddaughter of an Indian chieftain, whom he meets while serving as an officer of the Hudson's Bay company in northwest Canada. On his return to the company's trading post from a hunting expedition, Armour receives word that his fiancée in England has jilted him, largely on account of his family's opposition to her. In a moment of drunken rage, Armour marries the Indian maiden and sends her back to England to humiliate his family. How, through efforts of Frank's elder brother, she develops into a beautiful and polished young woman and how young Armour himself is regenerated form the theme of the story.

Director Melford has developed the story amid a rugged atmosphere of rare beauty, thoroughly in keeping with the theme. The notable cast includes Elliott Dexter, Mable Julienne Scott, Milton Sills, and Ann Forrest. The picture is a Paramount.

For the benefit of the children who were examined in the school clinic conference and found in bad shape it is planned that a clinic will be held in the near future and all children operated on whose parents desire the work done. The reason for the clinic is that it will be possible to get a specialist here who can do all the tonsil and adenoid work in one day and the expense will be very small having it done in this manner. Mrs. Nugent is receiving the names of the various children who will have the work done and as soon as it is known definitely just how many there will be the necessary arrangements will be made. Anyone interested and desiring information may communicate with Mrs. Nugent.

The bridge over the Umatilla River is again out of order under water so that the ferry is transporting the people and cars to and from. It is a great inconvenience for the farmers who have berries and produce for sale, and the travelers who may be anxious to get to a destination and must wait till next day, as the ferry quits at 8 p. m. We hope some day to have a new bridge.

A number of the Catholic children of Umatilla were confirmed at Hermiston on Sunday by Bishop McGrath of Baker City. Strawberries are plentiful in Umatilla this year—so are the bird-farmers report.

Miss Tress who has been on night duty at the hospital here has gone to Pendleton to work at St. Anthony's hospital as business here was quite dull. She says there is plenty of work there.

Sunday she should take the pennant. Two of her remaining games will be with Stanfield. These she will no doubt win and her other will be with Echo which she should win. On the other hand if Hermiston wins she will have two more with Echo and one with Stanfield. The boys are playing good ball now and with an even percentage to start with again would stand a good chance of tying for the pennant at the close of the season. But at present Umatilla has a good edge on the others.

SPECIALIZE ON CHINCH BUGS Particular Reason Why Farmers Should Act to Protect the Bobwhite Quail From Hunters.

Every shot fired this season at the bobwhites that are wintering in your fields is a shot at your pocketbook, says Farm and Ranch. Quails destroy millions of hibernating bugs that would otherwise awake in the spring to fall hungrily upon the product of field and garden.

"While you fight the chinch bug, redouble your efforts to increase bobwhite quails," says A. C. Burill of the Missouri College of Agriculture. "They are said to eat from 500 to 1,000 chinch bugs at a meal, and their stomachs carry another meal every two hours. At least, this is the usual rate of digestion in most insect-eating birds. Quails are the only wild birds which specialize on chinch bugs in the winter season."

To protect the bobwhite the most effective plan is for several farmers co-operatively to publish a notice in the county papers forbidding hunters to shoot quails on their premises. This has been done successfully in several Missouri communities. Many county papers are running such notices properly drawn up by a lawyer and kept standing in the paper throughout the hunting season. In such cases the publishers will add the name of any farmer in the county and keep it there for, say, 50 cents for the season.

Protect the quails; they will fight your bug battles for you—winter and summer.—Our Dumb Animals.

OPPORTUNITY WAS TOO GOOD How Justice Story Got a Laugh at the Expense of Two Highly Distinguished Americans.

President John Quincy Adams was one of those uncomfortable persons who are up at work by some ungodly hour of the morning, and he was just a bit vain about it—that is, as vain as a good Puritan ever allowed himself to get. But still everybody knew that the President got up at five and worked straight through to eleven. He was paying a visit to Harvard college one time when Justice Story of the Supreme court was delivering a series of lectures to the newly organized law school, and President Willard of Harvard, another early riser, took him over to hear the Justice.

Now, Story was a notorious bon vivant; he got up late and in other ways acted like a civilized person. He began his lecture with the President of the United States seated at his right and the president of Harvard at his left. It was a drowsy afternoon along in May. Pretty soon he heard a titter from the audience and looking out of the corner of his eye, what did he see but the President of the United States sound asleep. Then he looked over to the other side. Sure enough, Willard had also succumbed and was nodding away.

With a twinkle in his eye Story turned to the boys and remarked: "Gentlemen, behold the ghastly results of intemperate rising!"

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado? ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT" This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.
