"Let the Horse Do Your Hauling"

Alas---He Forgot

A Hermiston man received some social items to give to The Herald for Publication last week, but forgot to turn them in. When the ladies in question saw that they weren't in the paper great was their wrath and the editor narrowly missed assassination if he were told, but was fortunately in ignorance of his danger until it was over.

The man who forgot about the items was then the subject of attention from his wife and others and in his despair the poetic muse seized him and he produced the following eloquent effort.

A curse on the pockets of pants and vest;
The pockets of coats, and all the rest.
When trusted with copy by wife for the press,
It goes in a pocket—and you're in a mess.

Forgot it? You'll do that, as sure as you live;
And then what sort of excuse can you give?
Society notes all have right of way—
You'll be sure of that fact from what the dames say.

From colic and cholera one desires to be free;
As bad as they are, Oh, give them to me!
But hatspins and flatirons when used with an ire
Make a fellow feel like he's been thrice through the fire.

So sew up the pockets, so that naught can get in,
Tie a string on the finger, in the sleeve stick a pin;
This may save dire calamity—pulling of hair,
Take a tip, oh my brothers, from one who's been there.

"FOUR HORSEMEN," TO BE AT PLAY HOUSE JULY 2

Famous Million Dollar Production is Secured; Watch for Announcements Next Week

The long-awaited Rex Ingram production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is coming to the Play House Sunday, July 2. This is the picture that cost Metro $1,000,000 to make, and, from all accounts the $1,000,000 was well spent, as critics agree that all other efforts at production on a grand scale have been surpassed and record runs have been made in New York Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles and other cities where the picture has been previously shown.

Fifty principals and 2,500 extras were engaged in the filming of the photodrama, an entire French village and an elaborate chateau were erected to be destroyed under the artillery bombardment of the German invaders and more than 125,000 tons of masonry, steel, lumber and furnishings were used in creating backgrounds that are said to reproduce with absolute fidelity the shifting panorama of the story.

The appeal of the story itself has already been proved through the success of the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, upon which the photodrama is founded. Its sale throughout the world runs into the millions, but millions more will probably have it revealed to them the first time through the medium of the screen production is reported to have followed faithfully the epic tale of human passion against the background of the Great War as related by Ibanez.

RAISING GEESSE FOR PROFIT

Opportunities Good in Regions Where They Can Be Fattened for City Markets.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Geese may be raised profitably on many more farms than at present. The United States Department of Agriculture points out that the opportunities are especially good in regions where they are fattened commercially for the growing demand of cities. They are easily disturbed and should therefore be handled gently. When mated they are allowed to run in flocks, but each mating may be kept in a colony by itself to keep the flocks from fighting. A gander may be mated with from one to four geese, but pair or trio matings usually give the better results. From four to twenty-five geese may be kept on an acre. Under most conditions ten is a fair average. Free range on grass or stubble is advisable, and many persons in the South keep them to kill weeds in the cotton fields.

Toulouse and Embden geese will breed and produce some stock in their second year but do not mature or give best results for another 12 months. Sometimes they will lay the first year, but the results usually are unsatisfactory, and the eggs often are used for cooking. Females usually are kept until they are eight to ten years old, or as long as they lay well, but ganders seldom are kept after they are six or seven years old. Yearling ganders of the domestic breed often are used for breeding, but both sexes usually are best for breeding when from three to five years old.

PUREBRED POULTRY IS BEST

Good, Plump, Tender Chickens Always Command Top Prices—Scrappy Fowls Are Loss.

There is always a good demand for market poultry and eggs, and there always will be, but like every other commodity, the price received by the seller depends upon the quality of the goods sold. Good, plump, tender chickens, properly fitted, always command the top price, while the scrappy, stazy, inferior stuff has to be sold for whatever it will bring. The farmer who says there is no profit in the poultry business is generally one of those fellows who raise the latter kind.
