CAN TELL COMING WEATHER

Almost Universal Belief That Tabby Has Foreknowledge of Any Approaching Changes.

"Cats have the reputation," says Dunwoody, according to the Detroit News, "of being especially weather-wise, an old notion which has given rise to a most extensive folklore. It is almost universally believed that good weather may be expected when she licks her coat against the grain, or washes herself over the ears, or sits with her tail to the fire.

"As, too, the cat is supposed not only to have knowledge of the state of the weather, but a certain share in the arrangement of it, it is considered by sailors most unwise to provoke a cat. Hence they do not much like to have a cat on board at all, and when one happens to be more frisky than usual they quote a saying that the cat has a gale of wind in her tail. A charm often resorted to for raising a storm is to throw a cat overboard; but, according to the Hungarian proverb, as a cat does not die in the water, its paws disturb the surface—hence the flaws on the surface of the water are called 'cat's paws.' In the same way, also, a large flurry in the water is called a 'cat's skin'; and in some parts of England a popular name for the stormy north-west wind is the 'cat's nose.'

EXCELLENT MOTTO TO ADOPT

David Crockett's Advice "First Be Sure You're Right, Then Go Ahead," Always Good.

David Crockett was the author of the famous motto, "Be sure you are right, then go ahead." It is said to have first appeared in print in Crockett's "Autobiography," published in 1834—appearing on the title page in the following form, says the Detroit News:

"I leave this rule for others when I'm dead. Be always sure you're right—then go ahead."

The statement has been made that "Crockett wrote this highly entertaining history of his own life . . . full of blunders in grammar and misspelled words," although it had been revised and corrected by his more scholarly friends, "but the Britannica speaks of it as 'a so-called autobiography,' which he very probably dictated or at least authorized published in 1834. A work purporting to be a continuation of this autobiography and entitled 'Colonel Crockett's Exploits and Adventures in Texas' is undoubtedly spurious."

John Bartlett, in his "Familiar Quotations," describes "Be sure you are right, then go ahead" as "the motto of David Crockett in the War of 1812."

When Mammoths Roamed the Land. Mastodons and woolly mammoths were once as thick in New York as bison were on the western plains a century ago, according to Dr. Sherman C. Bishop, zoologist of the state museum. Although the mammoths were more closely related to the elephants, the only surviving members of the family, they were the first to become extinct and probably passed off the scene while the mastodons were still thriving. Skeletons of mastodons, more or less complete, and some of them suitable for museum mounting, have been found in about 100 localities in the state, the last one at Temple hill, Orange county, in 1921. The first was found in Columbia county, not far from Albany, in 1705. These huge mammals are believed to have flourished about the end of the last glacial period, some 20,000 years ago. Their skeletons are found generally in the marsh lands of those early days.

Worse and Worse. "How 'yo' feelin' now, Sam?" questioned his wife, entering the hospital ward nervously.

"Liza, I see a sick man," moaned the patient. "De doctors says I's got berkolosis."

"Dat's all right, Sam; we'll take keer of 'yo' an' get rid of dat berkolosis."

The following day, however, when his wife returned Sam was more dejected than ever.

"Tain't no use, Liza; no use. I ain't never gwine git well. De doctors say dis heah mornin' I got two

MUMMIES HAVE TOLD MUCH

Scientific Research Proves That Ancient Egyptians Suffered From Many "Modern" Diseases.

While we do not know just what were the seven plagues of Egypt, we do know that a good many of the diseases of today were present among the Egyptians of Tut-Ankh-Amen's time and earlier. Hardening of the arteries, for example, we have come to blame more or less on the drive and worry of modern life, yet the arteries of mummies buried 3,500 years ago show the plaques and deposits of lime salts typical of arteriosclerosis in all its stages.

We owe much of our knowledge of disease among the early Egyptians to the late Sir Marc Ruffer, president of the sanitary and quarantine council of Egypt during the last years of his life. By means of special solutions for softening and preserving the dried tissues of the mummies, he was able to prepare thin sections of the various organs and study them under the microscope. Owing to the common method of preparing the mummies, which consisted of the removal of most of the internal organs through an opening cut in the left flank, and repacking them after cleaning with sand or rags or, rarely, myrrh and incense, diseases of the organs themselves have not been easy to identify. The organs were replaced hit or miss, as a rule, regardless of where they belonged. Thus in one mummy Ruffer found the kidneys tucked away where the heart belonged, while that organ had crowded out the liver. Such diseases as affect the bones are easily studied, however.

Studies Ancient Graves.

Prof. J. J. Horner, archeologist of the University of Oregon, who has visited what is believed to be the burial ground of an ancient tribe of mound builders, near Albany, Ore., has pronounced the place one of the wonders of primitive Oregon. He said the finds made by Claude Peacock, a farmer, represented a higher type of civilization than previous discoveries in that section.

Professor Horner said the carvings on mortars, the stone pipe and other objects were examples of the highest type of stone workings found in graves of mound builders. He said the discoveries indicated that these mound builders, who antedate the Indians, had the same religion as the sun worshippers of Mexico.

Improved Water Wheel.

A floating water wheel has been patented by an inventor in Prieska, South Africa. This invention is a great revelation, and promises to revolutionize methods of raising water for irrigation purposes, generating electricity, etc. A large model is undergoing its trial in the Orange river, and it is expected that its final adjustments will shortly be given an exhaustive trial. The invention is so constructed that it can rise or fall with the level of the stream, delivering water through hoses, pipes or through a revolving universal rod structure. It can float in the water or rest on firm soil, according to the depth of the stream, and automatically disposes of all obstacles drifting against it.
